PATH TO INDEPENDENCE Divestiture Article

Lilly Announces Intent to Complete Elanco Divestiture

Today Lilly announced its intent to complete the divestiture of its ownership in Elanco through an exchange offer. This is the next major step in our journey to separate from Lilly and be a fully independent company.

The exchange offer is regulated by the US Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) and applicable securities laws. It will enable Lilly to exit its ownership by offering Lilly shareholders the option to exchange their existing Lilly shares for shares of Elanco currently owned by Lilly. The exchange offer will be open to all Lilly shareholders including Elanco employees who own Lilly shares. Lilly will communicate offer details directly. The exchange offer will be open for at least 20 trading days.

As part of this process, Elanco also will file what is called an S-4 registration statement with the SEC. Similar to the S-1 document we filed for our IPO, it provides detailed information on our company and our financials to help Lilly shareholders make an informed decision about whether to participate in the exchange offer.

We thank the entire Lilly organization for their support of Elanco throughout our history, but particularly in the last decade as they supported our growth into a diversified, global company with the size and scope to successfully operate independently, said Jeff Simmons, Elanco president and CEO. Lilly's decision to divest now, we believe, reflects its confidence that we have the right targeted strategy, are successfully progressing the execution of our strategy and are delivering on our commitments to the marketplace.

What Changes for Employees?

The full divestiture will have very little impact on how we operate. This is simply the next step in the separation plan outlined at the time of our IPO. Lilly will continue to provide support to Elanco through the Transition Service Agreements (TSAs) that began at the time of the IPO, including hosting Elanco employees in shared affiliate sites. We have a dedicated team hard at work building the infrastructure systems and processes needed to become a standalone company so we can exit TSAs as quickly as possible. Most extend through 2019 and some for a year or two beyond.

Our continuing key to long-term success as an independent company remains our disciplined execution of our business plans that ladder up to our IPP strategy. That has not changed. Now, more than ever, we must focus on the Elanco way of execution, creating your quarterly rhythm of accountability and review. Owning and achieving our business plans are our pathway to Elanco's and your personal growth.
