JOINT PROXY STATEMENT/PROSPECTUS

MERGER PROPOSED YOUR VOTE IS VERY IMPORTANT

The respective boards of directors of Nanometrics Incorporated, which we refer to as Nanometrics, and August Technology Corporation, which we refer to as August Technology, have unanimously approved the merger of August Technology with Nanometrics pursuant to the terms and conditions of a merger agreement, dated as of January 21, 2005, between Nanometrics and August Technology. Following the completion of this merger, which we refer to as the August merger, Nanometrics will be renamed August Nanometrics Inc. and we sometimes refer to this combined company as August Nanometrics throughout this joint proxy statement/prospectus. If we complete this merger, August Technology shareholders will receive 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each share of August Technology common stock they own at the completion of the merger and August Technology will become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics. Based on the number of shares of Nanometrics and August Technology outstanding on January 21, 2005, August Technology shareholders will hold approximately 46.5% of the fully-diluted shares of August Nanometrics common stock immediately after this merger, and Nanometrics shareholders will hold approximately 53.5% of the fully-diluted shares of August Nanometrics common stock immediately after this merger. Nanometrics common stock trades on the Nasdaq National Market under the symbol NANO.

Nanometrics and August Technology cannot complete the August merger unless Nanometrics shareholders approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger and August Technology shareholders approve the merger agreement and the August merger. These matters, among others, are included in the proposals to be voted on at the annual meeting of Nanometrics and the special meeting of August Technology, as more fully described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. More information about Nanometrics, August Technology and the August merger is contained in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. We encourage you to read this joint proxy statement/prospectus carefully before voting on the August merger, including the section entitled Risk Factors beginning on page 31.

Nanometrics also is taking this opportunity to call and hold its 2005 annual meeting of shareholders. At the Nanometrics annual meeting, Nanometrics is submitting three additional proposals for the consideration and approval of its shareholders. First, Nanometrics is proposing to reincorporate under the laws of the State of Delaware through a merger with one of its wholly-owned subsidiaries, Minor League Merger Corporation. Throughout this joint proxy statement/prospectus, we refer to this merger as the reincorporation merger. Nanometrics cannot complete the reincorporation merger without the approval of its shareholders, as more fully described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. The August merger, however, is not contingent on the completion of the reincorporation merger. As a result, if we complete the August merger and the reincorporation merger, August Nanometrics will be a Delaware corporation. If we complete the August merger but not the reincorporation merger, August Nanometrics will be a California corporation. For ease of reference, when we refer to Nanometrics throughout this joint proxy statement/prospectus, we are referring to Nanometrics Incorporated, in its current corporate form as a California corporation or to Minor League Merger Corporation, as the Delaware successor to Nanometrics Incorporated following the reincorporation merger.

Second, Nanometrics is proposing the election of seven directors to its board of directors. If Nanometrics seven director nominees are elected and we do not complete the August merger, Nanometrics new directors will hold office until the next annual meeting of Nanometrics shareholders. If Nanometrics seven director nominees are elected and we complete the August merger, however, four of Nanometrics director nominees will resign (leaving three Nanometrics directors on the August Nanometrics board of directors), August Technology will select three of its directors to join the August Nanometrics board of directors and these six directors (the three remaining Nanometrics directors and three directors appointed from the August Technology board of directors) will select a seventh individual to join the August Nanometrics board of directors. Nanometrics has not yet selected the three directors who will remain on the August Nanometrics board of directors nor has August Technology selected the three directors who will join the August Nanometrics board of directors if the August merger is completed.

Third, Nanometrics is proposing that its shareholders ratify the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

The Nanometrics board of directors unanimously recommends that Nanometrics shareholders vote:

FOR the proposal to approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger;

FOR the proposal to approve the reincorporation merger;

FOR Nanometrics seven director nominees to the Nanometrics board of directors; and

FOR the proposal to ratify the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

The August Technology board of directors unanimously recommends that the August Technology shareholders vote FOR August Technology's proposal to approve the merger agreement and the August merger.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS FOR NANOMETRICS SHAREHOLDERS

The following are some questions that shareholders of Nanometrics may have regarding the matters being considered at the annual meeting of Nanometrics shareholders, as well as brief answers to those questions. Nanometrics urges you to read the remainder of this joint proxy statement/prospectus carefully because the information below does not provide all of the information that might be important to you.

Q: Why am I receiving this joint proxy statement/prospectus?

A: The respective boards of directors of Nanometrics and August Technology have unanimously approved the merger of August Technology with Nanometrics in accordance with the terms and conditions of a merger agreement, dated as of January 21, 2005, between Nanometrics and August Technology. Pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement, August Technology will merge with a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics and August Technology will thereby become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics. We refer to this merger herein as the August merger. In connection with the August merger, Nanometrics will be renamed August Nanometrics Inc. If we complete the August merger, August Technology shareholders will receive 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each share of August Technology common stock they own at the completion of the August merger. Based on the number of shares of Nanometrics and August Technology outstanding on January 21, 2005, August Technology shareholders will hold approximately 46.5% of the fully-diluted shares of Nanometrics common stock immediately after the August merger, and Nanometrics shareholders will hold approximately 53.5% of the fully-diluted shares of August Nanometrics common stock immediately after the August merger.

Nanometrics and August Technology cannot complete the August merger unless Nanometrics shareholders approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger. The Nanometrics board of directors is soliciting your proxy to vote FOR Nanometrics proposal to approve the issuance of shares of Nanometrics common stock in the August merger. This joint proxy statement/prospectus describes Nanometrics, August Technology and the August merger so that you may make an informed decision with respect to this merger proposal.

Nanometrics also is taking this opportunity to call and hold its 2005 annual meeting of shareholders. At the Nanometrics annual meeting, Nanometrics is submitting three additional proposals for the consideration and approval of its shareholders. First, Nanometrics is proposing to reincorporate under the laws of the State of Delaware through a merger with one of its wholly-owned subsidiaries, Minor League Merger Corporation. Nanometrics cannot complete the reincorporation merger without the approval of its shareholders, as more fully described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. The August merger, however, is not contingent on the completion of the reincorporation merger. As a result, if Nanometrics and August Technology complete the August merger and the reincorporation merger, August Nanometrics will be a Delaware corporation. However, if Nanometrics and August Technology complete the August merger but not the reincorporation merger, August Nanometrics will be a California corporation.

Second, Nanometrics is proposing the election of seven directors to its board of directors. If Nanometrics seven director nominees are elected and Nanometrics and August Technology do not complete the August merger, Nanometrics new directors will hold office until the next annual meeting of Nanometrics shareholders. If Nanometrics seven director nominees are elected and Nanometrics and August Technology complete the August merger, however, four of Nanometrics director nominees will resign (leaving three Nanometrics directors on the August Nanometrics board of directors), August Technology will select three of its directors to join the August Nanometrics board of directors and these six directors (the three remaining Nanometrics directors and three directors appointed from the August Technology board of directors) will select a seventh individual to join the August Nanometrics board of directors. Nanometrics has not yet selected the three directors who will remain on the August Nanometrics board of directors nor has August Technology selected the three directors who will join the August Nanometrics board of directors if the August merger is completed.

Third, Nanometrics is proposing that you ratify the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics' independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics' fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

Questions and Answers about the August Merger

Q: Why are Nanometrics and August Technology proposing the August merger? (See page 85)

A: Nanometrics and August Technology believe that by combining the highly complementary, non-overlapping product lines of the two companies, August Nanometrics can generate improved long-term operating and financial results and establish a stronger competitive position in the industry. The boards of directors of Nanometrics and August Technology also believe that August Nanometrics will have the ability to provide a more comprehensive and better integrated set of tools to its customers, gain increased access to capital, create additional opportunities for marketing its products, respond more quickly and effectively to technological change, increased consolidation and industry demands, and provide more effective support coverage to its customers.

In addition, the Nanometrics board of directors believes that August Nanometrics can achieve greater scale and presence in the semiconductor equipment industry, provide an opportunity for increased sales and better integrated and broader product line, as well as provide Nanometrics shareholders with the opportunity to participate in the potential for growth of the combined company after the August merger.

The full text of Adams Harkness written opinion is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex C. We encourage you to read this opinion carefully in its entirety for a description of the procedures followed, assumptions made, matters considered and limitations on the review undertaken. Adams Harkness opinion is directed to the Nanometrics board of directors and addresses only the fairness from a financial point of view of the exchange ratio for August Technology common stock provided for in the merger agreement as of the date of the opinion. These interests include:

the appointment of three current directors of Nanometrics as directors of August Nanometrics upon completion of the August merger, and the appointment of certain executive officers of Nanometrics as executive officers of August Nanometrics upon completion of the August merger;

the potential receipt of severance payments, payable to the following executive officers in the following respective amounts if they were required to resign from their respective positions with Nanometrics in connection with the August merger:

and the provision of directors and officers insurance coverage to current directors and officers of Nanometrics following the August merger.

The Nanometrics board of directors was aware of these interests and considered them, among other matters, when making its determination to approve the merger agreement and when making its recommendation that the Nanometrics shareholders approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger.

Questions and Answers about the Reincorporation Merger

Q: Why is Nanometrics proposing the reincorporation merger? (See page 165)

A: The Nanometrics board of directors has determined that it is prudent to reincorporate under the laws of the State of Delaware because it is important for Nanometrics to be able to draw upon well-established principles of corporate governance in making legal and business decisions. The prominence and predictability of Delaware corporate law provides a reliable foundation on which our governance decisions can be based, and Nanometrics believes that its shareholders will benefit from the responsiveness of Delaware corporate law to their needs and the needs of the corporation they own.

Q: What will I receive in the reincorporation merger? (See page 164)

A: If Nanometrics completes the reincorporation merger, each share of Nanometrics common stock will be automatically converted into one share of Minor League Merger Corporation, which is currently a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics incorporated under the laws of the State of Delaware.

Q: What are the United States federal income tax consequences of the reincorporation merger to me? (See page 167)

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

A: The reincorporation merger will constitute a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. As a result, you will not recognize any gain or loss for United States federal income tax purposes as a result of the reincorporation merger.

Q: When does Nanometrics expect to complete the reincorporation merger?

A: If Nanometrics shareholders approve the reincorporation merger and the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger, Nanometrics will complete the reincorporation merger immediately prior to completing the August merger. If Nanometrics shareholders approve the reincorporation merger but do not approve the August merger, Nanometrics will complete the reincorporation as soon as practicable following the Nanometrics annual meeting.

Q: What vote is required by Nanometrics shareholders to approve the reincorporation merger? (See page 168)

A: The Nanometrics board of directors unanimously recommends that you vote FOR Nanometrics proposal to approve the reincorporation merger.

Q: Will Nanometrics proceed with the August merger if the Nanometrics shareholders do not approve the reincorporation merger?

A: Yes. The reincorporation merger is not a condition to completion of the August merger and Nanometrics intends to proceed with the August merger even if Nanometrics does not obtain the requisite shareholder approval to complete the reincorporation merger.

Q: Will Nanometrics proceed with the reincorporation merger if the Nanometrics shareholders do not approve the August merger?

A: Yes. If Nanometrics obtains the requisite shareholder approval to complete the reincorporation merger, but Nanometrics and August Technology do not proceed with the August merger, Nanometrics still intends to proceed with the reincorporation merger.

Additional Questions and Answers

Q: What other matters are Nanometrics shareholders being asked to vote on at the Nanometrics annual meeting? (See page 62)

A: In addition to the August merger and the reincorporation merger, Nanometrics shareholders are being asked to approve:

Nanometrics seven director nominees to the Nanometrics board of directors to serve until the next annual meeting of Nanometrics shareholders at which their respective successors are elected and qualified, or until the earlier of their death, resignation or removal; and Nanometrics proposal to ratify the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

Q: Will all of the Nanometrics directors elected at the annual meeting continue to serve if the August merger is completed? (See page 121)

A: No. If Nanometrics seven director nominees are elected and Nanometrics and August Technology complete the August merger, four of Nanometrics directors will resign (leaving three Nanometrics directors on the August Nanometrics board of directors), August Technology will select three of its directors to join the August Nanometrics board of directors and these six directors (the three remaining Nanometrics directors and three directors appointed from the August Technology board of directors) will select a seventh individual to join the August Nanometrics board of directors. Nanometrics has not yet selected the three directors who will remain on the August Nanometrics board of directors nor has August Technology selected the three directors who will join the August Nanometrics board of directors if the August merger is completed.

In addition, the August Nanometrics organizational documents will provide for a classified board of directors consisting of three classes. Class I will be comprised of one director from the Nanometrics board of directors and one director from the August Technology board of directors. Class II will be comprised of one director from the Nanometrics board of directors and one director from the August Technology board of directors. Class III will consist of one director from the Nanometrics board of directors, one director from the August Technology board of directors and the additional director selected by Nanometrics and August Technology. Class I directors will serve for an initial term of one year and for three-year terms thereafter, if re-elected. Class II directors will serve for an initial term of two years and three-year terms thereafter, if re-elected. Class III directors will serve for an initial term of three years and three-year terms thereafter, if re-elected. As noted above, Nanometrics and August Technology have not yet determined the composition of the August Nanometrics board of directors, so consequently, they have not yet determined which directors will be in the various classes of directors either.

A: Nanometrics board of directors unanimously recommends that Nanometrics shareholders vote:

FOR Nanometrics seven director nominees to the Nanometrics board of directors to serve until the next annual meeting of Nanometrics shareholders at which their respective successors are elected and qualified, or until the earlier of their death, resignation or removal; and

Q: What do I need to do now?

A: You should read and consider the information contained in this joint proxy statement/prospectus carefully. You also may want to review the documents referenced under the section titled Additional Information Where You Can Find More Information beginning on page 185. You should then vote your shares of Nanometrics common stock in accordance with the instructions in this joint proxy statement/prospectus as soon as possible so that your shares are represented at the Nanometrics annual meeting.

Q: How do I vote or submit my voting instructions? (See page 64)

A: If you are the holder of record of your shares of Nanometrics common stock, you may vote in person at the Nanometrics annual meeting or by submitting a proxy card for the annual meeting. You can vote your shares of Nanometrics common stock by proxy by completing, signing, dating and returning the enclosed proxy card for the annual meeting and returning it in the enclosed pre-paid envelope.

If you hold your shares of Nanometrics common stock through a broker, bank or other nominee (i.e., in street name), you must provide the record holder of your shares with instructions on how to vote your shares at the Nanometrics annual meeting. Please refer to the voting instruction card delivered to you by your broker, bank or other nominee for instructions on how to direct the record holder of your shares to vote your shares at the Nanometrics annual meeting. If you hold your shares of Nanometrics common stock in street name, you must obtain a legal proxy from the record holder of your shares in order to attend the Nanometrics annual meeting and vote in person. If you wish to do so, please contact the broker, bank or other nominee that holds your shares of Nanometrics common stock for instructions on how to obtain a legal proxy for this purpose.

Q: What happens if I do not vote? (See page 65)

A: If you do not vote in person at the Nanometrics annual meeting or submit a proxy card for the Nanometrics annual meeting, your shares of Nanometrics common stock will not be counted as present at the annual meeting for the purpose of determining the presence of a quorum at the annual meeting, but will have the same effect as a vote against approval of the reincorporation merger. Furthermore, broker non-votes will be counted as present at the annual meeting for purposes of determining the presence of a quorum at the annual meeting, but will have the same effect as a vote against approval of the reincorporation merger. If you submit a proxy card for the Nanometrics annual meeting and affirmatively elect to abstain from voting, your proxy will be counted as present for the purpose of determining the presence of a quorum at the annual meeting but will not be voted at the annual meeting. As a result, your abstention will have the same effect as a vote against the approval of the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger, the approval of the reincorporation merger and the ratification of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

Q: If my shares are held in street name, will my broker, bank, or nominee vote my shares for me on the merger transaction proposals?
(See page 66)

A: No. The broker, bank, or other nominee that holds your shares of Nanometrics common stock cannot vote your shares of Nanometrics common stock at the Nanometrics annual meeting unless you provide them with instructions on how to vote your shares in accordance with the information and procedures they provided to you.

Table of Contents

Q: Can I change my vote after I have mailed my signed proxy or instruction form? (See page 65)

A: Yes. If you are the record holder of your shares of Nanometrics common stock, you can change your vote at any time before your proxy is voted at the Nanometrics annual meeting by:

delivering to the Nanometrics corporate secretary a signed notice of revocation;

granting the Nanometrics proxy holders a new, later-dated proxy, which must be signed and delivered to the Nanometrics corporate secretary in advance of the vote at the Nanometrics annual meeting; or attending the Nanometrics annual meeting and voting in person. Your attendance alone, however, will not revoke your previously granted proxy.

If you hold your shares in street name and you have provided voting instructions to the broker, bank or other nominee that holds your shares of Nanometrics common stock for use at the Nanometrics annual meeting, you must follow the instructions of your broker, bank or other nominee in order to change your vote or revoke your proxy for the Nanometrics annual meeting.

Q: Should I send in my stock certificates now? (See page 65)

A: No. You should not submit your stock certificates for Nanometrics shares because your certificates will not be exchanged in connection with the August merger or the reincorporation merger.

Q: What should I do if I receive more than one set of voting materials? (See page 65)

A: You may receive more than one set of voting materials for the Nanometrics annual meeting, including multiple copies of this joint proxy statement/prospectus and multiple proxy cards or voting instruction cards. For example, if you are a record holder of your shares of Nanometrics common stock and your shares are registered in more than one name, you will receive more than one proxy card for the annual meeting. If you hold your shares of Nanometrics common stock in more than one brokerage account, you will receive a separate voting instruction card for each brokerage account in which you hold shares. In addition, if you are a shareholder of Nanometrics and a shareholder of August Technology, you will receive one or more separate proxy cards or voting instruction cards for each company. Please complete, sign, date and return each proxy card and voting instruction card that you receive to ensure that your shares will be represented at the Nanometrics annual meeting.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS FOR AUGUST TECHNOLOGY SHAREHOLDERS

The following are some questions that shareholders of August Technology may have regarding the matters being considered at the special meeting of August Technology shareholders, as well as brief answers to those questions. August Technology urges you to read the remainder of this joint proxy statement/prospectus carefully because the information below does not provide all of the information that might be important to you.

Q: Why am I receiving this joint proxy statement/prospectus?

A: The respective boards of directors of Nanometrics and August Technology have unanimously approved the merger of August Technology with Nanometrics in accordance with the terms and conditions of a merger agreement, dated as of January 21, 2005, between Nanometrics and August Technology. Pursuant to the terms of the merger agreement, August Technology will merge with a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics and August Technology will thereby become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics. In connection with the August merger, Nanometrics will be renamed August Nanometrics Inc. If we complete the August merger, August Technology shareholders will receive 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each share of August Technology common stock they own at the completion of the merger. Based on the number of shares of Nanometrics and August Technology outstanding on January 21, 2005, August Technology shareholders will hold approximately 46.5% of the fully-diluted shares of August Nanometrics common stock immediately after the August merger, and Nanometrics shareholders will hold approximately 53.5% of the fully-diluted shares of August Nanometrics common stock immediately after the August merger.

Nanometrics and August Technology cannot complete the August merger unless August Technology shareholders approve the merger agreement and the August merger. The August Technology board of directors is soliciting your proxy to vote FOR August Technology's proposal to approve the merger agreement and the August merger. This joint proxy statement/prospectus describes Nanometrics, August Technology and the August merger so that you may make an informed decision with respect to this proposal.

Q: Why are August Technology and Nanometrics proposing the August merger? (See page 85)

A: Nanometrics and August Technology believe that by combining the highly complementary, non-overlapping product lines of the two companies, August Nanometrics can generate improved long-term operating and financial results and establish a stronger competitive position in the industry. The boards of directors of Nanometrics and August Technology also believe that August Nanometrics will have the ability to provide a more comprehensive and better integrated set of tools to its customers, gain increased access to capital, create additional opportunities for marketing its products, respond more quickly and effectively to technological change, increased consolidation and industry demands, and provide more effective support coverage to its customers.

In addition, the August Technology board of directors believes that August Nanometrics will be able to, among other things, take advantage of cross-selling opportunities, realize cost savings by consolidating certain general and administration functions and eliminating redundant expenses, create growth opportunities, provide economies of scale and create greater resources to enable it to compete more effectively with competitors.

Q: What are the risks relating to the August merger?

A: The August merger involves numerous risks and uncertainties, including, but not limited to, the following: the risk that August Technology shareholders will receive less in value for the shares of August Technology common stock if the market price of Nanometrics common stock declines; the expense, time and disruption of August Technology's business related to integrating the operations of Nanometrics and August Technology; the anticipated benefits and synergies of the August merger may not be realized; the trading price of August Technology common stock may decline if the August merger is not completed; and customers, distributors, resellers or others may delay or defer decisions concerning August Technology during the pendency, or as a result of, the August merger.

We encourage you to read this joint proxy statement/prospectus carefully, including the section entitled Risk Factors beginning on page 31, for a complete discussion of risks associated with the August merger and August Nanometrics.

Q: What will I receive in the August merger? (See page 112)

A: Each share of August Technology common stock will be converted into the right to receive 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock. August Nanometrics will make a cash payment to August Technology shareholders for any fractional shares of August Nanometrics common stock they would otherwise be entitled to receive instead of issuing fractional shares. The number of shares of August Nanometrics common stock to be issued for each share of August Technology common stock is fixed and will not be adjusted for changes in the market values of Nanometrics or August Technology common stock before completion of the August merger. As a result, the value of the August Nanometrics common stock that August Technology shareholders will receive in the transaction will vary as the market price of Nanometrics common stock fluctuates.

Example: If you own 100 shares of August Technology common stock, then as a result of the August merger, you will receive 64 shares of August Nanometrics common stock and the value of 0.01 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock paid out in cash.

Q: How will August Technology stock options be affected by the August merger? (See page 113)

A: At the completion of the August merger, August Nanometrics will assume all outstanding options to purchase August Technology common stock under the August Technology 1997 Stock Incentive Plan. Each option to purchase a share of August Technology common stock outstanding immediately prior to the effective time of the August merger under this plan will become an option to purchase, on the same terms, 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each share of August Technology common stock for which the option was exercisable, with the option exercise price adjusted accordingly. In addition, certain outstanding options to purchase August Technology common stock will become fully vested and immediately exercisable as a result of the August merger. Prior to the completion of the August merger, August Technology will terminate the August Technology 2000 Employee Stock Purchase Plan and all outstanding purchase rights will be automatically exercised, unless Nanometrics instructs August Technology otherwise, and no further shares of August Technology will be issued pursuant to such plan.

Q: What are the United States federal income tax consequences of the August merger to me? (See page 106)

A: It is a condition to the August merger that each of August Technology and Nanometrics receive a legal opinion to the effect that the August merger will constitute a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code. Assuming that the August merger so qualifies, August Technology shareholders generally will not recognize gain or loss for United States federal income tax purposes as a result of the August merger, except for gain or loss attributable to cash received by August Technology shareholders instead of fractional shares.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

The tax consequences of the August merger to August Technology shareholders may vary depending upon each such shareholder's situation. Each August Technology shareholder is urged to consult its own tax advisors with respect to the tax consequences of the August merger.

Q: When do Nanometrics and August expect to complete the August merger?

A: Nanometrics and August Technology are working to complete the August merger as quickly as possible. Nanometrics and August Technology currently expect to complete the August merger by the end of the second quarter of 2005. Nanometrics and August Technology cannot predict the exact timing of the completion of the August merger, however, because it is subject to several conditions beyond their control, including approval by the shareholders of both Nanometrics and August Technology.

Q: What vote is required by August Technology shareholders to approve the August merger? (See page 68)

A: Under applicable state law, August Technology cannot complete the August merger unless the merger agreement and the August merger are approved by the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the voting power of all shares of common stock of August Technology entitled to vote on such matters. As of the record date for the August Technology special meeting, there were _____ shares of August Technology common stock outstanding, which means the affirmative vote of the holders of _____ shares of August Technology common stock is required to approve the August merger.

Q: What vote is required by August Technology shareholders to approve the reincorporation merger?

A: None. Only Nanometrics shareholders are entitled to vote on the reincorporation merger. Further, under the terms of the merger agreement, if Nanometrics does not complete the reincorporation, for whatever reason, the August merger may still be completed by August Technology and Nanometrics if all of the conditions to completing that August merger are satisfied or waived.

Q: How does the August Technology board of directors recommend that I vote on the August merger? (See page 98)

A: The August Technology board of directors unanimously recommends that you vote FOR August Technology's proposal to approve the merger agreement and the August merger.

Q: Did the August Technology board of directors obtain a fairness opinion in connection with its determination to proceed with the August merger? (See page 98)

A: Yes. On January 20, 2005, Needham & Company, Inc., or Needham & Company, financial advisor to August Technology, delivered to the August Technology board of directors its written opinion that, as of that date and based upon and subject to the assumptions and other matters described in the written opinion, the exchange ratio for August Technology common stock provided for in the merger agreement was fair from a financial point of view to the holders of August Technology common stock. The full text of the Needham & Company opinion is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex D. We encourage you to read the Needham & Company opinion carefully in its entirety for a description of the procedures followed, assumptions made, matters considered and limitations on the review undertaken. Needham & Company's opinion is directed to the August Technology board of directors and addresses only the fairness from a financial point of view to the holders of August Technology common stock of the exchange ratio for August Technology common stock provided for in the merger agreement as of the date of the opinion. August Technology has paid or agreed to pay Needham & Company a nonrefundable fee for rendering the Needham & Company opinion and an additional fee for financial advisory services. A substantial portion of Needham & Company's fees, consisting of the fee for financial advisory services, is contingent on consummation of the August merger.

Q: I have heard that Rudolph Technologies, Inc. and KLA-Tencor Corporation have made unsolicited bids to acquire August Technology. What is the status of discussions with these companies?

