Emerson GAAP Underlying Orders – 3 Month Summary

(Percent change. Trailing 3-month average versus prior year.)

	December '10	January '11	February '11
Process Management	>+20	>+20	>+20
Industrial Automation	>+20	>+20	>+20
Network Power	0 to +5	-5 to 0	-5 to 0
Climate Technologies	+5 to +10	+15	+5 to +10
Tools and Storage	0 to +5	+5	+5 to +10
Total Emerson	+10 to +15	+15	+10 to +15

February 2011 Order Comments:

Emerson order trends remained solid in the trailing three-month period driven by strength in capital goods end markets. Orders rates, while still strong, have moderated from their peak level. The trailing three-month orders excluding currency have dropped three points from last month. We expect orders will continue to moderate to normal levels as comparisons get tougher moving forward. Currency exchange rates positively impacted orders by two percentage points.

Process Management orders remained strong due to increased capital spending across all major end markets. Currency exchange rates positively impacted orders by eight percentage points. Trailing three-month order trends excluding currency remained above 20 percent.

Industrial Automation order growth continued to show broad strength driven by the recovery in global capital goods end markets. Order demand was led by the electrical drives and power generating alternator businesses.

Network Power order trends were negative due to tough comparisons for the Network Power business in Asia and the embedded computing and power businesses. Orders in the Network Power business in Asia declined against a more difficult prior year comparison that included the benefit of strong stimulus programs in China. The embedded computing and power businesses are earlier cycle businesses in the Network Power portfolio and typically these businesses strengthen first (these businesses had strong order growth in fiscal 2010), followed by growth in the Network Power Systems businesses. Order growth for the uninterruptible power supply, precision cooling and DC power businesses (i.e., the Network Power Systems businesses), excluding Asia, remained solid.

Climate Technologies order growth moderated as comparisons became increasingly difficult. Comparisons to the prior year periods will remain difficult for the next several months. Strength in North America and Asia was partially offset by weakness in Europe. Asia has started to moderate from the very strong peak levels of last year.

Tools and Storage orders improved slightly, with strength in non-residential construction related businesses partially offset by softness in consumer and residential related businesses.

Upcoming Investor Events:
