RE: Internal Executive Team Announcement
Following the final phases of the SEC review and clearance process and subject to approval by the Crestwood unitholders, we will soon successfully complete the historic merger of Crestwood and Inergy. We are clearly on our path to creating the next great midstream partnership in our industry.

Over the course of the past several weeks I carefully considered how to best position our company for the future by evaluating three components of our businesses: our operations, our business model and our leadership teams. Each step of the process was checked to ensure consistency with our long-term vision and values, to make us competitive in the marketplace, and to enable readiness on Day 1.

With the scale of operations and people that come with the closing of this transaction, we need to structure our operations into two main business units: Natural Gas and Liquids & Crude. The Natural Gas business will combine the Gathering and Processing segment and the Storage and Transportation segment into one consolidated business unit. This structure enables us to better serve our customers while accelerating the timeline for establishing Operations Services, a critical element of scaling and streamlining our enterprise going forward. We also value the focused expertise of strategy and corporate development, finance, accounting and legal and will manage those functions from the corporate center.

With that background, I am excited to announce the executive leadership team that includes a combination of talent from both organizations. This management team will be effective upon the transaction close.

Heath will serve as President of the Natural Gas business unit in the combined organization. In this role, he will oversee all natural gas gathering, processing, storage and transportation operations. Next Steps

These leaders will determine their respective organizations, and will work with the integration team leaders to put the appropriate structures and processes in place to operate effectively on Day 1. I fully recognize that this has been a time of natural anxiety on both sides, and I will continue to do everything I can to maintain open channels of transparent and regular communication.

Closing

This is a tremendous opportunity for us to combine our strengths and assume a leadership position in the midstream value chain. I am confident that our post-closing operating model, executive team and organization will:

Strengthen our combined operations and give us the ability to execute every part of our business plan;

Set heightened standards for leadership in the midstream industry; and

Focus the collective energy of all of our employees, while providing the opportunity for all to contribute to and share in our success.
