On January 15, 2009, CF posted a set of Q&A's to its customers concerning the proposed transaction on its website. A copy of the Q&A's follows.

* * * * *

Q1. Why has CF Industries made a proposal to acquire Terra Industries Inc.?

The combined company would become the number one global producer of nitrogen fertilizers in terms of nutrient capacity among publicly traded companies. We believe that a combination of CF Industries and Terra would create a stronger company better able to compete in the global marketplace, enhancing the viability and continuity of the North American nitrogen production industry. We would also be able to serve our customers better by expanding our domestic and international footprint and through the optimization of the two companies' logistics and distribution systems. Finally, the size of the combined company would provide better access to capital markets to invest in the future growth of our business.

In summary, CF Industries believes this is a unique opportunity to create value for both companies' employees, customers, shareholders and business partners.

Q2. Would this transaction result in any changes to CF or Terra's relationship with customers?

We are excited about the enhanced services that we would be able to provide to more customers. We have enjoyed great relationships with our customers over the years and appreciate your continued support.

Q3. How would this transaction benefit customers?

We believe customers will benefit from the combined companies' capabilities and enhanced services. Combining CF and Terra would expand our coverage in the U.S. and worldwide, leading to lower costs. The optimization of our supply and logistics functions would improve the efficiency of our distribution network and reduce transportation costs. As a combined entity, we would also benefit from greater economies of scale in procurement and purchasing. Customers who have in the past held contracts with Terra would also have access to phosphate.

As a combined company, we would also be better able to compete in the global marketplace while strengthening manufacturing in North America. We will continue to provide products to our customers in a cost efficient, convenient and safe manner.

In addition, all customers would have access to our best-in-class web-based, e-business solution PROMISE system, which will lead to quick access to information for more responsive and timely decision-making. Our service also has a 24 hour-a-day, 7 days-a-week order entry and customer access to shipping, billing and contract status information. Additionally, our forward pricing program (FPP) is designed to help our customers manage future price risk when buying fertilizer.

Q4. How would this transaction affect the prices of products?

As you are aware, the global fertilizer market is highly competitive, and consequently, this transaction will not impact the pricing dynamics for fertilizers.

Q5. Would my day-to-day contact person at CF and Terra change?

It would be premature to discuss specific details, given that we are still early in the process of this proposed transaction. However, we expect to continue to provide excellent service to our customers and maintain our valued relationships.

Q6. Where would corporate headquarters be located?

The corporate headquarters will remain in Deerfield, Illinois.

Q7. Is this transaction a certainty?

Given that we have not reached an agreement with Terra at this time, this transaction is by no means a certainty. However, we believe that this combination is in the best interests of our companies and we hope to enter into discussions with them shortly.

Q8. What are the next steps in this process?

The transaction would be subject to the negotiation of a definitive merger agreement as well as customary regulatory and shareholder approvals. As a result, it would be some time before such a transaction could be completed. There are many steps and decisions ahead of us and we will share more information with you as soon as we learn more and move forward in the process.