A: On January 27, 2005, August Technology received a letter from Rudolph Technologies, Inc., or Rudolph, stating that Rudolph is prepared to enter into a merger with August Technology based on a share exchange ratio of 0.6239 of a share of Rudolph stock for each share of August Technology common stock (equivalent to $10.50 per share of August Technology common stock based on the closing price of Rudolph stock on January 27, 2005). The letter stated that each August Technology shareholder may elect to receive all cash, stock or a combination of cash and stock, subject to proration based on total cash consideration of $40 million. Pursuant to its obligations under the merger agreement with Nanometrics, August Technology delivered a copy of the letter to Nanometrics. On the same day, Rudolph issued a press release with proposed terms that were slightly different from those described in the letter received by August Technology. The press release stated that Rudolph is prepared to enter into a merger with August Technology whereby each shareholder of August Technology will receive the value of $2.16 per share in cash and 0.4955 per share in Rudolph common stock (equivalent to $10.50 per share of August Technology common stock, based on the closing price of Rudolph stock on January 27, 2005). The press release stated that each August Technology shareholder would have the option to elect to receive all cash, stock or a combination of cash and stock, subject to proration based on total cash consideration of $40 million. August Technology has indicated that it is not for sale but, in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology, it would be willing to discuss a potential transaction with Rudolph once Rudolph executes a confidentiality agreement containing provisions that are no less favorable to August Technology than those contained in August Technology's confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics. Rudolph and August Technology have been engaged in discussions to reach agreement on the form of confidentiality agreement but have not yet executed such an agreement.

On February 9, 2005, August Technology received a letter from KLA-Tencor Corporation, or KLA, regarding KLA's interest in pursuing a merger with August Technology. The letter stated that KLA proposed to acquire August Technology in a transaction in which the August Technology shareholders would receive $11.50 in cash per share. KLA also stated that it would be willing to consider using stock as consideration. In a press release dated February 11, 2005, August Technology's board of directors reiterated that August Technology is not for sale. August Technology's board of directors also stated that it had no interest in considering KLA's cash offer, but that in order to fulfill its fiduciary obligations it would investigate the alternative of a transaction in which the consideration to August Technology shareholders would consist of KLA stock at an exchange ratio per share which reflects the intrinsic value of August Technology. The board of directors also stated it believes that several issues, including antitrust concerns, would need to be considered and resolved before any transaction with KLA could be completed. With these conditions and concerns in mind, in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology, August Technology's board of directors indicated that it would be willing to discuss a potential transaction with KLA if KLA executes a confidentiality agreement containing provisions that are no less favorable to August Technology than those contained in August Technology's confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics. KLA and August Technology have been unable to reach agreement on the form of confidentiality agreement and have had no discussions regarding the confidentiality agreement since early March.

August Technology's board of directors determined, after consulting with August Technology's financial and legal advisors, that, despite the offers from Rudolph and KLA, continuing to pursue the August merger is in the best interests of August Technology and its shareholders because it provides the highest potential long-term value for the August Technology shareholders. For a complete discussion of the consideration the August Technology board of directors gave the Rudolph and KLA offers, we encourage you to read the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled The August Merger Background of the Merger beginning on page 71.

On March 15, 2005, August Technology received notification of early termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, or the HSR Act, applicable to the August merger. Termination or expiration of this waiting period is a condition to the August merger.

In addition, the Antitrust Division of the United States Department of Justice, or the Department of Justice, has notified August Technology that it has commenced an investigation into the competitive aspects of the offers submitted to August Technology by Rudolph and KLA. No further information regarding the timing or scope of the investigation was made available to August Technology.

Q: Does a vote AGAINST the August merger mean that I am voting for August Technology to complete a deal with Rudolph or KLA?

A: No. Even if the August merger is not approved by August Technology's shareholders or cannot be completed for other reasons, there is no guarantee that any agreement can be reached on acceptable terms with either Rudolph, KLA, or any other party.

Q: How do the August Technology directors and executive officers intend to vote on the August merger? (See page 127)

A: All of the August Technology directors and executive officers have entered into voting agreements with Nanometrics pursuant to which they have agreed to vote all of their respective shares of August Technology common stock in favor of August Technology's proposal to approve the merger agreement and the August merger.

Nanometrics is a leader in the design, manufacture, and marketing of high-performance process control metrology systems used in the manufacture of semiconductors/integrated circuits and flat panel displays. Nanometrics' metrology systems (i) measure various thin film properties, critical circuit dimensions and layer-to-layer circuit alignment (overlay) and (ii) inspect for surface defects during various steps of the manufacturing process, enabling semiconductor and integrated circuit manufacturers to improve yields, increase productivity and lower their manufacturing costs. The relative alignment of sequentially patterned thin film layers is critical to device production.

Nanometrics has been a pioneer and innovator in the field of metrology for nearly three decades. It has been selling metrology systems since 1977 and has an extensive installed base with industry leading customers worldwide, including Applied Materials Inc., Samsung, Hynix Semiconductor Inc., IBM, Intel Corporation, Micron Technology, Inc., TSMC Ltd., Renesas, Powerchip, UMC, Ebara, Chi Mei, AU Optronics and Hannstar.

August Technology Corporation

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

4900 West 78th Street

Bloomington, Minnesota 55435

(952) 820-0060

August Technology is a world-class provider of automated defect detection and product characterization systems for microelectronic device manufacturers. August Technology's systems provide these manufacturers with information that enables process-enhancing decisions, ultimately lowering manufacturing costs, improving time-to-market and enhancing the performance of their products. August Technology combines its core competencies in machine vision technology, optics, lighting and precision motion control with its proprietary software and extensive microelectronic-specific applications experience to deliver scalable, modular systems that excel at the automated detection of advanced macro defects, which August Technology defines to be defects greater in size than 0.5 micron. August Technology sells its systems to many of the leading microelectronic device manufacturers throughout the world within the markets of semiconductors, advanced packaging applications, optoelectronics MEMS, data storage and other emerging markets.

August Technology has traditionally provided systems to address the automated inspection needs of the early stages of the final manufacturing or back-end of the microelectronic device manufacturing process. These needs were met primarily with August Technology's NSX Series and 3Di Series of products. In 2003, August Technology introduced the AXi Series for frontside advanced macro detection in the front-end of the wafer manufacturing process and within one year, August Technology added the E-20 for wafer edge inspection and the B-20 for wafer backside inspection. When used in combination the AXi/E-20/B-20 is the industry's first true all-surface advanced macro inspection solution allowing device manufacturers to inspect the top, edge and bottom of a wafer's surface. August Technology complements this broad inspection capability with an expanding suite of software tools designed to enhance the speed and effectiveness of the process by which device manufacturers analyze defects and make decisions regarding their manufacturing process to reduce or eliminate such defects. August Technology refers to this process as the detection-to-decision process.

The Merger Agreement (See page 112)

On January 21, 2005, Nanometrics and August Technology entered into a merger agreement providing for, among other things, the August merger and the reincorporation merger. We have attached the merger agreement to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A. We encourage you to carefully read the merger agreement in its entirety because it is the legal document that governs the August merger.

Merger Consideration (See page 112)

August Technology shareholders will receive 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each share of August Technology common stock they own at the completion of the August merger.

August Nanometrics will not issue fractional shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger. As a result, each August Technology shareholder will receive cash for any fractional share of August Nanometrics common stock the shareholder would otherwise be entitled to receive in the August merger.

Treatment of August Technology Stock Options and ESPP (See page 113)

At the completion of the August merger, each outstanding option to purchase August Technology common stock will be assumed by August Nanometrics and converted into an option to acquire August Nanometrics common stock. Pursuant to the terms of August Technology's 1997 Stock Incentive Plan, approximately 500,000 options of the 1.3 million options to purchase shares of August Technology common stock assumed by August Nanometrics will vest at the completion of the August merger.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

Prior to the completion of the August merger, August Technology will terminate its employee stock purchase plan and all outstanding purchase rights will be automatically exercised unless Nanometrics instructs August Technology otherwise, and no further shares of August Technology will be issued pursuant to such plan.

Non-Solicitation Restrictions (See page 118)

The merger agreement contains detailed provisions that prohibit Nanometrics and August Technology and the subsidiaries of each of them, as well as their officers, directors and representatives, from taking any action to solicit or engage in discussions or negotiations with any person or group with respect to certain types of alternative acquisition proposals. The merger agreement does not, however, prohibit either party or its board of directors from considering and recommending to the party's shareholders an unsolicited alternative acquisition proposal from a third party if specified conditions are met.

Conditions to Completion of August Merger (See page 122)

Under the terms of the merger agreement, Nanometrics and August Technology are not required to complete the August merger until the following conditions have been satisfied:

the receipt of the approval of the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger by Nanometrics shareholders, and the approval of the merger agreement and the August merger by August Technology shareholders;

the expiration or termination of the waiting period, or any extension of the waiting period, under the HSR Act, (which condition has been satisfied) and receipt of all clearances, consents and approvals necessary for completion of the August merger under United States and foreign antitrust laws;

the absence of any legal restraints or prohibitions preventing the completion of the August merger;

the authorization for listing on the Nasdaq National Market of the shares of August Nanometrics common stock to be issued in the August merger;

the delivery to each party of tax opinions of legal counsel to the effect that the August merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code;

the representations and warranties of each party contained in the merger agreement being true and correct, except to the extent that breaches of these representations and warranties would not result in a material adverse effect on the representing party;

the performance or compliance in all material respects of each party with all agreements and covenants contained in the merger agreement at the completion of the August merger; and the absence of events or developments since the date of the merger agreement that would reasonably be expected to have a material adverse effect with respect to either party.

Either Nanometrics or August Technology may waive the conditions to the performance of its respective obligations under the merger agreement and complete the August merger even though one or more of these conditions has not been met. Neither Nanometrics nor August Technology can give any assurance that all of the conditions to the August merger will be either satisfied or waived or that the August merger will occur.

The reincorporation is not a condition to completion of the August merger and Nanometrics intends to proceed with the August merger even if Nanometrics does not obtain the requisite shareholder approval to complete the reincorporation merger.

Termination Rights and Fees (See page 124)

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

Under circumstances specified in the merger agreement, either Nanometrics or August Technology may terminate the merger agreement. Subject to the limitations set forth in the merger agreement, the circumstances generally include if:

the August merger is not completed by September 30, 2005;

a non-appealable final order of a court or other action of any governmental authority has the effect of permanently prohibiting completion of the August merger;

the required approval of the shareholders of each of Nanometrics and August Technology has not been obtained at its respective shareholder meeting;

the other party breaches its representations, warranties or covenants in the merger agreement such that its conditions to completion of the August merger regarding representations, warranties or covenants would not be satisfied;

the other party has not complied with the provisions of the merger agreement relating to non-solicitation and board recommendations; or the other party consents to termination.

If the August merger is not completed under certain circumstances specified in the merger agreement, Nanometrics or August Technology may be required to pay the other $8.3 million, plus expenses.

Accounting Treatment of the August Merger (See page 108)

August Nanometrics will account for the August merger as a purchase business combination under United States generally accepted accounting principles.

Regulatory Matters Relating to the August Merger (See page 108)

The August merger is subject to antitrust laws. Nanometrics and August Technology have made all required filings under applicable antitrust laws with the Department of Justice and the United States Federal Trade Commission, which is referred to as the FTC. On March 15, 2005, the FTC informed Nanometrics and August Technology that early termination of the waiting period associated with these filings has been granted.

Listing of August Nanometrics Common Stock (See page 109)

Nanometrics will apply to have the shares of August Nanometrics common stock to be issued in the August merger to holders of August Technology common stock approved for listing on the Nasdaq National Market.

Delisting and Deregistration of August Technology Common Stock (See page 109)

If the August merger is completed, August Technology common stock will no longer be listed on the Nasdaq National Market and will be deregistered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, which is referred to as the Exchange Act, and August Technology will no longer file periodic reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Recent Developments

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

On January 27, 2005, August Technology received a letter from Rudolph Technologies, Inc., or Rudolph, stating that Rudolph is prepared to enter into a merger with August Technology based on a share exchange ratio of 0.6239 of a share of Rudolph stock for each share of August Technology common stock (equivalent to $10.50 per share of August Technology common stock based on the closing price of Rudolph stock on January 27, 2005). The letter stated that each August Technology shareholder may elect to receive all cash, stock or a combination of cash and stock, subject to proration based on total cash consideration of $40 million. Pursuant to its obligations under the merger agreement with Nanometrics, August Technology delivered a copy of the letter to Nanometrics. On the same day, Rudolph issued a press release with proposed terms that were slightly different from those described in the letter received by August Technology. The press release stated that Rudolph is prepared to enter into a merger with August Technology whereby each shareholder of August Technology will receive the value of $2.16 per share in cash and 0.4955 per share in Rudolph common stock (equivalent to $10.50 per share of August Technology common stock, based on the closing price of Rudolph stock on January 27, 2005). The press release stated that each August Technology shareholder would have the option to elect to receive all cash, stock or a combination of cash and stock, subject to proration based on total cash consideration of $40 million. August Technology has indicated that it is not for sale but, in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology, it would be willing to discuss a potential transaction with Rudolph if Rudolph executes a confidentiality agreement containing provisions that are no less favorable to August Technology than those contained in August Technology's confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics. Rudolph and August Technology have been engaged in discussions to reach agreement on the form of confidentiality agreement but have not yet executed such an agreement.

On February 9, 2005, August Technology received a letter from KLA-Tencor Corporation, or KLA, regarding KLA's interest in pursuing a merger with August Technology. The letter stated that KLA proposed to acquire August Technology in a transaction in which the August Technology shareholders would receive $11.50 in cash per share. KLA also stated that it would be willing to consider using stock as consideration. In a press release dated February 11, 2005, August Technology's board of directors reiterated that August Technology is not for sale. August Technology's board of directors also stated that it had no interest in considering KLA's cash offer, but that in order to fulfill its fiduciary obligations it would investigate the alternative of a transaction in which the consideration to August Technology shareholders would consist of KLA stock at an exchange ratio per share which reflects the intrinsic value of August Technology. The board of directors also stated that it believes that several issues, including antitrust concerns, would need to be considered and resolved before any transaction with KLA could be completed. With these conditions and concerns in mind, in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology, August Technology's board of directors indicated that it would be willing to discuss a potential transaction with KLA if KLA executes a confidentiality agreement containing provisions that are no less favorable to August Technology than those contained in August Technology's confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics. KLA and August Technology have unable to reach agreement on the form of such a confidentiality agreement and have had no discussions regarding the confidentiality agreement since early March.

August Technology's board of directors determined, after consulting with August Technology's financial and legal advisors, that, despite the offers from Rudolph and KLA, continuing to pursue the August merger is in the best interests of August Technology and its shareholders because it provides the highest potential long-term value for the August Technology shareholders. For a complete discussion of the consideration the August Technology board of directors gave the Rudolph and KLA offers, we encourage you to read the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled The August Merger Background of the August Merger beginning on page 71.

On March 15, 2005, August Technology received notification of early termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, applicable to the August merger. Termination or expiration of this waiting period is a condition to the August merger.

In addition, the Antitrust Division of the United States Department of Justice has notified August Technology that it has commenced an investigation into the competitive aspects of the offers submitted to August Technology by Rudolph and KLA. No further information regarding the timing or scope of the investigation was made available to August Technology.

On March 14, 2005, Nanometrics announced that it has received notice of a patent infringement lawsuit brought by Nova Measuring Instruments, Ltd. alleging infringement of United States Patent No. 6,752,689, or the 689 Patent. Nanometrics believes that its products do not infringe any valid claim of the 689 patent and that the lawsuit will not have a material impact on its business and operating results.

Legal Proceedings Regarding the August Merger

On February 4, 2005, a shareholder class action lawsuit was filed in Minnesota state court against August Technology and the August Technology board of directors. The lawsuit claims that the directors breached their fiduciary duties to August Technology's shareholders in connection with their actions in agreeing to the August merger. The plaintiff seeks various forms of injunctive relief including an order enjoining August Technology and the directors from consummating the August merger.

On February 14, 2005, a similar shareholder class action lawsuit was filed in Minnesota state court against August Technology and the August Technology board of directors. The lawsuit also claims that the directors breached their fiduciary duties to August Technology's shareholders in connection with their actions in agreeing to the August merger. The plaintiff seeks various forms of injunctive relief including an order enjoining August Technology and the directors from consummating the August merger.

James A. Bernards, Roger E. Gower, Jeff L. O Dell, Linda Hall Whitman and Michael Wright, the members of the board of directors of August Technology who have been named as individual defendants in the two purported class actions, have collectively retained separate counsel to represent them in connection with the foregoing lawsuits. August Technology and these named individuals believe they have meritorious defenses to these claims and intend to vigorously defend these lawsuits. They have moved to dismiss these lawsuits.

RISK FACTORS

You should carefully consider the risks described below before deciding how to vote your shares. The business, results of operations or financial condition of Nanometrics, August Technology and/or August Nanometrics could be seriously harmed if any of these risks materialize. The trading price of shares of Nanometrics and August Technology common stock may also decline due to any of these risks.

August Nanometrics will operate in a market environment that is difficult to predict and that involves significant risks, many of which will be beyond August Nanometrics' control. Additional risks and uncertainties not presently known to Nanometrics and August Technology or that management of Nanometrics and August Technology do not currently believe are important to you, also may adversely affect the August merger, Nanometrics, August Technology and/or August Nanometrics should they materialize.

Risks Relating to the August Merger

Although Nanometrics and August Technology expect that the August merger will result in benefits to the combined company, August Nanometrics may not realize those benefits because of integration and other challenges.

The failure of August Nanometrics to meet the challenges involved in integrating the global operations of Nanometrics and August Technology successfully or otherwise to realize any of the anticipated benefits of the August merger, could seriously harm the results of operations of August Nanometrics. Realizing the benefits of the August merger will depend in part on the successful integration of technology, operations and personnel. The integration of the companies is a complex, time-consuming and expensive process that, without proper planning and implementation, could significantly disrupt the respective businesses of Nanometrics, August Technology and/or August Nanometrics. The challenges involved in this integration include, but are not limited to, the following:

communicating a strategic vision to the market regarding August Nanometrics and executing on such strategic vision; consolidating operations, including rationalizing corporate information technology and administrative infrastructures;

combining diverse product and service offerings; coordinating sales and marketing efforts to effectively communicate the capabilities of August Nanometrics;

overcoming any potential challenges involved with August Nanometrics' ability to comply with the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, including its ability to make the certifications required by Section 404 thereof, in a timely manner;

August Nanometrics may not successfully integrate the operations of Nanometrics and August Technology in a timely manner, or at all, and August Nanometrics may not realize the anticipated benefits and synergies of the August merger to the extent, or in the timeframe, anticipated. The anticipated benefits of the August merger are based on projections and assumptions, including successful integration, not actual experience. The failure to integrate the businesses of Nanometrics and August Technology or to realize any of the anticipated benefits of the August merger could seriously hinder August Nanometrics' plans for product development as well as business and market expansion following the August merger.

In addition to the integration risks discussed above, August Nanometrics' ability to realize these benefits and synergies could be adversely affected by practical or legal constraints on its ability to combine operations. Even if the integration of Nanometrics' and August Technology's operations, products and personnel is successful, it may place a significant burden on management and internal resources. The diversion of management attention and any difficulties encountered in the transition and integration process could harm August Nanometrics' business, financial condition and operating results.

In addition, August Technology estimates that it will incur direct transaction costs of approximately $4.5 million, which will be recognized and expensed as incurred. Nanometrics and August Technology believe August Nanometrics may incur charges to operations, which cannot be reasonably estimated at this time, in the quarter in which the August merger is completed or the following quarters, to reflect costs associated with integrating the two companies. There can be no assurance that August Nanometrics will not incur additional material charges in subsequent quarters to reflect additional costs associated with the August merger and the integration of the two companies.

Charges to earnings resulting from the application of the purchase method of accounting may adversely affect the market value of August Nanometrics common stock following the August merger.

In accordance with United States generally accepted accounting principles, August Nanometrics will account for the August merger using the purchase method of accounting, which may require an increase in intangible assets and inventory and a decrease in deferred revenue to their respective fair values. Further, a portion of the purchase price may be allocated to in-process research and development. Such purchase accounting adjustments may result in material recurring and nonrecurring charges to earnings that could have a material adverse effect on the market value of the common stock of August Nanometrics following completion of the August merger. Under the purchase method of accounting, August Nanometrics will allocate the total estimated purchase price to August Technology's net tangible assets and amortizable intangible assets based on their fair values as of the date of completion of the August merger, and record the excess of the purchase price over those fair values as goodwill. August Nanometrics will incur amortization expense over the useful lives of amortizable intangible assets acquired in connection with the August merger. In addition, to the extent the value of goodwill becomes impaired, August Nanometrics may be required to incur material charges relating to the impairment of that asset. Further, August Nanometrics may be impacted by nonrecurring charges related to the requirement for immediately expensing the portion of the purchase price allocated to August Technology's in-process research and development and reduced gross profit margins from the requirement to adjust August Technology's inventory and deferred revenues to fair value. These charges resulting from the application of purchase accounting could have a material impact on August Nanometrics' results of operations.

The stock prices and businesses of Nanometrics may be adversely affected if the August merger is not completed, and, under certain circumstances, Nanometrics or August Technology may be required to pay a termination fee if the August merger is not consummated.

If the August merger is not completed, the trading price of Nanometrics common stock and/or August Technology common stock may decline to the extent that the current market prices reflect a market assumption that the August merger will be completed. In addition, Nanometrics' and August Technology's businesses and operations may be harmed to the extent that customers, suppliers and others believe that the companies cannot effectively compete in the marketplace without the August merger, or there is customer or employee uncertainty surrounding the future direction of the product and service offerings and strategy of Nanometrics or August Technology on a standalone basis.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

In addition, Nanometrics and August Technology would not derive the strategic benefits expected to result from the August merger if the August merger is not completed, which could adversely affect their respective businesses.

Further, Nanometrics and August Technology will be required to pay significant costs incurred in connection with the August merger, including legal, accounting and a portion of the financial advisory fees, regardless of whether the August merger is completed. Moreover, under specified circumstances described in the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled The Merger Agreement Termination; Termination Fees and Expenses beginning on page 124, either company may be required to pay the other a termination fee equal to $8.3 million, plus any applicable costs, expenses and interest pursuant to the merger agreement.

Rudolph and KLA have made offers to merge with August Technology. If these or other companies make competitive offers to merge with August Technology, and if the August Technology board of directors decides to change its recommendation, and the August merger is not completed, the business, operating results and financial condition of August Technology and Nanometrics may be harmed.

On January 27, 2005, Rudolph informed August Technology that it was prepared to enter into a merger with August Technology. On February 9, 2005, KLA informed August Technology of its interest in pursuing a merger with August Technology. In order to discharge its fiduciary obligation to its shareholders, and in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology, August Technology has indicated that it is not for sale, but in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology, August Technology would be willing to discuss a potential transaction with Rudolph and/or with KLA if Rudolph and/or KLA executes a confidentiality agreement containing provisions that are no less favorable to August Technology than those contained in August Technology's confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics. Neither Rudolph nor KLA has thus far executed such a confidentiality agreement. If August Technology's board decides to change its recommendation and endorse one of these competing offers and the August merger is not completed, August Technology could (i) be required to pay Nanometrics an $8.3 million termination fee, and (ii) experience a loss of reputation and goodwill and damage to employee relationships. For more detailed information, see the sections entitled The August Merger Recent Developments beginning on page 109 and The Merger Agreement Termination; Termination Fees and Expenses beginning on page 124 and the risk factor entitled The stock prices and businesses of Nanometrics and August Technology may be adversely affected if the August merger is not completed; and, under certain circumstances, Nanometrics or August Technology may be required to pay a termination fee if the August merger is not consummated, beginning on page 34.

If August Technology is unsuccessful in certain purported shareholder class action lawsuits recently brought against it in connection with the August merger, the August merger could be enjoined, which may adversely affect the business, operating results and financial condition of August Technology and Nanometrics.

On February 4, 2005 and on February 14, 2005, two separate purported shareholder class action lawsuits were filed in Minnesota state court against August Technology and the August Technology board of directors. These lawsuits each claim that the August Technology directors breached their fiduciary duties to the August Technology shareholders in connection with their actions in agreeing to the August merger. The plaintiffs seek various forms of injunctive relief including an order enjoining August Technology and the directors from consummating the August merger.

There can be no assurance that August Technology will be successful in the above-referenced lawsuits. If August Technology is not successful in either of these lawsuits, the August merger could be enjoined, thereby preventing consummation of the August merger which may result in indirect costs and expenses to August Technology and Nanometrics, such as significant diversion of management resources, loss of reputation and goodwill, damage to customer relationships and declines in the respective stock prices of August Technology and Nanometrics. Accordingly, if either of the above referenced lawsuits is successful, the business, results of operations and financial condition of August Technology and Nanometrics could be significantly harmed. For more detailed information, see the section entitled The August Merger Legal Proceedings Regarding the August Merger beginning on page 111 and the risk factor entitled The stock prices and businesses of Nanometrics and August Technology may be adversely affected if the August merger is not completed; and, under certain circumstances, Nanometrics or August Technology may be required to pay a termination fee if the August merger is not consummated beginning on page 34.

Nanometrics and August Technology must continue to retain and motivate executives and key employees and recruit new employees, which may be difficult in light of uncertainty regarding the August merger and offers from Rudolph and KLA, and failure to do so could seriously harm August Nanometrics.

In order to be successful, during the period before the August merger is completed, each of Nanometrics and August Technology must continue to retain and motivate executives and other key employees and recruit new employees. Employees of Nanometrics or August Technology may experience uncertainty about their future role with August Nanometrics until or after strategies with regard to August Nanometrics are announced or executed. These potential distractions related to the August merger, as well as the unsolicited offers from Rudolph and KLA, may adversely affect each company's ability to attract, motivate and retain executives and key employees and keep such executives and key employees focused on the strategies and goals of August Nanometrics. Any failure by Nanometrics or August Technology to retain and motivate executives and key employees during the period prior to the completion of the August merger could seriously harm their respective businesses, as well as the business of August Nanometrics.

Uncertainty regarding the August merger may cause customers, distributors, resellers and others to delay or defer decisions concerning Nanometrics and August Technology which may harm either company's results of operations, and the results of operations of August Nanometrics.

Because the August merger is subject to several closing conditions and because August Technology has received unsolicited offers from Rudolph and KLA, uncertainty exists regarding the completion of the August merger. This uncertainty may cause customers, distributors, resellers and others to delay or defer decisions concerning Nanometrics or August Technology, or elect to switch to other suppliers, which could negatively affect the businesses and results of operations of Nanometrics or August Technology, as well as August Nanometrics. Prospective customers could also be reluctant to purchase August Nanometrics' products due to uncertainty about the direction of August Nanometrics products and willingness to support and service existing products. In addition, customers, distributors, resellers and others may also seek to change existing agreements with Nanometrics or August Technology as a result of the August merger. These and other actions by customers, distributors, resellers and others could negatively affect the businesses and results of operations of Nanometrics and August Technology as well as August Nanometrics.

Even though Nanometrics and August Technology have obtained the regulatory approvals required to complete the August merger, governmental authorities could still seek to block or challenge the August merger.

The August merger is subject to review by the Department of Justice and the FTC under the HSR Act. Under the HSR Act, Nanometrics and August Technology are required to make pre-merger notification filings and to await the expiration or early termination of the statutory waiting period prior to completing the August merger. We have made all required regulatory filings and have been notified by the FTC that early termination of the waiting period associated with these filings has been granted, and we have therefore obtained all regulatory clearances, consents and approvals required to complete the August merger. However, even after completion of the August merger, governmental authorities could seek to block or challenge the August merger, impose conditions or require asset divestitures as they deem necessary or desirable in the public interest. In addition, in some jurisdictions, a competitor, customer or other third party could initiate a private action under the antitrust laws challenging or seeking to enjoin the August merger, before or after it is completed. Nanometrics, August Technology or August Nanometrics may not prevail, or may incur significant costs, in defending or settling any action under the antitrust laws.

August Technology will need to obtain consents to the assignment of certain agreements it has with third parties as a result of the August merger and if it cannot obtain these consents, August Technology and/or August Nanometrics may not be able to maintain these relationships on favorable terms or at all.

August Technology is currently attempting to obtain third-party consents for some agreements requiring a consent upon a change of control, but if it is unable to do so, August Nanometrics may be forced to renegotiate these agreements or enter into new agreements with various third parties as a separate, stand-alone entity. The August Technology agreements requiring consent include lease agreements and other agreements with developers, strategic partners, distributors and suppliers. There can be no assurance that August Nanometrics will be able to negotiate new agreements on terms as favorable to it as those that August Technology had, or at all.

If August Nanometrics fails to develop and introduce new products and services successfully and in a timely manner, it will not be able to compete effectively and its ability to generate revenues will suffer.

Competition is intense in the markets that will be addressed by August Nanometrics. August Nanometrics' future success depends upon its ability to develop and introduce new products and services that customers and end users choose to buy. Several competitors have greater financial, engineering, manufacturing, marketing and customer support resources than August Nanometrics will have after the August merger. As a result, August Nanometrics' competitors may be able to respond more quickly to new or emerging technologies or market developments by devoting greater resources to the development, promotion and sale of products, which could impair sales of August Nanometrics' products. If August Nanometrics is unsuccessful at developing and introducing new products and services that are appealing to its customers and end users with acceptable prices and terms, August Nanometrics will not be able to compete effectively and its ability to generate revenues will suffer.

The development of new products and services can be very difficult and requires high levels of innovation. The development process is also lengthy and costly. If August Nanometrics fails to anticipate end users' needs or technological trends accurately or is unable to complete the development of products and services in a cost-effective and timely fashion, it will be unable to introduce new products and services into the market or successfully compete with other providers. In addition, if August Nanometrics fails to timely develop products that meet its customers' product planning cycles, August Nanometrics' sales volumes may be negatively impacted. As a result, August Nanometrics' revenues and gross margins could be adversely affected.

As August Nanometrics introduces new or enhanced products or integrates new technology into new or existing products, it faces risks relating to such transitions including, among other things, disruption in customers' ordering patterns, excessive levels of older product inventories, delivering sufficient supplies of new products to meet customers' demand, possible product and technology defects arising from the integration of new technology, and a potentially different sales and support environment relating to any new technology. August Nanometrics' failure to manage the transition to newer products or the integration of newer technology into new or existing products could adversely affect its business operating results and financial results.

If August Nanometrics is unable to compete successfully against existing and future competitors on the basis of product offerings or price, August Nanometrics could experience a loss in market share and/or be required to reduce prices, which could result in reduced gross margins, and which could materially and adversely affect its business, operating results and financial condition.

If August Nanometrics does not correctly anticipate demand for its products, August Nanometrics could have costly excess production or inventories or may not be able to secure sufficient quantities or cost-effective production of its products and its cost of revenues could be adversely impacted.

The demand for August Nanometrics' products will depend on many factors, including pricing levels, and it is difficult to forecast demand due in part to competition, variations in economic conditions, seasonality and changes in consumer and enterprise preferences. It is particularly difficult to forecast demand by individual product. Significant unanticipated fluctuations in demand could result in costly excess production or inventories or the inability to secure sufficient quantities or cost-effective production of August Nanometrics' products. This could adversely impact August Nanometrics cost of revenues.

Nanometrics and August Technology's operating results are subject to fluctuations and are inherently unpredictable; if August Nanometrics fails to meet the expectations of securities analysts or investors, the stock price of August Nanometrics following the August merger may decrease significantly.

Both Nanometrics and August Technology's operating results are difficult to predict, and vary significantly from period to period. As a result, Nanometrics and August Technology each believe that quarter-to-quarter comparisons of their respective operating results are not necessarily a good indication of what August Nanometrics' future performance will be. The recent and prolonged downturn in the semiconductor industry, combined with the lack of operating history for August Nanometrics, may make it difficult for August Nanometrics to accurately forecast revenue. Future operating results may fluctuate significantly due to several factors, many of which are outside of August Nanometrics' control and may not meet the expectations of August Nanometrics or those of securities analysts or investors. If this occurs, the price of common stock of August Nanometrics will likely decline. Factors that may cause fluctuations in August Nanometrics' operating results include, but are not limited to, the following:

changes in customer demand and spending levels and limited visibility into customers' spending plans; changes in general economic conditions and specific market conditions related to the semiconductor, microelectronic and flat panel display industries; changes in customer preferences for August Nanometrics' products and services; competitive pricing pressures and new product introductions by August Nanometrics' competitors; inability or failure to respond to changing technology within the semiconductor, microelectronic and flat panel display industries;

seasonality of demand for August Nanometrics' products and services;

variations in product costs or the mix of products sold;

the anticipated high selling prices of August Nanometrics' products which typically results in a long sales cycle and variations in the length of sales cycles;

quality issues with August Nanometrics' products;

inability of third party manufacturers to produce quality products on time;

failure to achieve targeted product cost reductions and operating expense reductions;

the timely introduction and market acceptance of new August Nanometrics' products and services; excess inventory or insufficient inventory to meet demand; and litigation brought against August Nanometrics.

Any of the foregoing factors, or any other factors discussed elsewhere herein, could have a material adverse effect on the business, results of operations and financial condition of August Nanometrics.

August Nanometrics will be dependent on its suppliers, some of which will likely be the sole source for certain components and elements of its technology, and August Nanometrics production or reputation could be seriously harmed if these suppliers were unable to timely meet its demand or technical requirements on a cost effective basis.

August Nanometrics products will contain components and subassemblies that are procured from a variety of suppliers. The cost, quality and availability of components will be essential to the successful production and sale of its products. Some components and subassemblies will likely come from sole or limited source suppliers. Alternative sources are not always available or may be financially prohibitive. If suppliers were unable or unwilling to meet August Nanometrics demand for sole source components and if it is unable to obtain an alternative source or if the price for an alternative source is prohibitive, August Nanometrics' ability to maintain timely and cost-effective production of its products will be seriously harmed.

August Nanometrics will be dependent on contract manufacturers to manufacture many of the components and subassemblies for its products. August Nanometrics will not have long-term supply contracts with such manufacturers, and changes to those relationships, expected or unexpected, may result in delays or disruptions that could cause August Nanometrics to lose revenue and damage its customer relationships.

August Nanometrics will depend on independent contract manufacturers (each of whom is typically a third party manufacturer for numerous companies) to manufacture many of the components and subassemblies for its products. Neither Nanometrics nor August Technology has long-term supply contracts with such manufacturers and if August Nanometrics should fail to effectively manage its contract manufacturer relationships or if one or more of them should experience delays, disruptions or quality control problems in its manufacturing operations, August Nanometrics' ability to ship products to its customers could be delayed which could adversely affect its business and financial results.

A limited number of August Nanometrics' customers will comprise a significant portion of its revenues and any decrease in revenue from these customers could have an adverse effect on August Nanometrics.

Even though August Nanometrics' customer base is expected to increase as a result of the August merger, a large portion of August Nanometrics' net revenues will likely continue to depend on sales to a limited number of customers. During fiscal 2004, sales to Applied Materials accounted for 22% and sales to Samsung Electronics Corporation accounted for 14.6% of Nanometrics' net revenues respectively. During fiscal 2004, sales to Samsung Electronics Corporation, STMicroelectronics and Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing Co. each accounted for more than 10% of August Technology's net revenues. Any downturn in the business of these customers or potential new customers could significantly decrease sales to such customers which, in turn, could adversely affect August Nanometrics' net revenues and results of operations.

The long sales and implementation cycles for August Nanometrics' products, as well as its expectation that some customers will sporadically place large orders with short lead times, may cause revenues and operating results to vary significantly from quarter to quarter.

A customer's decision to purchase certain Nanometrics and August Technology products involves a significant commitment of its resources and a lengthy evaluation and product qualification process. As a result, the sales cycle may be lengthy. Throughout the sales cycle, August Nanometrics may spend considerable time and resources educating and providing information to prospective customers regarding the use and benefits of its products. Even after making the decision to purchase, customers may deploy the products slowly and deliberately. Timing of deployment can vary widely and depends on the quality and sophistication of the customer's current processing equipment, the complexity of the customer's needs, the customer's budgetary constraints as well as the internal capabilities and sophistication of the customer. Accordingly, August Nanometrics may receive purchase orders for significant dollar amounts on an irregular basis. These long cycles, as well as the expectation that customers will tend to sporadically place large orders with short lead times, may cause revenues and operating results to vary significantly and unexpectedly from quarter to quarter.

The cyclical nature of the semiconductor industry may impact August Nanometrics' operating results.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

The semiconductor industry is highly cyclical and subject to rapid technological change. From time to time, the semiconductor industry has experienced significant economic downturns, including the recent downturn, characterized by diminished product demand, accelerated erosion of prices and excess production capacity. The industry also periodically experiences increased demand and production capacity constraints. Accordingly, August Nanometrics' operating results may vary significantly as a result of general conditions in the semiconductor industry.

Nanometrics and August Technology's products are highly technical and if they contain undetected errors, the business of August Nanometrics could be adversely affected.

Each of Nanometrics and August Technology's products are, and August Nanometrics' products will be, highly technical and complex and may contain undetected errors or defects. Some errors may only be discovered after a product has been installed and used by end customers. Any errors discovered in the products offered by August Nanometrics after commercial release could result in loss of revenue or delay in revenue recognition, loss of customers and increased service and warranty cost, any of which could adversely affect August Nanometrics' reputation, business and results of operations.

Due to the global nature of Nanometrics and August Technology's operations, particularly in Asia, economic or social conditions or changes in a particular country or region could adversely affect August Nanometrics' sales or increase its costs and expenses, which could have a material adverse impact on its financial condition.

August Nanometrics will conduct significant sales and customer support operations directly and indirectly through its facilities, distributors and resellers in countries outside of the United States and will also depend on the operations of its contract manufacturers and suppliers that are located outside of the United States. During 2004, international sales accounted for 71% of Nanometrics net revenues and 73% of August Technology's net revenues, respectively. In addition, Asia is an important region for the markets served by Nanometrics and August Technology. Nanometrics has operations in Japan, South Korea and Taiwan and August Technology has customer support centers in Taiwan and South Korea. During 2004, sales to Asian countries accounted for 67.1% of Nanometrics net revenues and 68% of August Technology's net revenues, respectively. Accordingly, August Nanometrics' future results could be materially adversely affected by a variety of uncontrollable and changing factors including, among others, political or social unrest or economic instability in a specific country or region;

military and terrorism risks;

trade protection measures and import or export licensing requirements; changes in a specific country's or region's political or economic conditions, particularly in emerging markets;

changes in international relations;

potentially negative consequences from changes in tax laws;

difficulty in managing widespread operations; and difficulty in managing a geographically dispersed workforce in compliance with diverse local laws and customs.

Any or all of these factors could have a material adverse impact on August Nanometrics' revenue, expenses and financial condition.

Third parties have claimed and may claim in the future that Nanometrics, August Technology and/or August Nanometrics is infringing their intellectual property; August Nanometrics could suffer significant litigation or licensing expenses or be prevented from selling its products if these claims are successful.

In the normal course of business, Nanometrics and August Technology have received claims of infringement or otherwise become aware of potentially relevant patents or other intellectual property rights held by other parties. For example, Nanometrics announced on March 14, 2005 that it had received notice of a patent infringement lawsuit brought by Nova Measuring Instruments, Ltd. alleging infringement of United States Patent No. 6,752,689, or the 689 Patent.

August Nanometrics will evaluate the validity and applicability of its intellectual property rights, and determine in each case whether it must negotiate licenses or cross-licenses to incorporate or use the proprietary technologies in its products. Third parties may claim that Nanometrics, August Technology and/or August Nanometrics or its customers are infringing or contributing to the infringement of their intellectual property rights, and August Nanometrics may be found to infringe or contribute to the infringement of those intellectual property rights and require a license to use those rights. August Nanometrics may be unaware of intellectual property rights of others that may cover some of its technology, products and services.

Any litigation regarding patents or other intellectual property, including the litigation with Nova Measuring Instruments, Ltd. described above, could be costly and time consuming and could divert the attention of management and key personnel from August Nanometrics' business operations. The complexity of the technology involved and the uncertainty of litigation generally increase the risks associated with intellectual property litigation. Moreover, patent litigation has increased due to the current uncertainty of the law and the increasing competition and overlap of product functionality in the markets served by Nanometrics and August Technology. Claims of intellectual property infringement might also require August Nanometrics to enter into costly royalty or license agreements or to indemnify its customers. However, August Nanometrics may not be able to obtain royalty or license agreements on terms acceptable to it or at all. August Nanometrics also may be subject to significant damages or injunctions against development and sale of its products.

If third parties infringe the intellectual property of Nanometrics, August Technology and/or August Nanometrics or if August Nanometrics is unable to secure and protect its intellectual property, August Nanometrics may expend significant resources enforcing its rights or suffer competitive injury.

The success of August Nanometrics depends in large part on its proprietary technology and other intellectual property rights. Nanometrics and August Technology each rely on a combination of patents, copyrights, trademarks and trade secrets, confidentiality provisions and licensing arrangements to establish and protect their proprietary rights. August Nanometrics' intellectual property, particularly its patents, may not provide it with a significant competitive advantage. If August Nanometrics fails to protect or to enforce its intellectual property rights successfully, August Nanometrics' competitive position could suffer, which could harm its operating results.

Nanometrics' and August Technology's pending patent and trademark applications for registration may not be allowed, or others may challenge the validity or scope of such patents or trademarks, including the patent or trademark applications or registrations. Even if the patent or trademark registrations are issued and maintained, these patents or trademarks may not be of adequate scope or benefit to August Nanometrics or may be held invalid and unenforceable against third parties.

August Nanometrics may be required to spend significant resources to monitor and police its intellectual property rights. Effective policing of the unauthorized use of August Nanometrics' products or intellectual property is difficult and litigation may be necessary in the future to enforce its intellectual property rights. Intellectual property litigation is not only expensive, but time-consuming, regardless of the merits of any claim, and could divert the attention of August Nanometrics' management from operating the business. August Nanometrics may not be able to detect infringement despite its efforts and may lose competitive position in the market before it does so. In addition, competitors may design around August Nanometrics' technology or develop competing technologies.

Despite the efforts of Nanometrics, August Technology and August Nanometrics to protect their proprietary rights, existing laws, contractual provisions and remedies afford only limited protection. Intellectual property lawsuits are subject to inherent uncertainties due to, among other things, the complexity of the technical issues involved, and there can be no assurance that August Nanometrics will be successful in asserting its intellectual property claims. Attempts may be made to copy or reverse engineer aspects of Nanometrics', August Technology's and/or August Nanometrics' products or to obtain and use information that is regarded as proprietary. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that August Nanometrics will be able to protect its proprietary rights against unauthorized third-party copying or use. Infringement by others of August Nanometrics' proprietary rights could materially harm the business of August Nanometrics.

Nanometrics and August Technology have an international presence in countries whose laws may not provide protection of their intellectual property rights to the same extent as the laws of the United States, which may make it more difficult to protect such intellectual property.

As part of the business strategy of Nanometrics and August Technology, countries with large populations and propensities for adopting new technologies are targeted. However, many of these targeted countries do not have or vigorously enforce laws designed to prevent misappropriation of intellectual property or to deter others from developing similar, competing technologies or intellectual property that otherwise infringe upon existing proprietary technology. Effective protection of patents, copyrights, trademarks, trade secrets and other intellectual property may be unavailable or limited in some foreign countries. In particular, the laws of some foreign countries in which Nanometrics and August Technology are active may not protect their intellectual property rights to the same extent as the laws of the United States. As a result, August Nanometrics may not be able to effectively prevent competitors in these regions from infringing its intellectual property rights, which would reduce August Nanometrics' competitive advantage and ability to compete in those regions and could negatively impact its business.

Nanometrics and August Technology are subject to general commercial litigation and other litigation claims as part of their operations, and August Nanometrics could suffer significant litigation expenses in defending these claims and could be subject to significant damages or remedies that would harm its business.

In the normal course of business, Nanometrics and August Technology occasionally receive general commercial claims related to the conduct of their business and the performance of their products and services as well as other litigation claims. Any litigation regarding these consumer, commercial, and other claims could be costly and time-consuming and could divert the attention of August Nanometrics' management and key personnel from its business operations. The complexity of the technology involved and the uncertainty of consumer, commercial and other litigation increase these risks. August Nanometrics also may be subject to significant damages or equitable remedies regarding the development and sale of its products and the operation of its business.

If August Nanometrics fails to adequately evolve its financial and managerial control and reporting systems and processes, its ability to manage and grow its business will be negatively affected. In particular, only August Technology was required to report on its Form 10-K for 2004 its management's assessment of August Technology's internal control over financial reporting as required by Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 because it is an accelerated filer. Nanometrics is a non-accelerated filer and such report was not required to be included in its Form 10-K for fiscal 2004.

August Nanometrics' ability to successfully offer its products and implement its business plan in a rapidly evolving market requires an effective planning and management process. August Nanometrics will need to continue to improve its financial and managerial control and its reporting systems and procedures in order to manage its business effectively in the future. Currently, only August Technology was required to include in its annual report on Form 10-K for fiscal 2004 a management report assessing its internal control over financial reporting. Nanometrics was not required to include such a report in its Form 10-K for fiscal 2004. August Nanometrics, however, would be an accelerated filer and therefore required to make such a report when it files its annual report on Form 10-K for fiscal 2005.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

The August merger will require significant integration efforts by management. Additionally, unanticipated factors may hinder the effectiveness or delay the integration of Nanometrics and August Technology's control systems and as such, there can be no assurances regarding August Nanometrics' ability to file its reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission in a timely manner, or make the certifications required by the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, or the rules and regulations of the Securities and Exchange Commission promulgated thereunder. If August Nanometrics fails to continue to implement improved systems and processes, its ability to manage its business, results of operations and financial condition, and to make such certifications as required by Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, may be negatively affected.

Future acquisitions or investments that August Nanometrics may make could disrupt its business and harm its financial condition and may dilute the ownership of August Nanometrics stockholders.

Each of Nanometrics and August Technology has made, and August Nanometrics may continue to make, acquisitions in order to enhance its business. Acquisitions involve numerous risks, including problems combining the purchased operations, technologies or products, unanticipated costs, diversion of management's attention from its core businesses, adverse effects on existing business relationships with suppliers and customers, risks associated with entering markets in which August Nanometrics has no or limited prior experience and potential loss of key employees. There can be no assurance that August Nanometrics will be able to successfully integrate any businesses, products, technologies or personnel that it might acquire. The integration of businesses that each of Nanometrics and August Technology has acquired has been, and will continue to be, a complex, time consuming and expensive process. Additionally, if August Nanometrics fails to efficiently operate as a combined organization utilizing common information and communication systems, operating procedures, financial controls and human resources practices, its business and financial condition may be adversely affected. In the event of any such investments or acquisitions, August Nanometrics could issue stock that would dilute its then current stockholders' percentage ownership, incur debt, assume liabilities, incur amortization expenses related to purchases of intangible assets, or incur large and immediate write-offs.

The success of August Nanometrics largely depends on its ability to hire, retain, integrate and motivate a sufficient number of qualified personnel.

The future success of August Nanometrics depends on its ability to attract and retain highly skilled personnel. Nanometrics and August Technology each compensate their employees through a combination of salary, bonuses, benefits and equity compensation. If August Nanometrics fails to provide competitive compensation to its employees, it may be unable to retain them. Volatility or lack of positive performance in August Nanometrics' stock price may also affect August Nanometrics' ability to retain key employees, many of whom have been granted stock options.

Changes in accounting for stock-based compensation could adversely affect August Nanometrics' future operating results.

Nanometrics and August Technology have historically compensated their employees, including many of their key personnel and new hires, through the issuance of options to acquire capital stock. Effective as of the third quarter of fiscal 2005, Nanometrics and August Technology will be required to expense unvested and newly issued employee stock options. This change from current accounting regulations could have a significant impact on August Nanometrics' results of operations and could affect the manner in which August Nanometrics conducts business.

War, terrorism, natural disasters, public health issues or other business interruptions could disrupt supply, delivery or demand of products, which could negatively affect August Nanometrics' operations and performance.

War, terrorism, natural disasters, public health issues and other business interruptions whether in the United States or abroad, have caused and could continue to cause damage or disruption to international commerce by creating economic and political uncertainties that may have a strong negative impact on the global economy, August Nanometrics, and its suppliers or customers. August Nanometrics' business operations would be subject to interruption by earthquake, tsunami, fire, power shortages, terrorist attacks and other hostile acts, labor disputes, medical conditions, and other events beyond its control. For example, August Nanometrics' transportation costs, insurance costs and sales efforts could become more expensive as a result of geopolitical tension. If this international economic and political instability continues or increases, the business and results of operations of August Nanometrics could be harmed. August Nanometrics will continue to consider, develop, and implement contingency plans to avoid and/or minimize potential disruptions to its business services.

Because of these and other factors affecting the business, results of operations, and financial condition of Nanometrics and August Technology, past financial performance should not be considered an indicator of the future performance of August Nanometrics, and investors should not use historical trends to anticipate results or trends in future periods.

Risks Related to Nanometrics' Business

Cyclicality in the semiconductor and flat panel display industries has led to substantial fluctuations in demand for Nanometrics' systems and may, from time to time, continue to do so.

Nanometrics' operating results have varied significantly from period to period due to the cyclical nature of the semiconductor and flat panel display industries. The majority of Nanometrics' business depends upon the capital expenditures of semiconductor device and equipment manufacturers. These manufacturers' capital expenditures, in turn, depend upon the current and anticipated market demand for semiconductors and products using semiconductors. The semiconductor industry is cyclical and has historically experienced periodic downturns. These downturns have often resulted in substantial decreases in the demand for semiconductor manufacturing equipment, including metrology systems. Nanometrics has found that the resulting decrease in capital expenditures has typically been more pronounced than the downturn in semiconductor device industry revenues. Nanometrics expects the cyclical nature of the semiconductor industry, and therefore, its business, to continue in the foreseeable future. Recently, the semiconductor industry emerged from a sustained downturn, which had existed for the past few years. Should this trend reverse and the downturn resume, Nanometrics' business and results of operations would suffer.

Because Nanometrics derives a significant portion of its revenues from sales in Asia, Nanometrics' revenues and results of operations could be adversely affected by the instability of Asian economies.

Nanometrics' revenues from customers in Asian markets represented approximately 63.3%, 72.7% and 68.2% of Nanometrics' total net revenues in 2002, 2003 and 2004, respectively. Countries in the Asia Pacific region, including Japan, South Korea and Taiwan, each of which accounted for a significant portion of Nanometrics' business in that region, had experienced general economic weaknesses in 2002 and 2003, which adversely affected Nanometrics' revenues at that time.

Nanometrics depends on Applied Materials and other OEM suppliers for sales of Nanometrics' integrated metrology systems, and the loss of Applied Materials or any of Nanometrics' other OEM suppliers as a customer could harm Nanometrics' business.

Nanometrics believes that sales of integrated metrology systems will continue to be an important source of revenues. Sales of Nanometrics' integrated metrology systems depend upon the ability of Applied Materials to sell semiconductor equipment products that include Nanometrics' metrology systems as components. If Applied Materials is unable to sell such products, or if Applied Materials chooses to focus its attention on products that do not integrate Nanometrics' systems, Nanometrics' business could suffer. If Nanometrics were to lose Applied Materials as a customer for any reason, Nanometrics' ability to realize sales from integrated metrology systems would be significantly diminished, which would harm Nanometrics' business.

Nanometrics' largest customers account for a substantial portion of its revenue, and Nanometrics' revenue would materially decline if one or more of these customers were to purchase significantly fewer of its systems or if they delayed or cancelled a large order.

Historically, a significant portion of Nanometrics' revenues in each quarter and each year has been derived from sales to a relatively small number of customers, and Nanometrics expects this trend to continue. There are only a limited number of large companies operating in the semiconductor and flat panel display industries. Accordingly, Nanometrics expects that it will continue to depend on a small number of large customers for a significant portion of its revenues for at least the next several years. If any of Nanometrics' key customers were to purchase significantly fewer systems, or if a large order were delayed or cancelled, Nanometrics' revenues would significantly decline. In 2004, sales to Applied Materials accounted for 22.0% and sales to Samsung accounted for 14.6% of Nanometrics' total net revenues, respectively. In 2003, sales to Applied Materials accounted for 15.4% and sales to Hynix accounted for 12.0% of Nanometrics' total net revenues, respectively. In 2002, sales to Applied Materials accounted for 13.8% and sales to TSMC accounted for 10.9% of Nanometrics' total net revenues, respectively.

The success of Nanometrics' product development efforts depends on its ability to anticipate market trends and the price, performance and functionality requirements of semiconductor device manufacturers. In order to anticipate these trends and ensure that critical development projects proceed in a coordinated manner, Nanometrics must continue to collaborate closely with its customers. Nanometrics' relationships with its customers provides it with access to valuable information regarding industry trends, which enables Nanometrics to better plan its product development activities. If Nanometrics' current relationships with its large customers are impaired, or if Nanometrics is unable to develop similar collaborative relationships with important customers in the future, Nanometrics' long-term ability to produce commercially successful systems could be adversely affected.

Nanometrics may have difficulty meeting the requirements described in Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, including addressing certain significant deficiencies in its internal controls identified in connection with its fiscal 2004 year-end audit, and failure to meet such requirements could materially affect its stock price.

Nanometrics may be required to file a report on internal accounting controls, in accordance with Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, with its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ending December 31, 2005. Accordingly, Nanometrics would be required to increase the amount of documentation surrounding its internal control systems and provide evidence that its systems have been properly tested to support Nanometrics' management's conclusions. While Nanometrics continues to improve its internal control systems, including the companywide implementation of a new Enterprise Resource Planning System, or ERP system, there can be no assurance that its report will not disclose a material weakness. Even if Nanometrics does not identify such a material weakness, its auditors may identify a material weakness in their attestation. In the event that a material weakness is identified, Nanometrics' stock price may be adversely affected.

In connection with the audit conducted by the independent registered accounting firm BDO Seidman, LLP of Nanometrics' 2004 consolidated financial statements, BDO Seidman, LLP advised Nanometrics' management and its audit committee of certain significant deficiencies in Nanometrics' internal controls and made certain recommendations. Under the auditing standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board, a significant deficiency represents a deficiency in the design or operation of internal controls in which there is a more than remote likelihood that a misstatement that is more than inconsequential but less than material could occur.

Nanometrics is currently in the process of implementing the recommendations of BDO Seidman, LLP. Additionally, Nanometrics is also in the process of augmenting its current control processes, repositioning current finance and accounting personnel and recruiting additional personnel to ensure consistently complete and accurate reporting of financial information. Nanometrics believes it will satisfactorily address most of the significant deficiencies referenced above by the end of the third fiscal quarter of 2005, although there can be no assurance that it will do so, as the proposed August merger will require significant integration efforts by management. Furthermore, remediation of Nanometrics' internal controls, required to fully comply with the Section 404 internal control assessment, may require more significant efforts by management than initially anticipated.

Nanometrics' current and potential competitors have significantly greater resources than Nanometrics has, and increased competition could impair sales of Nanometrics' products.

Nanometrics operates in the highly competitive semiconductor and flat panel display industries and faces competition from a number of companies, many of which have greater financial, engineering, manufacturing, marketing and customer support resources than Nanometrics has. As a result, Nanometrics' competitors may be able to respond more quickly to new or emerging technologies or market developments by devoting greater resources to the development, promotion and sale of products, which could impair sales of Nanometrics' products. Moreover, there has been merger and acquisition activity among Nanometrics' competitors and potential competitors. These transactions by Nanometrics' competitors and potential competitors may provide them with a competitive advantage over Nanometrics by enabling them to rapidly expand their product offerings and service capabilities to meet a broader range of customer needs. Many of Nanometrics' customers and potential customers in the semiconductor and flat panel display industries are large companies that require global support and service for their metrology systems. Some of Nanometrics' larger or more geographically diverse competitors might be better equipped to provide this global support.

If any of Nanometrics' systems fail to meet or exceed its internal quality specifications, Nanometrics often does not ship them until such time as they have met such specifications. If Nanometrics experiences significant delays or is unable to ship its products to its customers as a result of its internal processes, or for any other reason, Nanometrics' business and reputation may suffer.

Nanometrics' products are complex and require technical expertise to design and manufacture properly. Various problems occasionally arise during the manufacturing process that may cause delays and/or impair product quality. Nanometrics must actively monitor its manufacturing processes to ensure that its products meet its internal quality specifications. Any significant delays stemming from the failure of its products to meet or exceed its internal quality specifications, or for any other reasons, would delay its shipments. Shipment delays could harm Nanometrics' business and reputation in the industry.

If Nanometrics delivers systems with defects, Nanometrics' credibility will be harmed, revenue from and market acceptance of its systems will decrease and Nanometrics could expend significant capital and resources as a result of such defects.

Notwithstanding Nanometrics internal quality specifications, Nanometrics systems have sometimes contained errors, defects or bugs when introduced. If Nanometrics delivers systems with errors, defects or bugs, its credibility and the market acceptance and sales of Nanometrics systems would be harmed. Further, if Nanometrics' systems contain errors, defects or bugs, Nanometrics may be required to expend significant capital and resources to alleviate such problems. Defects could also lead to product liability as a result of product liability lawsuits against Nanometrics or against its customers. Nanometrics has agreed to indemnify its customers in some circumstances against liability arising from defects in Nanometrics' systems. In the event of a successful product liability claim, Nanometrics could be obligated to pay damages significantly in excess of its product liability insurance limits.

Successful infringement claims by third parties could result in substantial damages, lost product sales and the loss of important intellectual property rights by Nanometrics.

Nanometrics' commercial success depends in part on its ability to avoid infringing or misappropriating patents or other proprietary rights owned by third parties. From time to time Nanometrics may receive communications from third parties asserting that its metrology systems may contain design features, which are claimed to infringe on their proprietary rights. For example, Nanometrics announced on March 14, 2005 that it had received notice of a patent infringement lawsuit brought by Nova Measuring Instruments, Ltd. alleging infringement of the 689 Patent. There can be no assurance that Nanometrics' new or current products do not infringe any valid intellectual property rights. Even if Nanometrics' products do not infringe, Nanometrics may be required to expend significant sums of money to defend itself from infringement claims, as in the Nova Measuring Instruments, Ltd. lawsuit described above, or to actively protect its intellectual property rights through litigation.

Nanometrics obtains some of the components and subassemblies included in its systems from a single source or a limited group of suppliers, and the partial or complete loss of one of these suppliers could cause production delays and significant loss of revenue.

Nanometrics relies on outside vendors to manufacture many components and subassemblies. Certain components, subassemblies and services necessary for the manufacture of Nanometrics' systems are obtained from a sole supplier or limited group of suppliers. Nanometrics does not maintain any long-term supply agreements with any of its suppliers. Nanometrics has entered into arrangements with J.A. Woollam Company for the purchase of the spectroscopic ellipsometer component incorporated in Nanometrics' advanced measurement systems. Nanometrics' reliance on a sole or a limited group of suppliers involves several risks, including the following:

Nanometrics may be unable to obtain an adequate supply of required components;

Nanometrics has reduced control over pricing and the timely delivery of components and subassemblies; and Nanometrics' suppliers may be unable to develop technologically advanced products to support Nanometrics' growth and development of new systems.

Some of Nanometrics' suppliers have relatively limited financial and other resources. Because the manufacturing of certain of these components and subassemblies involves extremely complex processes and requires long lead times, Nanometrics may experience delays or shortages caused by Nanometrics' suppliers. If Nanometrics were forced to seek alternative sources of supply or to manufacture such components or subassemblies internally, Nanometrics could be forced to redesign its systems, which could cause production delays and prevent Nanometrics from shipping its systems to customers on a timely basis. Any inability to obtain adequate deliveries from Nanometrics' suppliers, or any other circumstance that would restrict Nanometrics' ability to ship its products, could damage relationships with current and prospective customers, harm its business and result in significant loss of revenue.

Variations in the amount of time it takes for Nanometrics to sell its systems may cause fluctuations in its operating results, which could adversely affect Nanometrics' stock price.

Variations in the length of Nanometrics' sales cycles could cause its revenues to fluctuate widely from period to period. Nanometrics' customers generally take long periods of time to evaluate Nanometrics' metrology systems. Nanometrics expends significant resources educating and providing information to Nanometrics' prospective customers regarding the uses and benefits of Nanometrics' systems. The length of time that it takes for Nanometrics to complete a sale depends upon many factors, including:

the efforts of Nanometrics' sales force and independent sales representatives;

the complexity of the customer's metrology needs;

the internal technical capabilities and sophistication of the customer;

the customer's budgetary constraints; and the quality and sophistication of the customer's current processing equipment.

Because of the number of factors influencing the sales process, the period between Nanometrics' initial contact with a customer and the time at which Nanometrics recognizes revenue from that customer, if at all, varies widely. Nanometrics' sales cycles, including the time it takes for Nanometrics to build a product to customer specifications after receiving an order, typically range from three to six months. Occasionally Nanometrics' sales cycles can be much longer, particularly with customers in Asia who may require longer evaluation periods. During the sales cycles, Nanometrics commits substantial resources to its sales efforts in advance of receiving any revenue, and Nanometrics may never receive any revenue from a customer despite Nanometrics' sales efforts.

If Nanometrics does complete a sale, customers often purchase only one of Nanometrics' systems and then evaluate its performance for a lengthy period of time before purchasing additional systems. The purchases are generally made through purchase orders rather than through long-term contracts. The number of additional products that a customer purchases, if any, depends on many factors, including a customer's capacity requirements. The period between a customer's initial purchase and any subsequent purchases is unpredictable and can vary from three months to a year or longer. Variations in the length of this period could cause fluctuations in Nanometrics' operating results, which could adversely affect Nanometrics' stock price.

Relatively small fluctuations in Nanometrics' system prices may cause Nanometrics' operating results to vary significantly each quarter.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

During any quarter, a significant portion of Nanometrics' revenue is derived from the sale of a relatively small number of systems. Nanometrics' automated metrology systems range in price from approximately $200,000 to over $1,000,000 per system; Nanometrics' integrated metrology systems range in price from approximately $80,000 to $300,000 per system; and Nanometrics' tabletop metrology systems range in price from approximately $50,000 to $200,000 per system. Accordingly, a small change in the number or types of systems that Nanometrics sells could cause significant changes in Nanometrics' operating results.

Nanometrics may sometimes experience material payment delays as a result of customer acceptance issues and such delays could negatively affect Nanometrics' results of operations.

As a result of customer acceptance issues, Nanometrics may, from time to time, experience payment delays on some of its systems. Because a significant portion of Nanometrics' revenue is derived from the sale of a relatively small number of systems, substantial payment delays by its customers could materially and adversely affect its results of operations.

Nanometrics depends on orders that are received and shipped in the same quarter, and therefore Nanometrics' results of operations may be subject to significant variability from quarter to quarter.

Nanometrics' net sales in any given quarter depend upon a combination of orders received in that quarter for shipment in that quarter and shipments from backlog. Nanometrics' backlog at the beginning of each quarter does not include all systems sales needed to achieve expected revenues for that quarter. Consequently, Nanometrics is dependent on obtaining orders for systems to be shipped in the same quarter that the order is received. Moreover, customers may reschedule shipments, and production difficulties could delay shipments. Accordingly, Nanometrics has limited visibility into future product shipments, and its results of operations may be subject to significant variability from quarter to quarter.

Because of the high cost of switching equipment vendors in Nanometrics' markets, it is sometimes difficult for Nanometrics to attract customers from its competitors even if Nanometrics' metrology systems are superior to theirs.

Nanometrics believes that once a semiconductor or flat panel display customer has selected one vendor's metrology system, the customer generally relies upon that system and, to the extent possible, subsequent generations of the same vendor's system, for the life of the application. Once a vendor's metrology system has been installed, a customer must often make substantial technical modifications and may experience downtime in order to switch to another vendor's metrology system. Accordingly, unless Nanometrics' systems offer performance or cost advantages that outweigh a customer's expense of switching to Nanometrics' systems, it will be difficult for Nanometrics to achieve significant sales from that customer once it has selected another vendor's system for an application.

If Nanometrics is not successful in developing new and enhanced metrology systems Nanometrics will likely lose market share to its competitors.

Nanometrics operates in an industry that is subject to technological changes, changes in customer demands and the introduction of new, higher performance systems with short product life cycles. To be competitive, Nanometrics must continually design, develop and introduce in a timely manner new metrology systems that meet the performance and price demands of semiconductor and flat panel display manufacturers and suppliers. Nanometrics must also continue to refine its current systems so that they remain competitive. Nanometrics may experience difficulties or delays in its development efforts with respect to new systems, and it may not ultimately be successful in developing them. Any significant delay in releasing new systems could adversely affect Nanometrics' reputation, give a competitor a first-to-market advantage or cause a competitor to achieve greater market share.

Lack of market acceptance for Nanometrics' new products may affect Nanometrics' ability to generate revenue and may harm Nanometrics' business.

Nanometrics has recently introduced several new products to market including the Nano OCD/DUV 9010, the Nanometrics Atlas, Atlas-M, Orion and the Nano OCD 9010M. Nanometrics has invested substantial time and resources into the development of the products. However, Nanometrics cannot accurately predict the future level of acceptance of its new products by its customers. As a result, Nanometrics may not be able to generate anticipated revenue from sales of these products. While Nanometrics anticipates that its new products will become an increasingly larger component of its business, their failure to gain acceptance with Nanometrics' customers could materially harm its business.

Additionally, if Nanometrics' new products do gain market acceptance, its ability to sell its existing products may be impeded. As a result, there can be no assurance that the introduction of these products will be commercially successful or that these products will result in significant additional revenues or improved operating margins in future periods.

Nanometrics intellectual property may be infringed upon by third parties despite Nanometrics efforts to protect it, which could threaten Nanometrics future success and competitive position and adversely affect its operating results.

Nanometrics future success and competitive position depends in part upon its ability to obtain and maintain proprietary technology for Nanometrics principal product families, and it relies, in part, on patent, trade secret and trademark law to protect that technology. If Nanometrics fails to adequately protect its intellectual property, it will be easier for Nanometrics competitors to sell competing products. Nanometrics owns or has licensed a number of patents relating to its metrology systems, and has filed applications for additional patents. Any of Nanometrics pending patent applications may be rejected, and Nanometrics may not in the future be able to develop additional proprietary technology that is patentable. In addition, the patents Nanometrics does own or that have been issued or licensed to it may not provide Nanometrics with competitive advantages and may be challenged by third parties. Third parties may also design around these patents.

In addition to patent protection, Nanometrics relies upon trade secret protection for its confidential and proprietary information and technology. Nanometrics routinely enters into confidentiality agreements with its employees. However, in the event that these agreements may be breached, Nanometrics may not have adequate remedies. Nanometrics confidential and proprietary information and technology might also be independently developed by or become otherwise known to third parties. Nanometrics may be required to initiate litigation in order to enforce any patents issued to or licensed by Nanometrics, or to determine the scope or validity of a third party s patent or other proprietary rights. Any such litigation, regardless of outcome, could be expensive and time consuming, and could subject Nanometrics to significant liabilities or require Nanometrics to re-engineer its products or obtain expensive licenses from third parties, any of which would adversely affect Nanometrics business and operating results.

If Nanometrics chooses to acquire new and complementary businesses, products or technologies instead of developing them itself, it may be unable to complete these acquisitions or may not be able to successfully integrate an acquired business in a cost-effective and non-disruptive manner.

Nanometrics success depends on its ability to continually enhance and broaden its product offerings in response to changing technologies, customer demands and competitive pressures. To achieve this, from time to time Nanometrics has acquired complementary businesses, products, or technologies instead of developing them itself and may choose to do so in the future. For example, Nanometrics recently announced its intent to merge with August Technology, a leader in macro defect inspection. Nanometrics does not know if it will be able to complete any acquisitions, or whether it will be able to successfully integrate any acquired business, operate them profitably or retain their key employees. Integrating any business, product or technology that Nanometrics acquires could be expensive and time consuming, disrupt Nanometrics ongoing business and distract its management. In addition, in order to finance any acquisitions, Nanometrics may be required to raise additional funds through public or private equity or debt financings. In that event, Nanometrics could be forced to obtain financing on terms that are not favorable to it and, in the case of an equity financing, that results in dilution to Nanometrics shareholders. If Nanometrics is unable to integrate any acquired entities, products or technologies effectively, its business will suffer. Nanometrics ability to integrate other businesses, including August Technology, will be challenged further by its newly implemented ERP system.

Nanometrics must attract and retain key personnel with relevant industry knowledge to help support its future growth.

Nanometrics success depends to a significant degree upon the continued contributions of Nanometrics key management, engineering, sales and marketing, customer support, finance and manufacturing personnel. Nanometrics does not generally enter into employment contracts with any of its key personnel. The loss of any of these key personnel, who would be difficult to replace, could harm Nanometrics business and operating results. To support Nanometrics future growth, Nanometrics will need to attract and retain additional qualified employees. Competition for such personnel in Nanometrics industry is ongoing, and Nanometrics may not be successful in attracting and retaining qualified employees.

Nanometrics manufactures all of its systems at a limited number of facilities, and any prolonged disruption in the operations of those facilities could reduce Nanometrics' revenues.

Nanometrics produces all of its systems in its manufacturing facilities located in Milpitas, California and through Nanometrics' subsidiaries in Japan and South Korea. Nanometrics' manufacturing processes are highly complex and require sophisticated, costly equipment and specially designed facilities. As a result, any prolonged disruption in the operations of Nanometrics' manufacturing facilities could seriously harm Nanometrics' ability to satisfy its customer order deadlines. A significant portion of Nanometrics' operations is located in Japan and South Korea, which may be subject to regional political and economic instability.

Nanometrics' efforts to protect its intellectual property may be less effective in some foreign countries where intellectual property rights are not as well protected as in the United States.

In 2002, 2003 and 2004, 69.0%, 74.8% and 71.0%, respectively, of Nanometrics' total net revenues were derived from sales to customers in foreign countries, including certain countries in Asia, such as Taiwan, South Korea and Japan. The laws of some foreign countries do not protect Nanometrics' proprietary rights to as great an extent as do the laws of the United States, and many United States companies have encountered substantial problems in protecting their proprietary rights against infringement in such countries. If Nanometrics fails to adequately protect its intellectual property in these countries, it would be easier for Nanometrics' competitors to sell competing products.

Continuing economic and political instability could affect Nanometrics' business and results of operations.

The ongoing threat of terrorism targeted at the United States or other regions where Nanometrics conducts business increases the uncertainty in Nanometrics' markets and the economy in general. This uncertainty is likely to result in economic stagnation, which would harm Nanometrics' business. In addition, increased international political instability may hinder Nanometrics' ability to do business by increasing its costs of operations. For example, Nanometrics' transportation costs, insurance costs and sales efforts may become more expensive as a result of geopolitical tension. These tensions may also negatively affect Nanometrics' suppliers and customers. If this international economic and political instability continues or increases, Nanometrics' business and results of operations could be harmed.

We will incur increased costs as a result of recent changes in laws and regulations affecting public companies.

Compliance with recent changes in laws and regulations affecting public companies, including the provisions of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act, may result in increased accounting, legal and administrative costs. In particular, Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 and the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board impose new requirements with respect to the evaluation of the effectiveness of the Company's internal controls. The cost of complying with these new requirements could be substantial.

Nanometrics' quarterly operating results have varied in the past and probably will continue to vary significantly in the future, which will cause volatility in Nanometrics' stock price.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

Nanometrics' quarterly operating results have varied significantly in the past and are likely to vary in the future, which volatility could cause Nanometrics' stock price to decline. Some of the factors that may influence Nanometrics' operating results and subject its stock to extreme price and volume fluctuations include:

changes in customer demand for Nanometrics' systems;

economic conditions in the semiconductor and flat panel display industries;

the timing, cancellation or delay of customer orders and shipments; market acceptance of Nanometrics' products and its customers' products;

competitive pressures on product prices and changes in pricing by Nanometrics customers or suppliers;

the timing of new product announcements and product releases by Nanometrics or its competitors and Nanometrics ability to design, introduce and manufacture new products on a timely and cost-effective basis;

the timing of acquisitions of businesses, products or technologies;

the levels of Nanometrics fixed expenses, including research and development costs associated with product development, relative to its revenue levels; and fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates, particularly the Japanese yen.

If Nanometrics operating results in any period fall below the expectations of securities analysts and investors, the market price of Nanometrics common stock would likely decline.

Nanometrics is highly dependent on international sales and operations, which exposes it to foreign political and economic risks.

Sales to customers in foreign countries accounted for approximately 69.0%, 74.8% and 71.0%, of Nanometrics total net revenues in 2002, 2003 and 2004, respectively. Nanometrics maintains facilities in Japan and South Korea. Nanometrics anticipates that international sales will continue to account for a significant portion of its revenues. International sales and operations carry inherent risks such as: regulatory limitations imposed by foreign governments, obstacles to the protection of Nanometrics intellectual property, political, military and terrorism risks, disruptions or delays in shipments caused by customs brokers or other government agencies, unexpected changes in regulatory requirements, tariffs, customs, duties and other trade barriers, difficulties in staffing and managing foreign operations, and potentially adverse tax consequences resulting from changes in tax laws.

If any of these risks materialize and Nanometrics is unable to manage them, Nanometrics international sales and operations would suffer.

Nanometrics is subject to various environmental laws and regulations that could impose substantial costs upon it and may adversely affect its business, operating results and financial condition.

Some of Nanometrics operations use substances regulated under various federal, state, local, and international laws governing the environment, including those relating to the storage, use, discharge, disposal, labeling, and human exposure to hazardous and toxic materials. Nanometrics could incur costs, fines and civil or criminal sanctions, third-party property damage or personal injury claims, or could be required to incur substantial investigation or remediation costs, if it were to violate or become liable under environmental laws. Liability under environmental laws can be joint and several and without regard to comparative fault. Compliance with current or future environmental laws and regulations could restrict Nanometrics ability to expand its facilities or require it to acquire additional expensive equipment, modify its manufacturing processes, or incur other significant expenses. There can be no assurance that violations of environmental laws or regulations will not occur in the future as a result of the inability to obtain permits, human error, equipment failure or other causes.

Risks Related to August Technology's Business

The microelectronic industries that August Technology serves are highly cyclical, causing significant variability in August Technology's results of operations.

August Technology primarily serves microelectronic industries and its business depends heavily upon capital expenditures by manufacturers in these industries. Microelectronic industries are highly cyclical, with periods of capacity shortage and periods of excess capacity; this is historically due to sudden changes in demand for microelectronic devices. In periods of excess capacity, there are often drastic changes in the timing and quantity of capital equipment purchases and investments in new technology or capacity needs by August Technology's customers. The timing, length and volatility of these periods are difficult to predict, resulting in pressure on August Technology's revenues, gross margin and net income. In addition to affecting August Technology's customers, downturns also challenge August Technology's suppliers, vendors, other partners, as well as August Technology's management, sales, engineering, manufacturing, customer service and other employees, who are vital to August Technology's success.

During downturns in microelectronic industries, customers typically reduce or delay purchases, and/or delay delivery or cancel orders. As a result, it is imperative that August Technology maintains an organization able to quickly and effectively align with market conditions, including bringing August Technology's cost structures in line with current industry and overall market conditions. At the same time, August Technology must also meet the following objectives:

- continue to serve August Technology's existing customers;
- provide new and improved solutions for new and existing customers;
- operate effectively with August Technology's suppliers; and
- motivate and retain key employees.

If August Technology is, for any reason, unable to achieve any one or more of the above objectives in an efficient, effective and timely manner, there could be a material adverse effect on August Technology's business, financial condition and results of operations. Furthermore, any delays or reductions in future purchases of capital equipment or delays or cancellations of current orders by microelectronic device manufacturers, for any reason, would likely have a material adverse effect on August Technology's business, financial condition and results of operations.

August Technology's future rate of growth is highly dependent on the development and growth of the market for microelectronic device inspection equipment.

August Technology primarily targets its products to address the needs of microelectronic device manufacturers for defect inspection and metrology. If for any reason the market for microelectronic device inspection equipment fails to grow in the long term, contrary to August Technology's current expectations August Technology may be unable to maintain current revenue levels in the short term and return to August Technology's historical growth in the long term. Growth in this market is dependent to a large extent upon microelectronic manufacturers replacing manual inspection with automated inspection technology. There is no assurance that manufacturers will undertake this replacement at the rate August Technology expects.

August Technology's sales and operating results can fluctuate significantly from period to period, which may adversely affect the market price of August Technology's stock.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

August Technology's quarterly and annual operating results are affected by a wide variety of factors that could adversely affect sales or operating results, or lead to significant variability in August Technology's operating results. In addition, because a significant portion of August Technology's revenue in any particular quarter has historically come from the sale of a relatively small number of systems, the loss of any sale could have a significant negative impact. A variety of factors could cause this variability, including the following:

order cancellations or delays in orders by customers;

the long sales cycle of August Technology's products;

decreases in capital spending by August Technology's customers;

new product introductions by August Technology's competitors and competitive pricing pressures; entrance into, or additional resources focused on, August Technology's markets by larger competitors; component shortages resulting in manufacturing delays; and delays in the development, introduction and manufacture of August Technology's products.

August Technology cannot predict the impact of these and other factors on August Technology's revenues and operating results in any future period. Results of operations in any period, therefore, should not be considered indicative of the results to be expected for any future period. Because of this difficulty in predicting future performance, August Technology's operating results may fall below expectations of securities analysts or investors in a future quarter or quarters. August Technology's failure to meet these expectations would likely adversely affect the market price of August Technology's common stock.

Global economic and political environments are important to economic conditions, and long-term continued risk or concerns regarding economic and political circumstances could decrease customer demand for August Technology's products.

Future political or related events similar or comparable to the September 11, 2001 terrorist attacks, significant military conflicts, or long term reactions of governments and society to such events, may significantly affect the willingness or ability of August Technology's customers to visit August Technology's facilities or trade shows, review August Technology's systems' capabilities and/or purchase or take delivery of August Technology's products. Such events may also affect August Technology's abilities to visit its customers, to perform application studies for its customers, and sell and deliver solutions and to service those solutions. Any decline in the willingness or ability of August Technology's customers to travel and visit August Technology's facilities, or in August Technology's ability to travel and visit its customers, could have a material adverse effect on August Technology's business, financial condition and results of operations. In addition, such events could have an adverse effect on the economy generally, and microelectronic industries in particular, causing August Technology's customers to reduce or delay capital equipment purchases.

The market acceptance of August Technology's products is critical to August Technology's growth.

Microelectronic device manufacturing equipment and processes are subject to rapid technological changes. August Technology continues to expend significant resources developing new systems, new models to existing system series and improvements or enhancements on current models. Due to the length of the product development cycles in August Technology's industries, August Technology must make these significant time and resource expenditures well in advance of any prospect of a revenue stream from such new products. If August Technology's customers do not continue to accept its current products and also accept and integrate its new products into their operations, August Technology's revenue, cash flow, operating results or stock price would be negatively and materially impacted.

August Technology's growth expectations are dependent on successfully penetrating the front-end of the microelectronic device manufacturing process.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

August Technology continues to enhance its inspection and metrology product offering for the front-end of the microelectronic device manufacturing process, a market segment that August Technology has limited experience in serving. August Technology is not a well-recognized supplier to this market, and will need to establish new customer relationships and win the confidence of these customers to compete effectively in this market. The front-end of the microelectronic device manufacturing market is dominated by large, well-established competitors with significantly greater resources and name recognition than August Technology. In order to compete effectively with these larger competitors, August Technology must develop process and applications expertise to identify the inspection needs of this market and produce cost-effective, technologically advanced solutions addressing these needs. In addition, August Technology must create and execute programs to effectively market to and service these customers. Failure to successfully penetrate the front-end of the microelectronic device manufacturing market would materially adversely affect August Technology's business prospects.

If August Technology is unable to keep pace with rapid technological changes by developing and introducing successful new products and technologies in a timely manner, August Technology's products may become obsolete and its business will suffer.

The microelectronic capital equipment manufacturing business is a highly competitive business and microelectronic device manufacturing equipment and processes are subject to rapid technological changes. August Technology believes that its future success will depend in large part upon its ability to continue to enhance its existing product line to meet customer needs and to develop and introduce new products in a timely manner. August Technology cannot assure you that its product enhancement efforts to improve and advance products, such as the AXi, NSX and 3Di Series, or August Technology's new product development efforts such as E-2O for edge and B-2O for backside inspection systems, will be successful or that it will be able to respond effectively to technological change. In addition, August Technology cannot provide assurance that it will be able to develop new products for the most opportunistic new markets and applications.

August Technology continues to make significant investments in research, development and engineering in new technology and/or businesses with new or complementary products, services and/or technologies, and August Technology is aware of the numerous risks associated therewith, including but not limited to:

diversion of management's attention from day-to-day operational matters and current products and customers; lack of synergy, or the inability to realize expected synergies;

failure to commercialize the new technology or business;

failure to meet the expected performance of the new technology or business; lower-than-expected market opportunities or market acceptance of any new products; and unexpected reduction of sales of existing products by new products.

If August Technology is unsuccessful at developing new products and technologies, its revenue, operating results or stock price would be negatively impacted.

August Technology's products are complex and any product or process development issues could negatively impact August Technology's operations or financial results.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

August Technology's products are complex and often the applications to its customers' businesses are unique. August Technology believes that its future success will depend in part upon its ability to meet its customers' functionality and reliability requirements in a timely manner. August Technology cannot be sure that its product offerings, application assistance, enhancement efforts, or its new product development efforts will fulfill critical functionality and reliability requirements. In addition, new product offerings that are highly complex in terms of software or hardware may require application or service work such as bug fixing prior to acceptance, thereby delaying revenue recognition. If August Technology is unsuccessful in these areas, its market share, revenue, operating results or stock price could be negatively impacted.

August Technology's market is highly competitive and August Technology may lose business to larger and better-financed competitors.

The microelectronic defect inspection equipment industry is highly competitive in national and international markets. August Technology has many domestic and foreign competitors. August Technology's current primary competitors in final manufacturing, testing and solutions are Camtek Ltd., Hitachi, Ltd., ICOS Vision Systems, Robotic Vision Systems, Inc. and Toray Industries, Inc. As August Technology enters the front-end market, it expects to compete with larger competitors, such as KLA-Tencor Corporation and Rudolph Technologies, Inc., for certain automated macro inspection applications. Most of these competitors, as well as other potential competitors, have substantially greater financial resources and more extensive engineering, manufacturing, marketing and customer support capabilities than does August Technology. Unless August Technology is able to continue to invest significant financial resources in developing products and enhancing customer support worldwide, August Technology will likely not be able to compete effectively.

As August Technology continues to diversify into the evolving and emerging microelectronic markets, including semiconductors, advanced packaging, optoelectronics, MEMS, flat panel display, printheads, data storage, disk drives, medical devices and other similar devices, August Technology will face significantly increased competition.

August Technology's operating results could be negatively impacted if it is unable to obtain the necessary resources to invest in its growth.

August Technology intends to continue to make investments to support business growth and may require additional funds to respond to future business challenges, such as the need to develop new products and enhance existing products, enhance August Technology's operating infrastructure, acquire complementary businesses and technologies and satisfy working capital requirements. Accordingly, August Technology may need to engage in equity or debt financing to secure additional funds. Equity and debt financing, however, might not be available when needed or, if available, might not be available on terms satisfactory to August Technology. If August Technology is unable to obtain adequate financing or financing on terms satisfactory to August Technology, its ability to continue to support its business growth and to respond to business challenges could be significantly limited.

August Technology's success depends on attracting and retaining key personnel.

August Technology's future success will depend in large part upon its ability to recruit and retain highly skilled technical, manufacturing, managerial, financial and marketing personnel. The labor market in which August Technology operates is highly competitive and as a result, August Technology may not be able to retain and recruit key personnel. August Technology's failure to hire, retain, or adequately train key personnel could have a negative impact on its future financial and business results.

In addition, during the recent microelectronic industry downturn August Technology has had reductions in its work force, reduced or eliminated salary increases and for certain periods, implemented pay cuts at the management level, and reduced discretionary spending. Any of the above measures may have long term adverse effects on August Technology's ability to retain key personnel.

August Technology's business may be harmed if August Technology fails to obtain and protect its intellectual property rights.

August Technology's ability to obtain intellectual property rights and licenses and to preserve other intellectual property rights covering its products and its products under development is an important component of its ability to compete in the microelectronic defect inspection equipment industry. To protect these rights, August Technology has obtained 14 domestic patents and intends to continue to seek patents on its inventions when appropriate. As of December 31, 2004, August Technology has 53 pending patent applications in the United States and additional international applications and expects its portfolio to increase in the future. The process of seeking intellectual property protection is time-consuming and expensive. August Technology cannot ensure that:

patents will be issued from currently pending or future applications; its existing patents or any new patents will be sufficient in scope or strength to provide meaningful protection or any commercial advantage to August Technology;

foreign intellectual property laws will protect August Technology's intellectual property rights; or others will not independently develop similar products, duplicate August Technology's products or design around August Technology's technology.

If August Technology does not successfully protect and then enforce its intellectual property rights, August Technology's competitive position could suffer, which could harm its operating results.

August Technology also relies on trade secrets, proprietary know-how and confidentiality provisions in agreements with employees, consultants, key customers and vendors to protect its intellectual property. Other parties may not comply with the terms of their agreements with August Technology and August Technology may not be able to adequately enforce its rights against these people.

Third parties may claim that August Technology is infringing upon their intellectual property and August Technology could suffer significant litigation costs, licensing expenses or be prevented from selling August Technology's products.

Intellectual property rights are uncertain and involve complex legal and factual questions. August Technology may be unknowingly infringing upon the intellectual property rights of others and may be liable for that infringement, which could result in significant liability for August Technology. If August Technology does infringe upon the intellectual property rights of others, it could be forced to either seek a license to those intellectual property rights or to alter its products so that they no longer infringe. A license could be very expensive to obtain or may not be available at all. Similarly, changing August Technology's products or processes to avoid infringing upon the rights of others may be costly or impractical.

August Technology may become responsible for patent litigation costs. If August Technology were to become involved in a dispute regarding intellectual property, whether its own or that of another company, it may be required to participate in legal proceedings. These types of proceedings will be costly and time-consuming, even if August Technology eventually prevails. If August Technology does not prevail, it might be forced to pay significant damages, obtain licenses, modify its products or processes, stop making products or stop using processes.

August Technology's dependence on a few significant customers exposes it to operating risks.

Sales to August Technology's ten largest customers accounted for 66%, 73% and 66%, of net revenues in 2004, 2003 and 2002, respectively. August Technology's customers are able to cancel orders, prior to shipment, with few or no penalties. If a significant customer reduces orders or delays shipments for any reason, August Technology's revenues, operating results and financial condition will be negatively affected. In addition, August Technology's ability to increase its sales will depend in part upon its ability to obtain orders from new customers for whom there is intense competition.

August Technology's dependence on subcontractors and sole or limited source suppliers may prevent it from delivering an acceptable product on a timely basis and could result in disruption of August Technology's operations.

August Technology relies on subcontractors to manufacture many of the components and subassemblies for its products and August Technology depends on single or limited source suppliers for some of its components. August Technology's reliance on subcontractors reduces the level of control it has over the manufacturing process and exposes it to significant risks such as inadequate capacity, late delivery, substandard quality and high costs.

Table of Contents

If a supplier were to become unable to provide parts in the volumes needed or at an acceptable price, August Technology would have to identify and qualify acceptable replacements from alternative sources of supply, or manufacture the components internally. Depending on the part, the process of qualifying subcontractors and suppliers generally takes between 60 and 180 days. August Technology generally does not have written supply agreements with its single or limited source suppliers and purchases its custom components through blanket and individual purchase orders. If August Technology were unable to obtain these components in a timely fashion, it may not be able to meet demands for future shipments. August Technology believes that it would be able to find alternative solutions if supplies were unavailable from any of August Technology's sole source suppliers, including the supplier of August Technology's image processing component. This may take time and the disruption would adversely affect August Technology's results of operations.

August Technology assembles and tests all of its products at a single facility and any disruption in the operations of that facility could adversely impact its business and operating results.

August Technology's processes for manufacturing its automated inspection systems requires sophisticated and costly equipment and a specially designed facility. August Technology assembles and tests all of its automated inspection systems at one facility located in Bloomington, Minnesota. Any disruption in the operation of that facility, whether due to technical or labor difficulties, destruction or damage from fire or earthquake, infrastructure failures such as power or water shortage or any other reason, could interrupt August Technology's manufacturing operations, impair critical systems, disrupt communications with its customers and suppliers and cause August Technology to write off inventory and to lose sales.

Failure to adjust August Technology's orders for parts and subcomponents in an accurate and timely manner in response to changing market conditions or customer acceptance of its products could adversely affect August Technology's financial position and earnings.

August Technology's earnings could be negatively affected and August Technology's inventory levels could materially increase if August Technology is unable to predict its inventory needs in an accurate and timely manner and adjust its orders for parts and subcomponents should its needs increase or decrease materially due to unexpected increases or decreases in demand for August Technology's products. Any material increase in August Technology's inventories could result in an adverse effect on August Technology's financial position, while any material decrease in its ability to procure needed inventories could result in an inability to supply customer demand for August Technology's products thus adversely affecting its revenues.

August Technology's dependence upon international customers and suppliers may reduce its revenues or impede its ability to supply products.

International sales have accounted for a significant and growing portion of August Technology's revenues in recent years and August Technology expects that the percentage of sales from international customers will continue to increase. Sales outside of the United States accounted for 73%, 76% and 52%, of August Technology's net revenues in 2004, 2003 and 2002, respectively. In addition, August Technology relies on non-United States suppliers for several components of the systems August Technology sells. As a result, a major part of August Technology's revenues and the ability to manufacture its products are subject to the risks associated with international commerce. International sales and August Technology's relationships with suppliers and customers may be hurt by many factors, including:

changes in law or policy resulting in burdensome government controls, tariffs, restrictions, embargoes or export license requirements;

political or economic instability in August Technology's target international markets; instability caused by infectious disease or other like outbreaks, or the threat or concern thereof; longer payment cycles common in foreign markets;

Table of Contents

difficulties in staffing and managing August Technology's international operations; less favorable foreign intellectual property laws making it harder to protect August Technology's technology from appropriation by competitors; difficulties in collecting August Technology's accounts receivable because of the geographic distance and unfavorable creditor laws; and currency fluctuations may increase the relative price of August Technology's products in foreign markets and thereby adversely affect sales.

August Technology is also subject to risks associated with shipping products outside of the United States including shipping delays, varying business conditions, differing business cultures and cultural diversities, among other risks. If August Technology's international sales or relationships with international suppliers and customers are adversely affected by any of these factors, August Technology's financial condition could also be adversely affected.

August Technology's financial performance is highly dependent upon sales to customers in Asia.

Sales to customers in Asia accounted for 68%, 64% and 45%, of August Technology's net revenues in 2004, 2003 and 2002, respectively. August Technology expects its dependence upon the Asian market to increase. In recent years, Asia has experienced serious economic problems including currency devaluations, debt defaults, lack of liquidity and recessions. August Technology's revenues depend upon the capital expenditures of microelectronic manufacturers, many of whom have operations and customers in Asia. Serious economic problems in Asia would likely result in a significant decrease in the sale of equipment to microelectronic industries. If August Technology is unable to maintain its customer relationships in Asia, August Technology's future financial condition, revenues and operating results will be negatively affected.

August Technology will continue to rely upon distributors for a portion of August Technology's future sales, and a disruption in August Technology's relationships with these distributors could have a negative impact on August Technology's international sales.

Sales through August Technology's independent distributors represented 4%, 14% and 8%, of August Technology's net revenues in 2004, 2003 and 2002, respectively. One distributor accounts for a significant portion of these sales. The activities of these distributors are not fully within August Technology's control. Although August Technology believes that it maintains good relations with its independent distributors, the relationships may nevertheless deteriorate in the future. A reduction in the sales or service efforts or financial viability of any of August Technology's independent distributors, or a termination of August Technology's relationships with them, could harm its sales, August Technology's financial results and August Technology's ability to support its customers.

August Technology has acquired Semiconductor Technologies & Instruments, Inc., or STI, the assets of Counterpoint Solutions, Inc., or CSI, and certain assets of the DMSVision software division of Inspex, Inc., or DMSVision, and August Technology may make other acquisitions; the acquisitions of STI, CSI and DMSVision and any future acquisitions may not be successful and may adversely affect August Technology's business.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

August Technology is looking for strategic opportunities to grow and diversify its product offerings through acquisitions. In this regard, August Technology recently completed the acquisitions of STI, CSI and DMSVision. Evaluation of August Technology's business and prospects may be difficult because of August Technology's limited operating history with STI, CSI and DMSVision. There can be no assurance that August Technology will be successful in integrating the operations of STI, CSI and DMSVision, identifying other appropriate candidates, or integrating products and operations with any such candidates that August Technology may acquire.

Table of Contents

Any such acquisition could involve the dilutive issuance of equity securities and the incurrence of debt. In addition, the acquisitions of STI, CSI and DMSVision and future acquisitions may involve numerous additional risks, including:

the diversion of the attention of August Technology's management team from other business concerns; risks of entering into markets or producing products where August Technology has limited or no experience, including difficulties in integrating purchased technologies and products with August Technology's technologies and products;

the potential loss of key customers of an acquired company;

the potential loss of key personnel of an acquired company; exposure to unanticipated liabilities of an acquired company; and greater financial requirements for purchase price and added working capital.

Even when an acquired company has already developed and marketed products, there can be no assurance that the products will continue to be successful, that product enhancements will be made in a timely fashion or that pre-acquisition due diligence will have identified all possible issues that might arise with respect to the acquired company or its products.

If a microelectronic device manufacturer is loyal to another microelectronic equipment supplier, August Technology may be unable to sell its products to that potential customer and its sales and market share could suffer as a result.

August Technology believes that once a microelectronic device manufacturer has selected one vendor's capital equipment for a production line application, the manufacturer generally relies upon that capital equipment and, to the extent possible, subsequent generations of the same vendor's equipment, for the life of the application. Once a vendor's equipment has been installed in a production line, a microelectronic device manufacturer must often make substantial technical modifications and may experience production-line downtime in order to switch to another vendor's equipment. Accordingly, unless August Technology's systems offer performance or cost advantages that outweigh a customer's expense of switching to August Technology's systems, it will be difficult for it to achieve significant sales to that customer once it has selected another vendor's capital equipment for an application.

Changes in accounting for stock-based compensation could adversely affect August Technology's results of operations.

August Technology has historically compensated its employees, including many key personnel and new hires, through the issuance of options to acquire capital stock. Effective as of the third quarter of fiscal year ended 2005, August Technology will be required to expense unvested and newly issued employee stock options. This change from current accounting regulations could have a significant impact on August Technology's results of operations and could affect the manner in which August Technology conducts business.

If August Technology cannot effectively manage its growth, August Technology's business may suffer.

August Technology intends to continue to grow by increasing its sales efforts and completing strategic acquisitions. To effectively manage August Technology's growth, August Technology must, among other things:

engage, train and manage a larger sales force and additional service personnel;

expand the geographic coverage of August Technology's sales force;

expand August Technology's information systems;

Table of Contents

identify and successfully integrate acquired businesses into August Technology's operations; and administer appropriate financial and administrative control procedures.

August Technology's anticipated growth will likely place a significant strain on its management, financial, operational, technical, sales and administrative resources. Any failure to effectively manage its growth may cause August Technology's business to suffer and its stock price to decline.

Increased competition could impair sales of August Technology's products or cause it to reduce its prices.

August Technology expects its current competitors and other companies to continue to improve the design and performance of their products and to introduce new products with competitive prices and performance characteristics. Competitive pressures may from time to time require August Technology to selectively reduce prices on August Technology's systems in an effort to protect August Technology's market share. Even if August Technology reduce prices, August Technology's potential customers may choose to purchase competing products developed by August Technology's competitors, many of whom have development, production, marketing and distribution resources significantly greater than August Technology's own. Price reductions or lost sales as a result of these competitive pressures would reduce August Technology's total revenues and adversely impact its financial results.

August Technology's operations could be impaired as a result of disasters, business interruptions beyond its control or similar events, including global or regional outbreaks of infectious diseases such as severe acute respiratory syndrome.

Disasters such as earthquakes, flooding, fire, electricity failure, or accidents that affect August Technology's operations, manufacturing facility, or the health of August Technology's employees or customers could adversely affect August Technology's operating results and financial condition. Continued or future outbreaks of infectious diseases such as severe acute respiratory syndrome, or SARS, avian flu, or other similar or comparable outbreaks or fears or concerns of possible outbreaks may significantly affect the willingness or ability of August Technology's customers to visit August Technology's facilities or trade shows, review August Technology's systems' capabilities and/or purchase or take delivery of August Technology's products, as well as August Technology's ability to visit its customers, to perform application studies for its customers, to sell and deliver products, and to service those products. Any government mandated or suggested restrictions on travel, quarantines, or declines in the willingness or ability of August Technology's customers to travel and visit August Technology's facilities or August Technology's ability to travel and visit its customers, could have a material adverse effect on August Technology's business, financial condition and results of operations.

A proposal to ratify the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

Nanometrics shareholders will also be asked to consider and vote upon any other business as may properly come before the annual meeting or any adjournments or postponements of the annual meeting. Nanometrics does not expect that any matter other than the proposals presented in this joint proxy statement/prospectus will be brought before the Nanometrics annual meeting. However, if other matters incident to the conduct of the annual meeting are properly presented at the annual meeting or any adjournment or postponement of the annual meeting, the persons named as proxies will vote in accordance with their best judgment with respect to those matters.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

Nanometrics shareholders are voting on each proposal separately. Except as described below, the vote of a Nanometrics shareholder on one proposal has no bearing on any of the other proposals, or any other matter that may come before the Nanometrics annual meeting or any adjournment or postponement thereof. In their discretion, the proxies are authorized to vote upon such other business as may properly be presented to the annual meeting or any adjournments or postponements thereof. If you vote AGAINST any of the proposals, the proxy holders will not be authorized to vote for any adjournments or postponements of the annual meeting, including for the purpose of soliciting additional proxies, unless you so indicate by marking the appropriate box on the proxy card for the annual meeting.

Recommendation of the Nanometrics Board of Directors

After careful consideration, the Nanometrics board of directors determined that the August merger is advisable, and is fair to and in the best interests of Nanometrics and its shareholders, and unanimously approved the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement.

The Nanometrics board of directors unanimously recommends that you vote:

FOR the proposal to approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in connection with the merger of August Technology Corporation with Major League Merger Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics, pursuant to an Agreement and Plan of Merger and Reorganization, dated as of January 21, 2005, by and among Nanometrics, Major League Merger Corporation, Minor League Merger Corporation and August Technology Corporation.

FOR the proposal to approve the reincorporation of Nanometrics under the laws of the State of Delaware through a merger of Nanometrics with Minor League Merger Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics.

FOR the proposal to elect seven director nominees to the Nanometrics board of directors to serve until the next annual meeting of Nanometrics shareholders at which their respective successors are elected and qualified, or until the earlier of their death, resignation or removal.

FOR the proposal to ratify the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

Record Date; Outstanding Shares; Voting Rights

Only holders of record of Nanometrics common stock at the close of business on the Nanometrics record date for the annual meeting, _____, 2005, are entitled to notice of and to vote at the annual meeting. As of the Nanometrics record date, there were _____ shares of Nanometrics common stock outstanding and entitled to vote at the annual meeting, held by approximately _____ holders of record. Each record holder of Nanometrics common stock on the Nanometrics record date is entitled to one vote for each share of Nanometrics common stock owned as of the Nanometrics record date with respect to all proposals except with respect to the election of directors.

The candidates for the Nanometrics board of directors receiving the seven highest vote totals will be elected to the Nanometrics board of directors. Every shareholder voting for the election of the Nanometrics board of directors may (i) cumulate such shareholder's votes and give any one candidate a number of votes equal to the number of directors to be elected multiplied by the number of shares that such shareholders holds on the record date for the annual meeting, or (ii) distribute such shareholder's votes on the same principle among as many candidates as the shareholder may select, provided that votes cannot be cast for more than seven candidates. However, no shareholder will be entitled to cumulate votes for a candidate unless the candidate's name has been placed in nomination prior to the voting and the shareholder, or any other shareholder, has given notice at the annual meeting prior to the voting of the intention to cumulate votes.

A list of Nanometrics shareholders will be available for review at the Nanometrics annual meeting and at the executive offices of Nanometrics during regular business hours for a period of ten days before the Nanometrics annual meeting.

Admission to the Annual Meeting

Only Nanometrics shareholders, their designated proxies and guests of Nanometrics may attend the Nanometrics annual meeting. If you plan to attend the Nanometrics annual meeting and wish to vote in person, you will be given a ballot at the annual meeting. Please note, however, that if your shares are held in street name, which means your shares are held of record by a broker, bank or other nominee, and you wish to vote at the Nanometrics annual meeting, you must bring to the annual meeting a legal proxy from the record holder of your shares authorizing you to attend and vote at the Nanometrics annual meeting.

Quorum and Vote Required

A quorum of shareholders is necessary to hold a valid annual meeting of Nanometrics shareholders. In order to have a quorum for the transaction of business at the Nanometrics annual meeting, a majority of shares of

Table of Contents

Nanometrics common stock issued and outstanding and entitled to vote on the record date must be present in person or by proxy at the annual meeting. Shares that are voted FOR, AGAINST or WITHHELD FROM a matter are treated as being present at the annual meeting for purposes of establishing a quorum.

Proposal 1

Approval of the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the shares of Nanometrics common stock represented and voting at the Nanometrics annual meeting.

Proposal 2

Approval of the reincorporation merger will require the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the outstanding shares of Nanometrics common stock entitled to vote on the record date.

Proposal 3

The candidates for the Nanometrics board of directors receiving the seven highest vote totals will be elected to serve as directors of Nanometrics.

Proposal 4

Approval by the shareholders of the selection of the independent registered public accounting firm is not required, but Nanometrics' audit committee believes it is desirable to submit this matter to the shareholders. If holders of a majority of the common stock represented and voting at the Nanometrics annual meeting do not ratify the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics' independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics' fiscal year ending December 31, 2005, the audit committee will consider whether it should select another independent registered public accounting firm.

Voting Agreements

All of the Nanometrics directors and executive officers have entered into voting agreements with August Technology pursuant to which they have agreed to vote all of their respective shares of Nanometrics common stock in favor of the Nanometrics' proposal to approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger and in favor of the reincorporation merger.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

At the close of business on January 21, 2005, the date of the merger agreement, directors and executive officers of Nanometrics and their affiliates beneficially owned and were entitled to vote 3,392,274 shares of Nanometrics common stock, collectively representing approximately 26.9% of the shares of Nanometrics common stock outstanding on that date.

As of the record date for the Nanometrics annual meeting, directors and executive officers of Nanometrics and their affiliates owned beneficially or were entitled to vote shares of Nanometrics common stock, collectively representing approximately % of the shares of Nanometrics common stock outstanding on that date.

Voting

General

Nanometrics shareholders of record as of the Nanometrics record date may vote their shares by attending the Nanometrics annual meeting and voting their shares in person or by completing, signing and dating their respective proxy cards for the annual meeting and mailing them in the postage pre-paid envelope enclosed for that purpose. Nanometrics shareholders holding shares of Nanometrics common stock in street name, which means that their shares are held of record by a broker, bank, or other nominee, may vote by mail by completing, signing and dating the voting instruction forms for the Nanometrics annual meeting provided by their respective brokers, banks, or other nominees and returning their respective voting instruction forms to the record holders of their shares of Nanometrics common stock. Even if you plan to attend the Nanometrics annual meeting, Nanometrics recommends that you vote by proxy prior to the annual meeting. You can always change your vote as described below.

Voting by Proxy

All properly executed proxies that are received prior to the Nanometrics annual meeting and not revoked will be voted at the annual meeting according to the instructions indicated on the proxies. If you do not specify how you wish Nanometrics to vote your shares, your shares will be voted:

FOR the proposal to approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in connection with the merger of August Technology Corporation with Major League Merger Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics, pursuant to an Agreement and Plan of Merger and Reorganization, dated as of January 21, 2005, by and among Nanometrics, Major League Merger Corporation, Minor League Merger Corporation and August Technology Corporation.

FOR the proposal to approve the reincorporation of Nanometrics under the laws of the State of Delaware through a merger of Nanometrics with Minor League Merger Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics.

FOR the proposal to elect seven director nominees to the Nanometrics board of directors to serve until the next annual meeting of Nanometrics shareholders at which their respective successors are elected and qualified, or until the earlier of their death, resignation or removal.

FOR the proposal to ratify the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics independent registered public accounting firm for Nanometrics fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

You may receive more than one proxy card depending on how you hold your shares of Nanometrics common stock. Generally, you need to sign and return all of your proxy cards to vote all of your shares. For example, if you hold shares through someone else, such as a broker, you may get proxy material from that person.

Changing Your Vote

If you are the record holder of your shares of Nanometrics common stock, you can change your vote at any time before your proxy is voted at the Nanometrics annual meeting by:

delivering to the Nanometrics corporate secretary a signed notice of revocation;

granting the Nanometrics proxy holders a new, later-dated proxy, which must be signed and delivered to the Nanometrics corporate secretary in advance of the vote at the annual meeting; or attending the Nanometrics annual meeting and voting in person.

Your attendance alone, however, will not revoke your previously granted proxy. If you hold your shares in street name and you have provided voting instructions to your broker, bank or other nominee for the Nanometrics annual meeting, you must follow the instructions of your broker, bank or other nominee in order to change your vote or revoke your proxy for the Nanometrics annual meeting.

Abstentions and Broker Non-Votes

An abstention occurs when a shareholder attends a meeting, either in person or by proxy, but abstains from voting. While there is no definitive statutory or case law authority in California as to the proper treatment of abstentions, Nanometrics believes that abstentions should be counted for purposes of determining both (i) the presence or absence of a quorum for the transaction of business and (ii) the total number of shares of Nanometrics common stock represented and voting with respect to a proposal. In the absence of controlling authority to the contrary, Nanometrics intends to treat abstentions in this manner.

Broker non-votes are shares held by a broker or other nominee that are represented at the annual meeting, but with respect to which the broker or nominee is not instructed by the beneficial owner of the shares to vote on the particular proposal and the broker does not have discretionary voting power on the proposal. Broker non-votes will be counted for purposes of determining the presence or absence of a quorum but will not be counted for purposes of determining the number of shares represented and voting with respect to a proposal.

For proposal 1, abstentions will have the same effect as voting against approval of the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger; broker non-votes will have no effect.

For proposal 2, abstentions and broker non-votes will have the same effect as voting against approval of the reincorporation merger.

For proposal 3, neither abstentions nor broker non-votes will have any effect on the election of the seven directors.

For proposal 4, abstentions will have the same effect as voting against ratification of the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as Nanometrics independent registered public accounting firm for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2005; broker non-votes will have no effect.

THE AUGUST MERGER

The following is a description of the material aspects of the August merger, including the merger agreement. While Nanometrics and August Technology believe that the following description covers the material terms of the August merger, this description may not contain all of the information that is important to you. Nanometrics and August Technology encourage you to carefully read this entire joint proxy statement/prospectus, including the merger agreement attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A, for a more complete understanding of the August merger.

Background of the August Merger

Each of Nanometrics and August Technology continually monitors the marketplace for strategic opportunities to strengthen their respective businesses. The Nanometrics board of directors and members of Nanometrics' management team have evaluated, on an ongoing basis, strategies to address the increasing consolidation in the semiconductor manufacturing equipment market. As part of this process, Nanometrics board of directors authorized John D. Heaton, President and Chief Executive Officer of Nanometrics, to contact several semiconductor manufacturing technology companies to discuss industry trends.

Beginning in early 2003, the August Technology board of directors began to consider ways to expand August Technology's market presence as well as enhance shareholder value beyond its ability to grow internally. August Technology was then engaged in a joint development program with Samsung Electronics Corporation, or the Samsung program, to position its advanced macro defect inspection products for application in the front-end or wafer processing market, a market substantially larger than the back-end of the semiconductor manufacturing process where August Technology had historically derived most of its revenues. In order to take advantage of the growing market opportunities presented by the expertise and technology generated through the Samsung program, the August Technology board of directors determined that August Technology should consider external alliances, including possible business combinations.

From April 2003 through July 2004, August Technology completed three small acquisitions adding critical inspection and defect information software systems to its product portfolio. During that time, Jeff O'Dell, August Technology's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer, and Stan

Piekos, August Technology's Chief Financial Officer, met with industry participants and management of other larger inspection and metrology companies to assess the merits of a strategic merger or alliance that would allow August Technology to add critical mass and shareholder value.

At August Technology's regular second quarter board of directors meeting held on July 23, 2004, its management provided to the board of directors a list of six potential business combination partners, a brief description of the business and financial information regarding each prospect, a commentary on the fit of each prospect with August Technology and a description of any discussions they had previously held with each prospect. The board of directors scheduled a special meeting on September 9, 2004 to meet with management and a senior investment banker for the purpose of identifying a specific business combination candidate to pursue.

On September 9, 2004, the August Technology board of directors met with representatives of Needham & Company, an investment banking firm, and a senior industry participant to consider business development opportunities in the semiconductor equipment marketplace. The board of directors reviewed six potential strategic business combination partners and evaluated each against the following attributes the board of directors considered desirable in a business combination partner:

A partner with complementary products and solutions and an established presence in front-end wafer processing applications such as lithography, chemical mechanical polishing, or CMP, and etch, where August Technology products are being introduced;

A partner with its own growth momentum and with whom August Technology can deliver revenue synergies;

A partner with no or minimal product and technology overlaps that would have to be rationalized with the customer and employee base;

A partner with whom August Technology could gain leverage from common technology development investments, like automation platforms, and sales and service infrastructure and increasing costs of being a United States public company;

A partner with a strong management team operating in a similar culture of growth and innovation; and

Should the business combination take the form of a merger in which August Technology is not the surviving entity, a partner with a currency in the form of common stock that provides upside and an ownership structure allowing August Technology's shareholders to meaningfully participate in the enhanced shareholder value that August Technology believes will accrue after successful integration.

Based on its review of the candidates against these criteria, the August Technology board of directors concluded that August Technology should initiate discussions with Nanometrics. The August Technology board of directors believed that Nanometrics was an attractive merger candidate because Nanometrics' metrology products complemented August Technology's inspection products with essentially no overlap in the product lines. Combining the two companies, the August Technology board of directors believed, would allow the resulting company to offer customers a broader range of products and increase the market presence and financial strength of the company.

On September 20, 2004, Mr. Heaton visited August Technology's facility in Bloomington, Minnesota, to meet with Messrs. O'Dell and Piekos. Mr. Heaton discussed with Messrs. O'Dell and Piekos the markets and customers served by the respective products produced by Nanometrics and August Technology and the extent to which the two companies' product lines would be complementary. All agreed that customers would benefit from one supplier offering both macro defect inspection and metrology solutions. Mr. O'Dell and Mr. Piekos identified Nanometrics' strength in Japan as an attractive counterbalance to August Technology's relative weakness in the Japanese market. Similarly, August Technology's strength in Taiwan was identified as a counterbalance to Nanometrics' relative weakness in that area. Messrs. Heaton, O'Dell and Piekos also discussed the potential for market synergies and cost synergies from a business combination. During their discussion, Messrs. Heaton, O'Dell and Piekos did not agree to explore any particular relationship or transaction, but did agree to have further discussions.

On October 15, 2004, at August Technology's regular third quarter board of directors meeting, Mr. Piekos reported to the August Technology board of directors on the status of management's discussions with Nanometrics and the advantages that management perceived in a potential business combination with Nanometrics. The August Technology board of directors agreed that conversations with Nanometrics should continue and authorized the engagement of Needham & Company as August Technology's financial advisor to assist in evaluating potential new business development opportunities including the continuing business combination discussions with Nanometrics.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

On October 15, 2004, Needham & Company was formally engaged as August Technology's financial advisor with respect to possible business combinations.

Table of Contents

On October 20, 2004, Mr. Heaton received a phone call from Mr. Piekos during which Mr. Piekos indicated that after the visit and various analyses, August Technology would be interested in further exploring a business combination with Nanometrics.

On October 26, 2004, Nanometrics and August Technology entered into a confidentiality agreement to facilitate the exchange of information between the companies. Thereafter, Nanometrics management and other representatives of Nanometrics, including attorneys at the law firm of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, outside counsel to Nanometrics, began performing due diligence on August Technology. At the same time, representatives of August Technology and attorneys at the law firm of Fredrikson & Byron, P.A., outside counsel to August Technology, began performing due diligence on Nanometrics.

In November of 2004, Mr. Heaton contacted representatives of Adams Harkness, Inc. and discussed the possibility of Adams Harkness providing financial advisory services to Nanometrics in connection with a possible business combination with August Technology.

On November 11, 2004, Mr. Piekos, Ardelle Johnson, August Technology's Vice President-Strategic Marketing, and Cory Watkins, August Technology's Chief Technology Officer, met with Mr. Heaton and the Chairman of the Nanometrics board of directors, Vincent J. Coates, at Nanometrics' offices in Milpitas, California. The principal topic of the meeting concerned the technology and customer solutions offered by each of August Technology and Nanometrics and the market synergies that might be realized in a combination of the companies.

On the morning of November 12, 2004, Mr. Piekos met again with Mr. Heaton and discussed specific customers and the possibility that each company might assist the other with regard to particular customers.

On November 16, 2004, at a regularly scheduled meeting of the Nanometrics board of directors, Mr. Heaton updated the board of directors on his discussions with August Technology's representatives. The board of directors authorized Mr. Heaton to continue discussions with representatives of August Technology and to report on the progress of such discussions. Thereafter, Messrs. Heaton and Piekos agreed to the framework for holding continued discussions between the two companies regarding a possible business combination.

On November 28, 2004, Mr. Piekos contacted Mr. Heaton to further discuss the potential for a strategic transaction involving a combination of the two companies. They discussed a merger of equals in which the Nanometrics shareholders and August Technology shareholders would each hold roughly half of the shares of the combined company, Nanometrics and August Technology would have equal representation on the board of directors of the combined company, the brands established by each company would be maintained and key managers of each company would continue to play leadership roles in the combined company.

On November 29, 2004, Mr. Piekos sent to Mr. Heaton a financial analysis regarding a possible business combination between Nanometrics and August Technology. The analysis presented August Technology management's initial estimates of revenue synergies that might be obtained by each company's cross-selling of products to the other company's customers and cost synergies that might result from the consolidation of certain corporate functions. The proposed business combination reflected in the analysis assumed that August Technology shareholders would own between 42.8% and 47.8% of the combined company on a fully diluted basis and that Nanometrics shareholders would own between 52.2% and 57.2% of the combined company on a fully diluted basis.

In an e-mail transmitting the analysis described above, Mr. Piekos discussed the importance of a merger of equals structure, retaining the brand identities of the two companies, and constructing a board of directors with balanced representation from each organization, and discussed who would hold key management positions within the combined company.

On December 7, 2004, Mr. O Dell visited Nanometrics facility in Milpitas, California to discuss aspects of the proposed business combination with Messrs. Heaton and Coates. The participants also discussed possible structures of the board of directors and management of any combined company, the possible name of the combined company and the location of various corporate activities in Minnesota and California.

Table of Contents

At a special meeting of the Nanometrics board of directors on December 9, 2004, the Nanometrics management team updated the board of directors on discussions with August Technology regarding a possible business combination. The Nanometrics board of directors authorized management to continue discussions with August Technology and to engage financial advisors with respect to a possible business combination with August Technology. Thereafter, Nanometrics engaged Adams Harkness to act as its financial advisor.

On December 11, 2004, Mr. Heaton met with Michael Wright, an independent member of the August Technology board of directors, at the Industry Strategy Symposium in Half Moon Bay, California. Messrs. Heaton and Wright discussed the benefits to the shareholders of Nanometrics and August Technology and shared thoughts on the discussions between Nanometrics and August Technology to date.

During the week of December 13, 2004, Mr. Heaton and other members of the Nanometrics management team traveled to August Technology's headquarters in Bloomington, Minnesota to meet with representatives of August Technology and to perform more detailed due diligence. Mr. Heaton also met with members of the August Technology board of directors to discuss the strategic vision of a potential combined company.

On December 14, 2004, during an adjournment from August Technology's regularly scheduled board of directors meeting, Mr. Heaton made a presentation regarding Nanometrics' business to the assembled August Technology board members. He reviewed Nanometrics' products, customers, markets and industry trends. Following Mr. Heaton's presentation, the August Technology board of directors reconvened its meeting and representatives of Needham & Company discussed with the August Technology board of directors their preliminary financial analysis of a possible business combination between August Technology and Nanometrics. The board of directors discussed the possibility of a merger of equals transaction in which August Technology shareholders would receive approximately 45% of the shares of the resulting combined company on a fully diluted basis and August Technology representatives would have a balanced representation on the board of directors and management of the combined company. The August Technology board of directors concluded that management of August Technology should proceed with discussions with Nanometrics.

On December 17, 2004, Roger Gower, an independent member of the August Technology board of directors, visited with Messrs. Heaton and Coates to discuss various aspects of the proposed business combination and how the combined company would provide shareholders of Nanometrics and August Technology with greater value as well as serve each company's customers better. Experiences with mergers and vision for the proposed combined company were also discussed.

Additionally, the board of directors of Nanometrics convened a special meeting to discuss the potential business combination with August Technology. Representatives of Adams Harkness were invited to give the board of directors a presentation regarding the scope of their engagement, the financial aspects of a proposed business combination with August Technology and a calendar of action items. Mr. Heaton also discussed the need to enter into a mutual nondisclosure agreement which would provide for a period of exclusive negotiations between the parties. The board of directors approved the mutual nondisclosure agreement and authorized Mr. Heaton to execute the agreement on behalf of Nanometrics.

Each of Nanometrics and August Technology executed a mutual confidentiality agreement dated December 17, 2004 which incorporated the obligations of the October 26, 2004 confidentiality agreement between the parties. The mutual confidentiality agreement prohibited both August Technology and Nanometrics from soliciting or encouraging alternative transaction proposals from other parties or furnishing any information to, or participating in any discussions with, any alternative counterparty during an exclusive negotiating period that began on December 17, 2004 and ended on January 31, 2005.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

Also on December 17, 2004, Mr. Piekos made a presentation to Mr. Heaton and members of Nanometrics board of directors regarding August Technology's business, including its products, markets, management and financial matters.

Also on December 17, 2004, Mr. Wright received the following letter from Ken Schroeder, President and Chief Executive Officer of KLA-Tencor Corporation, indicating interest in a strategic business combination between August Technology and KLA-Tencor. The letter refers to August Technology as Ace and KLA-Tencor as King.

December 17, 2004

Mr. Michael W. Wright

Chief Operating Officer

Entegris, Inc.

3500 Lyman Blvd.

Chaska, MN 55318

Dear Michael:

I am writing to express our strong interest in pursuing a strategic combination between [Ace] and [King]. We recognize [Ace] as a leading provider of process control solutions, and have tremendous respect for the employees and management of [Ace] and their accomplishments. We commend the [Ace] team on its strong execution over the past 18 months, particularly its ability to generate strong financial performance and introduce several new products.

As such, we are enthusiastic about the prospect of putting our respective companies together. We believe the strategic and operational merits of a combination would provide significant benefits to the employees, customers, shareholders, and partners of our organizations. After substantial thought about such a combination we are convinced that, together, we could create value for our customers that will be difficult to deliver as separate companies. The combined company would be able to leverage complementary products, technology, and core competencies to address different high growth market segments, thus allowing for a strengthened focus on advancing tool performance while eliminating redundant programs. Importantly, due to the complementary nature of our businesses and product portfolios, we believe that we could accomplish this with minimal disruption to our respective companies through a seamless integration.

In response to the guidance that we received from your advisor at Needham & Company, I have requested that Credit Suisse First Boston present a preliminary, non binding indication of interest, which I have attached to this letter. As you will see in those materials, we are pleased to submit a preliminary offer of $11.00-$12.00 for each share of [Ace] common stock outstanding. This proposal has been based solely on publicly available information, and is subject to, among other things, the successful completion of a due diligence review of [Ace] and approval of the [King] board.

From a financial perspective, we feel that our proposal presents a very compelling transaction for your shareholders. The proposed offer price represents a 17%-28% premium to the latest closing price of [Ace] common stock, and more appropriately, a 25%-41% premium to [Ace s] current enterprise value, excluding cash.

I understand that the [Ace] Board and management team will need to review our preliminary indication of interest in detail. I hope that this will form the basis for further conversations, as our team is proposed to discuss this with you at your earliest convenience. The terms and existence of this proposal are confidential and are only to be shared with those individuals who need to know in order to evaluate the proposal. I look forward to hearing from you soon, and I hope that we will be able to work together to effect a mutually beneficial transaction.

Sincerely yours,

/s/ KENNETH SCHROEDER

On December 21, 2004, August Technology responded by letter to Mr. Schroeder stating that August Technology was not for sale and that the board of directors believed that its current strategic direction would yield substantially more value than the offer submitted by KLA. Pursuant to the terms of its mutual confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics, August Technology forwarded copies of the correspondence to Nanometrics.

Following December 17, 2004, and continuing into early January, Nanometrics and August Technology exchanged and reviewed due diligence information and conducted negotiations regarding a draft merger agreement with respect to a possible business combination.

Between December 20, 2004 and December 31, 2004, Mr. Heaton and Mr. Piekos held a number of meetings both in person and via teleconference in which they continued to discuss various aspects of the possible business combination. Also, in addition, Nanometrics and August Technology continued to exchange due diligence materials during this period, and Nanometrics legal, financial and accounting advisors traveled to Bloomington, Minnesota to perform due diligence on August Technology. Representatives of Nanometrics and August Technology also began to negotiate the terms and conditions of a definitive agreement regarding the possible business combination of Nanometrics and August Technology, including preliminary discussions around an appropriate exchange ratio.

On January 4, 2005, the Nanometrics board of directors convened a special meeting to discuss the possible business combination. Representatives of Adams Harkness and Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, also attended this meeting. During this meeting, Mr. Heaton updated the Nanometrics board of directors on the status of his discussions with Mr. Piekos regarding a possible 100% stock-for-stock merger between Nanometrics and August Technology, in which Nanometrics shareholders would hold approximately 55% of the fully-diluted shares of the combined company's common stock immediately following the business combination. Mr. Heaton relayed to the board of directors his views on the advantages of the proposed merger, as well as certain related risks. He also discussed the advisability of reincorporating into Delaware and adopting certain charter provisions, including a classified board of directors, due to the fact that the combined company would maintain a higher profile than either of the existing companies. Representatives of Adams Harkness then discussed their preliminary analysis of potential strategic alternatives for Nanometrics. The Nanometrics board of directors requested additional analysis from Adams Harkness regarding a strategic business combination with August Technology for a subsequent meeting. Representatives of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, then discussed the board of directors' fiduciary duties in connection with the board's consideration of a possible business combination of Nanometrics and August Technology.

During the week of January 4th, 2005, Mr. Piekos, David Klenk, the President and Chief Operating Officer of August Technology, together with a senior August Technology business team, traveled to Nanometrics' headquarters in Milpitas, California, to meet with representatives of Nanometrics regarding integration planning and to perform more detailed due diligence.

On January 7, 2005, the Nanometrics board of directors convened a special meeting to receive an update on the proposed business combination. Representatives of Adams Harkness attended portions of this meeting. At this meeting, Mr. Heaton updated the board of directors on the status of the negotiations on a definitive agreement. Mr. Heaton also discussed the due diligence findings with the Nanometrics board of directors, which discussion included an overview of August Technology's market, an analysis of the major competitors in the market and their products. Representatives of Adams Harkness then discussed their updated preliminary analysis and responded to the board of directors' earlier request for additional information. The Adams Harkness representatives also discussed their analysis of various exchange ratio alternatives in connection with a possible business combination between Nanometrics and August Technology. The board members and their representatives discussed a number of factors related to the proposed business combination, including the governance and management of the combined company.

Thereafter, Nanometrics, with the assistance of its legal, financial and other advisors, and August Technology, with the assistance of its legal, financial and other advisors, each continued their respective due diligence investigations of the business and operations of the other and of the proposed business combination.

On January 12, 2005, Mr. O Dell and Jim Bernards, August Technology's lead independent director, visited Nanometrics' facility in Milpitas, California to discuss aspects of the proposed business combination with Messrs. Heaton and Coates. The participants also discussed possible structures of the board of directors and management of any combined company, the possible name of the combined company and the location of various corporate activities in Minnesota and California.

On January 14, 2005, the board of directors of August Technology met with Fredrikson & Byron to review the status of the due diligence process, integration planning and negotiation of the merger agreement with respect to the proposed transaction with Nanometrics. The August Technology board of directors concluded that more progress on integration planning was necessary before execution of the merger agreement. Representatives of Fredrikson & Byron reviewed with the board of directors the terms of the draft merger agreement and discussed the board of directors' fiduciary duties with respect to its consideration of the proposed merger.

On January 17, 2005, the Nanometrics board of directors convened a special meeting that was attended by representatives of Adams Harkness and Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation. During this meeting, a representative of Adams Harkness provided the Nanometrics board of directors with a summary of the current business combination proposal, including information on the proposed exchange ratio. A representative of Adams Harkness then reviewed certain aspects of the proposed business combination. The representatives also summarized Adams Harkness' preliminary financial analysis of the business combination based on the proposed exchange ratio described above, after which the Nanometrics board of directors discussed the proposal. Thereafter, a representative of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, reviewed the terms of the draft merger agreement with the Nanometrics board of directors.

On January 17, 2005, Messrs. O Dell and Heaton met at August Technology's headquarters with an integration consultant and various members of August Technology management to discuss integration planning and specifically management structure for the combined organization.

On January 19, 2005, the parties' legal counsel continued negotiations on the draft merger agreement for the proposed business combination throughout the day. Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, then distributed to the Nanometrics board of directors a revised draft of the merger agreement, reflecting the then-current state of negotiations, and a summary of their legal due diligence process and findings.

On January 19, 2005, the Nanometrics board of directors convened a special meeting. Nanometrics management provided the Nanometrics board of directors with a summary of discussions with August Technology that had taken place since the January 17, 2005 board of directors meeting and Adams Harkness reviewed its updated preliminary financial analyses of the proposed business combination based on a range of proposed exchange ratios. Representatives of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, reviewed the proposed merger agreement and provided a summary of the progress in negotiating its definitive terms. The representatives of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, also reviewed for the board of directors Nanometrics' due diligence review of August Technology. The board of directors, after thorough discussion and review, authorized management to continue to work toward finalizing the merger agreement.

On the afternoon of January 19, 2005, Nanometrics' legal counsel delivered a revised draft of the merger agreement to August Technology's legal counsel. The parties' legal counsel then continued negotiations on the draft merger agreement throughout the day and into the evening.

On January 19, 2005, August Technology received the following letter from KLA-Tencor Corporation:

January 18, 2005

Mr. David Klenk

President

August Technology

4900 West 78th Street

Dear Mr. Klenk:

I am writing to express our disappointment with the written response that we received from you on December 21, 2004. As you know, KLA Tencor has for some time studied the possibility of a strategic business combination with August Technology. We have the highest regard for your company and employees and are convinced that the strategic, operational and financial merits of a combination are compelling and will provide significant benefits to customers and employees, as well as compelling value to August shareholders.

Following our prior correspondence of December 17, 2004, I had a chance to speak with Michael Wright, who indicated that our valuation range previously set forth was not perceived as warranting further discussions with us. Based on our work to date, which has been limited to public sources, we proposed to acquire August Technology for up to $12 per share in cash, which now represents a 31% premium to market. We are prepared to consider a higher valuation range than set forth in our prior letter and would require a brief period of high level due diligence, principally in the areas of financial, operational and customer aspects of August Technology, in order to do so. KLA Tencor is prepared to consider using stock for some or all of the transaction consideration if that would be attractive to August Technology. Our team can be in Minnesota at your convenience to begin a due diligence review.

To reiterate, we are committed to moving forward with discussions and due diligence to reach a mutually agreeable transaction, an action supported by KLA Tencor's Executives and Board. To this end, we would appreciate hearing from you no later than January 24, 2005 and we have asked our financial advisors to also contact your representative at Needham and Co. in order to move forward expeditiously.

Sincerely yours,

On January 19, 2005, the board of directors of August Technology met with representatives of Fredrikson & Byron and Needham & Company to discuss the letter from KLA-Tencor and the proposed business combination with Nanometrics. The August Technology board of directors considered the references to up to $12 cash price and the potential for a higher valuation range as compared to the opportunities presented by the proposed merger with Nanometrics. The board of directors also considered August Technology's obligations under the mutual confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics. Because the mutual confidentiality agreement prohibited August Technology from entering into discussions with KLA-Tencor and because the August Technology board of directors, with the advice of its financial advisors, believed that the proposed merger with Nanometrics provided a greater opportunity for growth in value than the preliminary proposal from KLA-Tencor, the August Technology board of directors concluded that it would reject the KLA-Tencor proposal and continue with negotiations regarding the merger with Nanometrics.

At the January 19, 2005 meeting, the August Technology board of directors also discussed with its financial advisors the proposed terms of the Nanometrics merger in light of trends in the trading prices of August Technology and Nanometrics common stock. The August Technology board of directors determined, based on the advice of its financial advisor, to propose to Nanometrics that the percentage of fully-diluted shares of the combined company allocated to August Technology shareholders should be increased from 45% to 46.5%, corresponding to an exchange ratio of 0.6401 of a share of the combined company's common stock for each share of August Technology common stock. The position of the August Technology board of directors was communicated by Mr. O Dell to Mr. Heaton during the course of the August Technology board of directors meeting. Representatives of Needham & Company reviewed with the August Technology board of directors its preliminary financial analysis of such a proposed transaction. Representatives of Fredrikson & Byron reviewed the terms of the draft merger agreement, including unresolved issues still subject to negotiation, and the status of Fredrikson & Byron's due diligence review of Nanometrics.

On January 20, 2005, Messrs. Heaton and Piekos discussed via teleconference the remaining open issues on the draft merger agreement. They agreed to an exchange ratio of 0.6401, which would result in Nanometrics shareholders owning 53.5% of the fully-diluted shares of the combined company, and resolved the remaining issues related to the merger agreement.

On January 20, 2005, the Nanometrics board of directors convened a special meeting to consider approval of the merger agreement. Prior to the meeting, the members of the Nanometrics board of directors were provided with a substantially final draft of the merger agreement. During the meeting, representatives of Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, advised the directors of their fiduciary duties in considering the business combination and described the structure of the August merger and the provisions of the merger agreement. Representatives of Adams Harkness presented their financial analyses of the business combination and delivered Adams Harkness' oral opinion, subsequently confirmed in writing that, as of January 20, 2005 and based upon and subject to the factors and assumptions set forth in its written fairness opinion, the exchange ratio for the August merger is fair from a financial point of view to Nanometrics shareholders. Following a discussion, the Nanometrics board of directors unanimously determined that the merger was advisable, and fair to and in the best interests of Nanometrics and its shareholders, approved the August merger agreement and the proposed merger and resolved to recommend that the Nanometrics shareholders vote to approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger. Thereafter, legal counsel for both Nanometrics and August Technology continued to work to finalize the merger agreement.

On January 20, 2005, the August Technology board of directors met to approve the proposed merger agreement and related transactions. During the meeting, representatives of Fredrikson & Byron advised the directors of their fiduciary duties with respect to the proposed transaction and discussed with the board of directors the structure of the transaction and the provisions of the merger agreement. In connection with the approval, the August Technology board of directors formed a committee consisting of all of the non-employee directors of August Technology to consider the merger agreement and related transactions for purposes of the business combination statute of the Minnesota Business Corporation Act. Representatives of Needham & Company then reviewed their financial analysis of the business combination and delivered its opinion to the August Technology board of directors that, as of January 20, 2005, and based upon and subject to the assumptions and other matters described in the written opinion delivered to the August Technology board of directors, the exchange ratio pursuant to the proposed merger agreement was fair to the holders of August Technology common stock from a financial point of view. After a discussion, the August Technology special committee approved the proposed merger agreement and related transactions and recommended that the full August Technology board of directors approve the merger agreement and the related transactions. The full August Technology board of directors then also approved the merger agreement and the related transactions.

Following the meetings of the board of directors of each of Nanometrics and August Technology, and prior to the beginning of trading on the Nasdaq National Market, Nanometrics and August Technology executed the merger agreement as of January 21, 2005. On the morning of January 21, 2005, Nanometrics and August

Mr. Jeff L. O Dell

Chairman and Chief Executive Officer

August Technology Corporation

4900 West 78th Street

Bloomington, MN 55435

Dear Jeff:

You and I have from time to time discussed how a combination of Rudolph and August would make compelling business sense. Most recently, on January 20th, in an e-mail to you I again reiterated our belief that the business reasons are more compelling than ever and suggested we meet. Despite your recent announcement of an agreement with Nanometrics, we at Rudolph continue to believe that a combination of August with Rudolph remains a much more compelling transaction and therefore we make the following offer.

Rudolph is prepared to enter into a merger with August based on a share exchange ratio of 0.6239 share of Rudolph stock for each share of August common stock (equivalent to $10.50 per share of August stock, based on the closing price of Rudolph stock on January 27, 2005). Each August shareholder may elect to receive all cash, stock, or a combination of cash and stock, subject to proration based on the total cash consideration of $40 million and shares available in the merger. This reflects an aggregate purchase price of over $185 million. We are prepared to meet with you as early as tomorrow and to move expeditiously to close the transaction.

We are also prepared to enter into a customary and reasonable confidentiality agreement no less favorable to August than the one between August and Nanometrics.

Together, as an integrated company we believe that improvements in operating performance, business creation opportunities and other combination benefits will generate enormous value for the shareholders of both companies. This offer enables August shareholders to realize a substantial premium over market for their shares as well as the potential for further value through continued ownership in the combined company.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

The Board of Rudolph has unanimously approved this offer, and has unanimously authorized us to proceed. We look forward to meeting with you as soon as possible to discuss our offer in detail and to achieve a prompt definitive agreement.

Very truly yours,

Also on January 27, 2005, Rudolph issued a press release with proposed terms slightly different from those described in the letter. The first two paragraphs of the press release stated as follows:

Rudolph Technologies Announces Merger Offer for August Technology

January 27, 2005 6:42 p.m.

FLANDERS, N.J., Jan. 27/PRNewswire-First Call/ Rudolph Technologies, Inc. (Nasdaq: RTEC) a leading provider of process control equipment for thin film measurement and macro defect inspection announced today that it has made a merger offer to the Board of Directors of August Technology Corporation (Nasdaq: AUGT).

Rudolph advised the Board of August today that Rudolph is prepared to enter into a merger with August whereby each shareholder of August will receive the value of $2.16 per share in cash and 0.4955 a share in Rudolph common stock (equivalent to $10.50 per share of August stock, based on the closing price of Rudolph stock on January 27, 2005). The offer would include the option for each August shareholder to elect to receive all cash, stock, or a combination of cash and stock, subject to proration based on the total cash consideration of $40 million and shares available in the merger. This reflects an aggregate purchase price of over $190 million. Rudolph advised the August Board that Rudolph is prepared to meet with August as early as tomorrow and to move expeditiously to close the offering. Rudolph is prepared to close the transaction in the second quarter of 2005.

On January 28, 2005, the August Technology board of directors met with representatives of Needham & Company and Fredrikson & Byron to discuss the proposal from Rudolph. Representatives of Fredrikson & Byron reviewed with the board of directors the requirements under the merger agreement with Nanometrics that must be satisfied before any discussion or negotiations with Rudolph would be permitted. The board of directors acknowledged that it did not have sufficient information to make accurate projections about the potential operations of Rudolph and August Technology as a combined entity, and that a thorough analysis required information that could be obtained only through a cooperative due diligence process. The board of directors agreed, therefore, that based on the advice of its financial advisors and legal counsel, it would further examine the Rudolph offer provided that Rudolph first executes a confidentiality agreement in the form required by the merger agreement with Nanometrics.

On February 4, 2005, the board of directors of August Technology met with representatives of Needham & Company and Fredrikson & Byron to further discuss the proposal from Rudolph. Representatives of Fredrikson & Byron discussed with the board of directors its fiduciary duties with respect to the offer and the provisions of the merger agreement with Nanometrics with respect to August Technology's ability to enter into discussions with third party bidders such as Rudolph. Representatives of Needham & Company presented a financial analysis comparing estimates of the equity value per share of August Technology common stock achievable by the end of 2006, first assuming the August merger with Nanometrics and then assuming a merger with Rudolph.

For the analysis assuming the August merger with Nanometrics, Needham & Company used projected 2005 and 2006 financial statements provided by the respective managements of August Technology and Nanometrics and revenue synergies jointly developed by management of August Technology and Nanometrics in connection with their examination of the proposed merger. Each of August Technology and Nanometrics believe sales can be increased by cross selling the other party's products to its customers. Based on estimated 2006 revenues for August Technology and Nanometrics aggregating $236.5 million and assuming synergies that increase revenues by $9 million and decrease expenses (through the application of the Nanometrics business model) by $7.75 million (the middle of the range of synergies presented), pro forma 2006 earnings for August Nanometrics were estimated at $2.14 per share of August Nanometrics stock. Based on an assumed price/earnings multiple of 20, this estimate converted to a projected value of $42.77 per share of August Nanometrics common stock achievable by the end of 2006. Using the exchange ratio of 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each share of August Technology common stock, this converts to a projected equity value of $27.38 for each share of August Technology common stock achievable by the end of 2006.

Table of Contents

For the analysis assuming a merger with Rudolph, Needham & Company used Rudolph's publicly announced proposal for a merger resulting in August Technology shareholders receiving $2.16 in cash and 0.4955 of a share of Rudolph common stock for each share of August Technology common stock. Needham & Company's analysis used projected financial statements for 2005 and 2006 provided by management of August Technology and projections for Rudolph published by a market analyst that regularly follows Rudolph with estimates consistent with consensus estimates of twelve analysts providing research and estimates on Rudolph stock. Consensus estimates were not used because they only include revenue and earnings per share information. Needham & Company used synergies estimated by August Technology's management, including an assumption that sales of the combined company will be less than the sum of the projected sales of the separate companies. August Technology management believes that market demand is insufficient to allow both August Technology and Rudolph to achieve their projections, particularly since August Technology and Rudolph sell competing products to the same customers. Assuming negative synergies resulting in loss of sales of $24 million and positive synergies that decrease cost of goods sold by $10.6 million and other expenses by $4 million (the middle of the range of synergies presented), pro forma 2006 earnings for the combined entity were estimated at $0.84 per share of combined company stock. Based on an assumed price/earnings multiple of 20, this estimate converted to a projected equity value of $16.89 per share of combined company stock. Using the proposed merger consideration of $2.16 and 0.4955 of a share of Rudolph stock for each share of August Technology common stock, this converts to a projected equity value of $10.53 for each share of August Technology common stock achievable by the end of 2006.

On February 9, 2005, Mr. O Dell received the following letter from Kenneth Schroeder, President and Chief Executive Officer of KLA-Tencor Corporation:

PERSONAL AND CONFIDENTIAL

February 8, 2005

Mr. Jeff O Dell

Chairman & CEO

August Technology

4900 West 78th Street

Dear Mr. O Dell:

I am writing to reiterate KLA-Tencor's interest in pursuing a merger with August Technology. As I have expressed in the past, we have the highest regard for August and its employees, and believe that the combination of our two organizations would create a global leader in the process control market. Further, we are convinced that the strategic, operational and financial merits of such a combination are quite compelling and would provide significant benefits to customers and employees, as well as offer a very compelling value proposition to August shareholders.

Following the communications that we have had with your advisors and board members over the past few months, we were disappointed to hear of your decision to enter into a transaction with Nanometrics. We believe that KLA-Tencor is a significantly more compelling merger partner for August and is able to bring a much broader sales and service infrastructure to support the August products and customers than what is possible with Nanometrics.

As our financial advisor indicated to your financial advisor in December and I subsequently reconfirmed to you in my letter dated January 18, we would propose to acquire August in a transaction in which the August shareholders would receive $11.50 in cash per share. We would also be willing to consider using stock as consideration if that would be attractive to you. We believe our offer, which translates to a 34% premium to the value implied by the agreement between August and Nanometrics and a 13% premium to the value implied by the proposal by Rudolph, represents an extremely attractive opportunity for your shareholders. We would propose to finance the transaction through our existing cash balance and thus would not require any contingency or delay traditionally associated with capital raising. We are also very interested in retaining key August Technology employees and would like the opportunity to discuss with you ways to ensure a seamless transition.

We and our financial and legal advisors are prepared to proceed expeditiously and are confident that our due diligence, with your cooperation, can be completed in a short period of time. We hope that you and your Board will give our proposal prompt and serious consideration.

Sincerely yours,

/s/ KENNETH SCHROEDER

Pursuant to its obligations under the merger agreement with Nanometrics, August Technology sent a copy of the letter to Nanometrics.

The August Technology board of directors held a meeting on February 9, 2005 to discuss the letter from KLA. Representatives of Needham & Company, Fredrikson & Byron and the law firm of Wachtell, Lipton, Rosen & Katz participated in the meeting. Legal counsel discussed with the board of directors its fiduciary duties with respect to the offer and the contractual obligations under the merger agreement with Nanometrics. Representatives of Needham & Company agreed to prepare a financial analysis for presentation to the board of directors on February 11, 2005.

On February 11, 2005, the August Technology board of directors held a meeting to review the financial analysis of Needham & Company with respect to the offer from KLA. Representatives of Needham & Company presented a financial analysis to the board of directors similar in format to the presentation made at the February 4, 2005 meeting, comparing estimates of the equity value per share of August Technology common stock achievable by the end of 2006, first assuming the August merger with Nanometrics, then assuming a merger with Rudolph, and then assuming a merger with KLA.

For the analysis assuming the August merger with Nanometrics, Needham & Company presented the same analysis that is discussed above with respect to the February 4, 2005 board of directors meeting, except that pro forma 2006 earnings for the combined August Nanometrics were estimated at $2.13 per share of August Nanometrics common stock instead of $2.14, due to changes in market prices in the intervening period that increased estimated amortization expense. Based on an assumed price/earnings multiple of 20, this estimate converted to a projected value of $42.63 per share of August Nanometrics common stock achievable by the end of 2006. Using the exchange ratio of 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each share of August Technology common stock, this converts to a projected equity value of $27.28 for each share of August Technology common stock achievable by the end of 2006.

For the analysis assuming a merger with Rudolph, Needham & Company presented the same analysis that is discussed above with respect to the February 4, 2005 board of directors meeting, except that pro forma 2006 earnings for the combined entity were estimated at $0.82 per share of combined company stock instead of $0.84 due to changes in market prices in the intervening period that increased estimated amortization expense. Based on an assumed price/earnings multiple of 20, this estimate converted to a projected equity value of $16.34 per share of combined company stock. Using the proposed merger consideration of $2.16 and 0.4955 of a share of Rudolph stock for each share of August Technology common stock, this converts to a projected equity value of $10.25 for each share of August Technology common stock achievable by the end of 2006.

Table of Contents

In order to evaluate KLA's suggestion that it was willing to use its common stock instead of cash in its proposed transaction, the August Technology board of directors requested that Needham & Company prepare an analysis of a stock-for-stock merger designed to deliver value, based on current market prices, of $11.50 per share of August Technology common stock. Based on the closing price of KLA common stock on February 10, 2005, an exchange ratio of 0.23998 of a share of KLA common stock would be equivalent to $11.50. For the analysis assuming such a merger with KLA, Needham & Company used projected financial statements for 2005 and 2006 provided by management of August Technology and projections for KLA published by a market analyst that regularly follows KLA. Consensus estimates were not used because they only include revenue and earnings per share information. The pro forma income statements presented in Needham & Company's analysis included various assumptions by management of August Technology with respect to cost synergies resulting from the merger. Assuming synergies that decrease expenses by $35.3 million (the middle of the range of synergies presented) and assuming all shares of August Technology common stock were converted to KLA shares with no cash payment, pro forma 2006 earnings for the combined entity were estimated at $1.96 per share of combined company stock. Because KLA has historically traded at a higher multiple than August Technology or Rudolph, a price/earnings multiple of 23 was assumed, resulting in a projected equity value of $45.11 per share of combined company stock achievable at the end of 2006. Using an exchange ratio of 0.23998 of a share of KLA stock (implied from the $11.50 per share offer) for each share of August Technology common stock, this converts to a projected equity value of $10.83 for each share of August Technology common stock achievable by the end of 2006.

Based on this financial analysis, Needham & Company recommended that August Technology continue to pursue the completion of the Nanometrics merger because it appears to have the highest long-term value based on the analysis, assumptions and projections described above. Needham & Company noted, however, that the analysis of the August merger was based upon August Technology and Nanometrics management estimates developed after extensive due diligence while the analyses of the Rudolph and KLA merger proposals were based in part upon research analyst estimates and August Technology management estimates of synergies and cost savings that were made without the benefit of extensive due diligence. Legal counsel recommended that August Technology perform due diligence with Rudolph and KLA only if they sign confidentiality agreements that comply with the requirements of the merger agreement with Nanometrics so as to avoid jeopardizing the merger with Nanometrics. The August Technology board concluded that it should further examine both the Rudolph and the KLA proposals provided that each of Rudolph and KLA execute a confidentiality agreement as required by the merger agreement with Nanometrics.

In performing the analyses presented to August Technology's board on February 4th and February 11th, Needham & Company made numerous assumptions with respect to performance of August Technology, Rudolph and KLA as well as industry performance, general business, economic and market financial conditions and other matters, many of which are beyond the control of Needham & Company, August Technology, Rudolph and KLA. The revenue projections of August Technology and Nanometrics used by Needham & Company in its analysis were prepared by August Technology and Nanometrics, respectively, in good faith, but may not be achieved. Needham & Company relied upon the estimates of August Technology of the potential cost savings and other synergies to be derived through the application of the Nanometrics business model, including the amount and timing thereof, that may be achieved as a result of the merger proposals analyzed. Needham & Company also assumed that the research analyst projections relating to Rudolph and KLA represent reasonable estimates as to the future performance of those companies. Any projections or estimates contained in the analyses by Needham & Company are not necessarily indicative of actual values or future results, which may be significantly more or less favorable than suggested by such analyses. Additionally, the estimates of the future value of securities do not purport to be appraisals or to reflect the value at which such securities might actually be sold. Accordingly, such analyses, projections and estimates are inherently subject to substantial risks and uncertainty, including without limitation the risks set forth in the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Risk Factors beginning on page 31.

On March 15, 2005, August Technology received notification of early termination of the waiting period under the HSR Act applicable to the August merger. Termination or expiration of this waiting period is a condition to the August merger.

Table of Contents

In addition, the Department of Justice has notified August Technology that it has commenced an investigation into the competitive aspects of the offers submitted to August Technology by Rudolph and KLA. No further information regarding the timing or scope of the investigation was made available to August Technology.

Joint Reasons for the August Merger

The boards of directors of Nanometrics and August Technology believe that by combining the highly complementary, non-overlapping product lines of the two companies, August Nanometrics can generate improved long-term operating and financial results and establish a stronger competitive position in the industry. By offering customers an enhanced suite of integrated metrology and defect inspection products, supported by an extensive, well-trained staff of service and applications engineers, August Nanometrics would be better able to service its customers and improve their return on investment. The August merger is expected to allow August Nanometrics to eliminate duplicative research and development efforts and to redeploy these resources to other research and development activities. Additionally, Nanometrics and August Technology believe that the August merger will enhance the ability of August Nanometrics to compete effectively against their larger competitors, including KLA-Tencor and Rudolph Technologies. By creating efficiencies that increase technological development, Nanometrics and August Technology believe that the August merger will greatly enhance the ability of August Nanometrics to be a stronger competitor in the highly dynamic markets for metrology and inspection products.

Each of the boards of directors of Nanometrics and August Technology has identified additional potential mutual benefits of the August merger that they believe will contribute to the success of August Nanometrics. These potential benefits include principally the following:

The combination of August Technology's defect inspection technology with Nanometrics' metrology products will allow August Nanometrics to offer a more comprehensive and better integrated set of tools to its customers and enhance its ability to compete more effectively.

August Nanometrics is expected to have greater prominence within the financial community providing increased access to capital.

The direct sales and service presence of August Nanometrics in the important Japanese semiconductor manufacturing market may increase opportunities for product orders.

The creation of a larger sales and service organization worldwide, the expansion of the companies' dedicated sales teams and a higher profile with customers and would present greater opportunities for marketing the products of August Nanometrics.

The combined experience, financial resources, development expertise, size and breadth of product offerings of August Nanometrics may allow it to respond more quickly and effectively to technological change, increased consolidation and industry demands.

The creation of a combined customer service and technical support system may permit August Nanometrics to provide more effective support coverage to its customers and make it more attractive to new customers.

The management team will combine experience in both the defect inspection and metrology markets, as well as access to other areas of the semiconductor equipment manufacturing sector.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

The combination may allow August Nanometrics to sell more products to customers in the flat-panel display and biotechnology industries.

August Nanometrics can benefit by sharing knowledge of precision staging and standalone platform systems.

Table of Contents

Nanometrics and August Technology have each identified additional reasons for the August merger, which are discussed in this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Additional Nanometrics Reasons for the August Merger and Additional August Technology Reasons for the August Merger, beginning on pages 86 and 96, respectively. Each board of directors has recognized that the potential benefits of the August merger may not be realized. See the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Risk Factors beginning on page 31.

Additional Nanometrics Reasons for the August Merger

In addition to the anticipated joint reasons described above under the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Joint Reasons for the August Merger, beginning on page 85, the Nanometrics board of directors believes that the following are additional reasons the August merger will be beneficial to Nanometrics and its shareholders:

Given the complementary, non-overlapping nature of the product lines of Nanometrics and August Technology, the August merger will enhance Nanometrics' ability to achieve greater scale and presence in the semiconductor equipment industry.

Combining with August Technology would provide an opportunity for increased sales to and support of current Nanometrics and August Technology customers by offering a more integrated and broader product line.

The Nanometrics shareholders would have the opportunity to participate in the potential for growth of August Nanometrics after the August merger.

The Nanometrics board of directors believes there are substantial benefits to Nanometrics and the Nanometrics shareholders that can be obtained as a result of the August merger. If the August merger is completed, the Nanometrics board of directors believes that August Nanometrics will be a leader in both metrology and macro defect inspection. At a meeting held on January 20, 2005, the Nanometrics board of directors unanimously determined that the August merger and the other transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, including the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger, are advisable and in the best interests of Nanometrics and the Nanometrics shareholders. Therefore, the Nanometrics board of directors unanimously resolved to recommend that the Nanometrics shareholders approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger.

The Nanometrics board of directors consulted with Nanometrics senior management as well as its legal counsel, Wilson Sonsini Goodrich & Rosati, Professional Corporation, and its financial advisor, Adams Harkness, Inc., in reaching its decisions to approve the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, and unanimously recommends that Nanometrics shareholders vote to approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger. Particularly persuasive among the factors considered by the Nanometrics board of directors in its deliberations were the reasons for the August merger described in the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Joint Reasons for the August Merger beginning on page 85. The Nanometrics board of directors also considered each of the following factors in its deliberations:

information concerning the financial performance, financial condition, business and prospects of Nanometrics and August Technology, as well as conditions in the semiconductor equipment industry generally;

information concerning the recent and past stock price performance of Nanometrics and August Technology common stock, as well as the views of Wall Street equity analysts regarding the two companies;

the prices paid in comparable transactions involving other semiconductor manufacturing equipment companies, as well as the trading performance of the stock of comparable companies in the industry;

Table of Contents

It was not practical to, and thus the Nanometrics board of directors did not, quantify, rank or otherwise assign relative weights to the wide variety of factors it considered in evaluating the August merger and the merger agreement, nor did the board of directors determine that any one factor was of particular importance in deciding that the merger agreement and associated transactions were in the best interests of Nanometrics and its shareholders. This discussion of information and material factors considered by the Nanometrics board of directors is intended to be a summary rather than an exhaustive list. Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

In connection with its review and in arriving at its opinion, Adams Harkness did not independently verify any information received from Nanometrics or August Technology or their representatives or otherwise made available to it. Adams Harkness relied on such information, and assumed that all such information was complete and accurate in all material respects. Adams Harkness also relied on the representations of the respective management teams of Nanometrics and August Technology that they were not aware of any facts that would make such information misleading. With respect to any forecasts, projections, analyses and other forward-looking financial information reviewed by Adams Harkness relating to the prospects of Nanometrics and August Technology, respectively, including information relating to the strategic, financial and operational benefits anticipated from the August merger and the reincorporation merger, Adams Harkness assumed that such forecasts, projections and analyses and other forward-looking information had been reasonably prepared or developed on bases reflecting the best currently available estimates and judgments of the management teams of Nanometrics and August Technology, respectively. Adams Harkness did not conduct, nor did it receive copies of, any independent valuation or appraisal of any of the assets of Nanometrics or August Technology. Adams Harkness was not requested to conduct and did not conduct a physical inspection of the properties or facilities of Nanometrics or August Technology. Adams Harkness assumed that any material liabilities (contingent or otherwise, known or unknown) of Nanometrics and August Technology were as set forth in the historic and projected financial statements of each company, respectively. In addition, Adams Harkness did not make an independent evaluation or appraisal of August Nanometrics after the August merger and the reincorporation merger and accordingly, it expressed no opinion as to the future prospects, plans or viability of August Nanometrics after the August merger and the reincorporation merger. Adams Harkness made no independent investigation of any legal matters involving Nanometrics or August Technology, and assumed the correctness of all statements with respect to legal matters made or otherwise provided to the board of directors of Nanometrics and Adams Harkness by Nanometrics' counsel or by August Technology's counsel.

Adams Harkness' opinion was necessarily based on financial, economic and securities market conditions prevailing as of the date thereof, and on the conditions and prospects, financial and otherwise, of Nanometrics and August Technology as known to Adams Harkness on the date thereof. Adams Harkness also took into account its assessment of general economic, market and financial conditions and its experience in similar transactions, as well as its experience in securities valuation in general. It should be understood that (i) subsequent developments may affect the conclusions expressed in Adams Harkness' opinion if it were to be rendered as of a later date, and (ii) Adams Harkness disclaimed any obligation to advise any person of any change in any matter affecting its opinion that may come to its attention after the date of the opinion. Adams Harkness did not undertake to reaffirm or revise its opinion or otherwise comment upon any events occurring after the delivery thereof and does not have any obligation to update, revise or reaffirm its opinion.

Adams Harkness also assumed that, in the course of obtaining necessary regulatory and third party approvals and consents for the August merger and the reincorporation merger, no modification, delay, limitation, restriction, or conditions will be imposed that will have an adverse effect on Nanometrics, August Technology, August Nanometrics or the contemplated benefits of the August merger and the reincorporation merger, and that the August merger and the reincorporation merger will be consummated in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement without waiver, modification or amendment of any material term, condition or agreement therein.

Adams Harkness' opinion was directed to and for the information of the board of directors of Nanometrics only and may not be relied upon by any other person or used for any other purpose without the prior written consent of Adams Harkness, except that Adams Harkness agreed that a copy of its opinion may be included in its entirety in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. Adams Harkness' opinion did not address the relative merits of the merger agreement, the August merger and the reincorporation merger or other business strategies that might be available to Nanometrics, the decision of the board of directors of Nanometrics to proceed with the merger agreement or the August merger and the reincorporation merger, or the prices at which (i) Nanometrics' common stock would trade following the announcement of the merger agreement, or (ii) August Nanometrics common stock will trade following the consummation of the August merger and the reincorporation merger.

Adams Harkness used several methodologies to assess the fairness of the exchange ratio, from a financial point of view, to the holders of Nanometrics common stock. The following is a summary of the material financial and comparative analyses undertaken by Adams Harkness in connection with providing its opinion. This summary is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the opinion. In arriving at its opinion, Adams Harkness considered all of the financial and comparative analyses it performed and did not attribute any particular weight to any individual analysis it considered or reach specific conclusions with respect to any such analysis. Rather, Adams Harkness made its determination as to the fairness of the exchange ratio, from a financial point of view, to the holders of Nanometrics common stock on the basis of its experience and professional judgment after considering the collective results of all of the analyses described in the following pages.

The financial and comparative analyses summarized below include information presented in tabular format. In order to fully understand Adams Harkness' financial and comparative analyses, the tables must be read together with the text of each summary. The tables alone do not constitute a complete description of the financial and comparative analyses. Considering the data in the tables below without considering the full narrative description of the analyses, including the methodologies and assumptions underlying the analyses, could create a misleading or incomplete view of Adams Harkness' financial and comparative analyses.

Trading Price Ratio Analysis

Adams Harkness performed a trading price ratio analysis in which it reviewed the ratio of the closing price of Nanometrics common stock to the closing price of August Technology common stock on January 20, 2005, the date of the delivery of its opinion, the ratio of the daily closing prices of Nanometrics common stock to the daily closing prices of August Technology common stock over the twelve month period ended January 20, 2005, the Latest Twelve Months, or LTM, and the ratio of the twenty day moving average of the daily closing prices of Nanometrics common stock to the twenty day moving average of the daily closing prices of August Technology common stock over the three month and twelve month periods ended January 20, 2005. Adams Harkness also calculated the standard deviation, or the SD, of these ratios over each time period, and compared, for each time period, the range of the mean plus and minus one standard deviation to the exchange ratio of 0.6401 set forth in the merger agreement.

Adams Harkness noted that the exchange ratio was 0.6401 and that the estimated percentage ownership of former Nanometrics shareholders in August Nanometrics based on that ratio was approximately 53.5% on a fully diluted basis.

The following table sets forth the ratio of the daily closing prices of Nanometrics common stock to the daily closing prices of August Technology common stock over latest twelve months, and the ratio of the twenty day moving average of the daily closing prices of Nanometrics common stock to the twenty day moving average of the daily closing prices of August Technology common stock over the three month and twelve month periods ended January 20, 2005.

	Trading Price Ratio*
	Mean-1SD	Mean	Mean+1SD
Closing Prices on January 20, 2005:	0.657
Daily Closing Price LTM:	0.662	0.867	1.072
20-Day Moving Average LTM:	0.683	0.881	1.079
20-Day Moving Average Last Three Months:	0.542	0.583	0.624

information obtained by Adams Harkness from a third party. Adams Harkness has determined, and has advised the board of directors of Nanometrics, that such differences would not have had any effect on its fairness opinion.

Table of Contents*Contribution Analysis*

Adams Harkness performed a contribution analysis in which it reviewed certain historical and estimated future annual and quarterly operating and financial information for Nanometrics, August Technology and August Nanometrics provided to Adams Harkness by the management teams of Nanometrics and August Technology. The annual analysis was based on the relative contributions of each of Nanometrics and August Technology to August Nanometrics' pro forma revenue, gross profit and operating income for the fiscal years ended closest to December 31, 2001, 2002, and 2003 and the LTM ended in the fiscal third quarter of 2004, as well as to August Nanometrics' estimated pro forma revenue, gross profit and operating income for the fiscal years ending closest to December 31, 2004 and 2005. The quarterly analysis was based on the relative contributions of each of Nanometrics and August Technology to August Nanometrics' revenue, gross profit, operating income, EBITDA, net income, net tangible assets, and shareholders' equity for the period from the first quarter of 2003 through the third quarter of 2004, as well as August Nanometrics' estimated revenue, gross profit, operating income (loss), EBITDA, net income (loss), net tangible assets, and shareholders' equity for the period from the fourth quarter of 2004 through the fourth quarter of 2005. Adams Harkness calculated an implied exchange ratio based on the median, high and low of the relative contributions of each company for each of such metrics over each period. The following table presents the results of the analysis and the implied exchange ratios derived:

	Implied Exchange Ratio*
	Low	Median	High
Annual Contribution (2001-2005E)
Revenue Contribution:	0.461	0.698	0.779
Gross Profit Contribution:	0.540	0.731	0.936
Operating Income Contribution:	0.053	0.316	0.586
Quarterly Contribution (2003-2005E)
Revenue Contribution:	0.516	0.668	0.908
Gross Profit Contribution:	0.384	0.722	0.988
Operating Income Contribution:	0.181	0.563	1.008
EBITDA Contribution:	0.062	0.366	0.882
Net Income Contribution:	0.032	0.529	1.227
Net Tangible Assets Contribution:	0.228	0.527	0.582
Shareholders' Equity Contribution:	0.211	0.501	0.562

* The figures presented in this table under the headings "Operating Income Calculation," "EBITDA Calculation" and "Net Income Calculation" reflect only the relevant annual and quarterly periods in which both Nanometrics and August Technology experienced positive operating income, positive EBITDA or positive net income, respectively. During certain other annual and quarterly periods analyzed by Adams Harkness but not presented in the table, one or both of Nanometrics and August Technology experienced an operating loss, negative EBITDA or a net loss.

Adams Harkness noted that the exchange ratio was 0.6401 and that the estimated percentage ownership of former Nanometrics shareholders in August Nanometrics based on that ratio was approximately 53.5% on a fully diluted basis.

Precedent Transaction Analysis

Adams Harkness performed a precedent transaction analysis in which it assessed the relative valuations associated with selected precedent acquisitions publicly announced since January 1, 2000 it deemed relevant. Adams Harkness reviewed two sets of precedent transactions: (a) fifteen merger of equals precedent transactions (including one pending transaction), and (b) fifteen semiconductor capital equipment precedent transactions (including two pending transactions) it deemed comparable to the contemplated transaction between Nanometrics and August Technology.

Adams Harkness analyzed the premiums paid in each precedent transaction based on the closing stock price of the target company one day, one week, and four weeks prior to announcement of the respective transactions. Based on the median premium to the target's stock price one day prior to announcement, the implied exchange ratios from the foregoing data are as follows:

Although the selected transactions were used for comparison purposes, none of these transactions is directly comparable to the August merger, and none of the companies in such transactions is directly comparable to Nanometrics or August Technology. Accordingly, an analysis of the results of such a comparison is not purely mathematical but instead involves complex considerations and judgments concerning differences in historical and projected financial and operating characteristics of the companies involved and other factors that could affect the acquisition value of such companies to which Nanometrics and August Technology are being compared.

Public Company Peer Group Analysis

Adams Harkness identified a group of publicly traded companies, referred to as the peer group companies, that it deemed comparable to Nanometrics and August Technology based on similarity of services offered, markets served and financial performance, and analyzed certain operating performance characteristics and public market valuation metrics of such peer group companies. Such information included:

LTM revenue;

LTM gross margin;

LTM operating margin;

LTM net margin;

ratio of enterprise value to LTM revenue and to 2004 and 2005 projected revenue; and ratio of current price to 2004 and 2005 projected earnings per share.

Adams Harkness compared a variety of operating and valuation metrics for each of Nanometrics and August Technology to those same metrics for each of the peer group companies.

Adams Harkness identified the following group of ten publicly traded companies as the companies that it deemed comparable to Nanometrics and August Technology for purposes of this analysis:

Limitations of Financial and Comparative Analyses

The foregoing summaries do not purport to be a complete description of the financial and comparative analyses performed by Adams Harkness. The preparation of a fairness opinion is a complex process. Adams Harkness believes that its analyses must be considered as a whole, and that selecting portions of such analyses without considering all analyses and factors would create an incomplete view of the processes underlying its fairness opinion. Any estimates contained in Adams Harkness' analyses are not necessarily indicative of actual values, which may be significantly greater or lower than as set forth therein. Estimates of values of companies do not purport to be appraisals or to necessarily reflect the prices at which companies may actually be sold. Such estimates are inherently subject to uncertainty. Taken together, the information and analyses employed by Adams Harkness led to Adams Harkness' opinion that the exchange ratio was fair, from a financial point of view, to holders of Nanometrics common stock as of the date of its opinion.

Adams Harkness, as part of its investment banking activities, is regularly engaged in the valuation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, underwritings, distributions of listed and unlisted securities, private placements and valuations for corporate and other purposes. In the ordinary course of its business, Adams Harkness may actively trade or hold long or short positions of August Technology or Nanometrics' equity securities for either its customers or its own account.

Pursuant to the terms of Adams Harkness' engagement letter with the board of directors of Nanometrics, dated December 9, 2004, Nanometrics agreed to pay Adams Harkness a fee of upon the delivery by Adams Harkness of the fairness opinion and an additional fee to be negotiated upon delivery by Adams Harkness, if requested by the board of directors, of each affirmation of its fairness opinion. Adams Harkness will also receive a fee upon consummation of the August merger. Nanometrics also agreed to reimburse Adams Harkness for all reasonable fees and disbursements of its counsel and all of its reasonable travel and other out-of-pocket expenses arising in connection with its engagement, and to indemnify Adams Harkness and its affiliates to the full extent permitted by law against liabilities relating to or arising out of its engagement, except for liabilities found to have resulted from the willful misconduct or gross negligence of Adams Harkness.

Interest of Nanometrics Directors and Executive Officers in the August Merger

In considering the recommendation of the Nanometrics board of directors that Nanometrics shareholders approve the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger, you should be aware that members of the Nanometrics board of directors and Nanometrics executive officers have interests in the August merger that may be different than, or in addition to, the interests of Nanometrics shareholders generally. Additional August Technology Reasons for the August Merger

In addition to the anticipated joint reasons described above under the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Joint Reasons for the August Merger beginning on page 85, the August Technology board of directors believes that the following are additional reasons the August merger will be beneficial to August Technology and its shareholders:

for August Technology's shareholders, customers and employees, the prospects of the strategic business combination of August Technology and Nanometrics are more favorable than the prospects of the companies as separate entities;

as a unified and diversified company, August Nanometrics will be able to take advantage of cross-selling opportunities among its significantly expanded customer base;

August Nanometrics will have greater technical expertise, as well as management and financial resources to devote to research and development consistent with each company's focus on building value by pursuing technological leadership through continuous innovation and product improvement and product differentiation;

by pooling the resources and skills of both August Technology and Nanometrics, August Nanometrics will be better equipped to improve its competitive position in the markets previously served by August Technology and Nanometrics, respectively;

Nanometrics has a front-end tool automation platform with wafer processing applications that could be immediately incorporated by August Technology in its advanced macro inspection product offerings;

August Technology's DMSVision Software, which provides high performance information handling and analysis capability, has the potential to enhance Nanometrics' thin film metrology products and enable August Nanometrics to gain a competitive advantage in the thin film metrology markets;

there will be cost savings by consolidating certain general and administrative functions and eliminating redundant expenses, including the expenses of maintaining two separate public companies; and the combination of the two companies will create more growth opportunities for both companies, provide significant economies of scale and create greater resources to enable the combined company to compete more effectively with competitors having greater resources than August Technology alone.

August Technology's board of directors consulted with August Technology's senior management and its legal and financial advisors in reaching the decision to approve the August merger. Among the factors considered by August Technology's board of directors in its deliberations were the following:

the financial condition, results of operations, cash flow, business and prospects of August Technology and Nanometrics, before and after giving effect to the August merger;

Other Analyses. In rendering its opinion, Needham & Company considered various other analyses in addition to the material financial analyses summarized above, including a history of trading prices for August Technology and Nanometrics common stock.

The summary set forth above does not purport to be a complete description of the analyses performed by Needham & Company in connection with the rendering of its opinion. The preparation of a fairness opinion involves various determinations as to the most appropriate and relevant quantitative and qualitative methods of financial analyses and the application of those methods to the particular circumstances and, therefore, such an opinion is not readily susceptible to summary description. Accordingly, Needham & Company believes that its analyses must be considered as a whole and that selecting portions of its analyses or the factors it considered, without considering all analyses and factors, could create a misleading or incomplete view of the process underlying its opinion. In its analyses, Needham & Company made numerous assumptions with respect to industry performance, general business and economic and other matters, many of which are beyond the control of August Technology and Nanometrics. Any estimates contained in these analyses are not necessarily indicative of actual values or predictive of future results or values, which may be significantly more or less favorable. Additionally, analyses relating to the values of businesses or assets do not purport to be appraisals or necessarily reflect the prices at which businesses or assets may actually be sold. Accordingly, these analyses and estimates are inherently subject to substantial uncertainty. Needham & Company's opinion and related analyses were only one of many factors considered by August Technology's board of directors in its evaluation of the proposed August merger and should not be viewed as determinative of the views of August Technology's board of directors or management with respect to the exchange ratio or the August merger.

Under the terms of its engagement letter with Needham & Company, August Technology has paid or agreed to pay Needham & Company a nonrefundable fee for rendering the Needham & Company opinion and a fee for financial advisory services that August Technology and Needham & Company believe are customary in transactions of this nature. A substantial portion of Needham & Company's fees, consisting of the fee for financial advisory services, is contingent on consummation of the August merger. The fee for financial advisory services will be based upon a percentage of the aggregate transaction value of the August merger. Whether or not the August merger is consummated, August Technology has agreed to reimburse Needham & Company for its out-of-pocket expenses and to indemnify it against specified liabilities relating to or arising out of services performed by Needham & Company as financial advisor to August Technology.

Needham & Company is a nationally recognized investment banking firm. As part of its investment banking services, Needham & Company is frequently engaged in the evaluation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, negotiated underwritings, secondary distributions of securities, private placements and other purposes. Needham & Company was retained by the August Technology board of directors to act as August Technology's financial advisor in connection with the August merger based on Needham & Company's experience as a financial advisor in mergers and acquisitions as well as Needham & Company's familiarity with August Technology and similarly situated technology companies. Needham & Company has in the past provided and may in the future provide investment banking and financial advisory services to August Technology and Nanometrics unrelated to the proposed August merger, for which services Needham & Company has received and expects to receive compensation. As used in the employment agreements with the August Technology executive officers, the term termination means any of the following events occurring within eighteen (18) months after a change of control event: (1) the termination of the executive officer's employment by the employer for any reason, with or without cause, except for termination resulting from conduct by the executive officer constituting (a) a felony involving willful failure to fulfill his or her employment duties; provided, however, that an act or the failure to act by the executive officer shall not be willful unless it is done, or omitted to be done, in bad faith and without any reasonable belief that the executive officer's action or omission was in the best interests of the employer.

As used in the employment agreements with the August Technology executive officers, the term "good reason" means (1) a material change in the executive officer's reporting responsibilities, titles or offices, or any removal of the executive officer from or any failure to re-elect the executive officer to any of such positions, which has the effect of materially diminishing the executive officer's responsibility or authority, (2) a reduction by the employer of the executive officer's base salary, (3) a requirement imposed by the employer on the executive officer that results in the executive officer being based at a location that is outside of a twenty-five (25) radius of the executive officer's prior job location, (4) without the adoption of a replacement plan, program or arrangement that provides benefits to the executive officer that are equal to or greater than those benefits that are discontinued or adversely affected, (a) the failure by the employer to continue in effect, within its maximum stated term, any pension, bonus, incentive, stock ownership, stock purchase, stock option, life insurance, health, accident, disability, or any other employee compensation or benefit plan, program or arrangement, in which the executive officer is or has been participating, or (b) the taking of any action by the employer that would adversely affect the executive officer's participation or materially reduce the executive officer's benefits under any of such plans, programs or arrangements, (5) any action by the employer that would materially adversely affect the physical conditions in or under which the executive officer performs his or her employment duties, or (6) any material breach by the employer of the employment agreement.

"Good reason" shall be determined by the employee's good faith, but sole and absolute judgment. "Good reason" does not include the death of the executive officer, any other reason for the executive officer terminating the employment relationship, or any event that the executive officer has expressly consented to in writing. An event shall not constitute "good reason" if the executive officer fails to notify the employer within sixty (60) days of the occurrence of the event.

Such tax opinions will be based on, among other things, representations of August Technology and Nanometrics and various assumptions as noted in the opinions. The tax opinions will not be binding on the United States Internal Revenue Service or a court, and will not preclude the United States Internal Revenue Service or a court from adopting a contrary position.

Qualification of the August merger as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code will result in the following material United States federal income tax consequences:

August Technology shareholders will not recognize gain or loss upon the conversion of their August Technology common stock solely into August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger.

August Technology shareholders who receive cash in the August merger in lieu of a fractional share of August Nanometrics common stock will recognize gain or loss equal to the difference between the cash received and such holder's basis in such fractional share interest. Such gain or loss should be capital gain or loss to the August Technology shareholder.

The aggregate tax basis of the August Nanometrics common stock received by a holder of August Technology common stock in the August merger (including the basis in any fractional share for which cash is received) will be the same as the shareholder's aggregate tax basis in August Technology common stock surrendered in the August merger.

The holding period of the August Nanometrics common stock received by an August Technology shareholder in the August merger will include the holding period of the August Technology common stock held by such August Technology shareholder.

Neither August Nanometrics nor August Technology will recognize any gain or loss as a result of the August merger.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

A successful Internal Revenue Service challenge to the status of the August merger as a tax-free reorganization would result in holders of August Technology common stock being treated as if they sold such stock in a taxable transaction. In such event, each August Technology shareholder would recognize gain or loss with respect to the disposition of each of his or her shares of August Technology common stock equal to the difference between the August Technology shareholder's basis in each such share and the fair market value, as of the date the August merger becomes effective, of the August Nanometrics common stock received in the August merger. Such gain or loss would be treated as capital gain or capital loss for each such August Technology shareholder. August Technology shareholders' aggregate basis in the August Nanometrics common stock so received would equal its fair market value, and the August Technology shareholders' holding period for such August Nanometrics common stock would begin the day after the August merger. However, even in the event that the August merger is not deemed to be a reorganization for purposes of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, neither Nanometrics nor August Technology would recognize gain or loss solely as a result of the August merger.

Certain August Technology shareholders may be subject to information reporting with respect to the cash received in lieu of a fractional share of August Nanometrics common stock. August Technology shareholders who are subject to information reporting and who do not provide appropriate information when requested may also be subject to backup withholding. Any amount withheld under such rules is not an additional tax and may be refunded or credited against such shareholder's federal income tax liability, provided that the required information is properly furnished in a timely manner to the Internal Revenue Service.

The preceding discussion is intended only as a summary of certain United States federal income tax consequences of the August merger and does not purport to be a complete analysis or discussion of all potential tax effects relevant thereto. August Technology shareholders are urged to consult their own tax advisors as to the specific tax consequences to them of the August merger, including tax return reporting requirements, the applicability and effect of federal, state, local, and other applicable tax laws and any proposed tax law changes.

Accounting Treatment of the August Merger

The August merger will be accounted for under the purchase method of accounting in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 141, Business Combinations. Under the purchase method of accounting, the total estimated purchase price is allocated to the net tangible and identifiable intangible assets of August Technology acquired in connection with the August merger, based on their respective estimated fair values. Management has made a preliminary allocation of the estimated purchase price to the tangible and identifiable intangible assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on various preliminary estimates. Any excess of the estimated purchase price over the fair value of net assets acquired will be accounted for as goodwill.

In accordance with the Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets, goodwill resulting from the business combination will not be amortized but instead will be tested for impairment at least annually (more frequently if certain indicators are present).

Regulatory Matters Relating to the August Merger

The August merger is subject to review by the Department of Justice and the FTC under the HSR Act, and by foreign governmental authorities under the antitrust laws of various other jurisdictions where Nanometrics and August Technology conduct business. Under the HSR Act, Nanometrics and August Technology are required to make pre-merger notification filings and must await the expiration of statutory waiting periods prior to completing the August merger. Nanometrics and August Technology have made the requisite pre-merger notification filings with the Department of Justice and the FTC and early termination of the waiting period associated with such filings has been granted by the FTC. The completion of the August merger is also conditioned upon the expiration or termination of all necessary antitrust waiting periods and receipt of all necessary antitrust clearances, consents and approvals. The FTC has granted early termination of the waiting period associated with such filings and Nanometrics and August Technology have obtained the governmental or regulatory approvals required to complete the August merger.

Table of Contents

In addition, during or after the statutory waiting periods and clearance of the August merger, and even after completion of the August merger, either the Department of Justice, the FTC, or other United States or foreign governmental authorities could challenge or seek to block the August merger under the antitrust laws, as it deems necessary or desirable in the public interest. Moreover, in some jurisdictions, a competitor, customer or other third party could initiate a private action under the antitrust laws challenging or seeking to enjoin the August merger, before or after it is completed. Nanometrics and August Technology cannot be sure that a challenge to the August merger will not be made or that, if a challenge is made, Nanometrics and August Technology will prevail.

No Dissenters or Appraisal Rights in Connection with the August Merger

Under California corporation law, the shareholders of Nanometrics do not have dissenters rights in connection with the proposed transactions.

Under Minnesota corporation law, the shareholders of August Technology do not have dissenters rights in connection with the proposed transactions.

Listing of August Nanometrics Common Stock

Application will be made to have the shares of August Nanometrics common stock issued in the August merger approved for listing on the Nasdaq National Market.

Delisting and Deregistration of August Technology Common Stock

If the August merger is completed, August Technology common stock will be delisted from the Nasdaq National Market and deregistered under the Exchange Act, and August Technology will no longer file periodic reports with the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Restrictions on Sales of Certain Shares of August Nanometrics Common Stock Received in the August Merger

The shares of August Nanometrics common stock to be issued in the August merger will be registered under the Securities Act of 1933 and will be freely transferable, except for shares of August Nanometrics common stock issued to any person who is deemed to be an affiliate of August Technology prior to the August merger. Persons who may be deemed to be affiliates of August Technology prior to the August merger include individuals or entities that control, are controlled by, or are under common control of August Technology prior to the August merger, and may include officers and directors, as well as principal shareholders of August Technology prior to the August merger.

Persons who may be deemed to be affiliates of August Technology prior to the August merger may not sell any of the shares of August Nanometrics common stock received by them in the August merger except pursuant to:

an effective registration statement under the Securities Act of 1933 covering the resale of those shares; an exemption under paragraph (d) of Rule 145 under the Securities Act of 1933; or any other applicable exemption under the Securities Act of 1933.

Recent Developments

On January 27, 2005, August Technology received a letter from Rudolph Technologies, Inc., or Rudolph, stating that Rudolph is prepared to enter into a merger with August Technology based on a share exchange ratio of 0.6239 of a share of Rudolph stock for each share of August Technology common stock (equivalent to $10.50 per share of August Technology common stock based on the closing price of Rudolph stock on January 27, 2005). The letter stated that each August Technology shareholder may elect to receive all cash, stock or a combination of cash and stock, subject to proration based on total cash consideration of $40 million. Pursuant to its obligations under the merger agreement with Nanometrics, August Technology delivered a copy of the letter to Nanometrics. On the same day, Rudolph issued a press release with proposed terms that were slightly different from those described in the letter received by August Technology. The press release stated that Rudolph is prepared to enter into a merger with August Technology whereby each shareholder of August Technology will receive the value of $2.16 per share in cash and 0.4955 per share in Rudolph common stock (equivalent to $10.50 per share of August Technology common stock, based on the closing price of Rudolph stock on January 27, 2005). The press release stated that each August Technology shareholder would have the option to elect to receive all cash, stock or a combination of cash and stock, subject to proration based on total cash consideration of $40 million. August Technology has indicated that is not for sale but, in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology, it would be willing to discuss a potential transaction with Rudolph if Rudolph executes a confidentiality agreement containing provisions that are no less favorable to August Technology than those contained in August Technology's confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics. Rudolph and August Technology have been engaged in discussions to reach agreement on the form of confidentiality agreement but have not yet executed such an agreement.

On February 9, 2005, August Technology received a letter from KLA-Tencor Corporation, or KLA, regarding KLA's interest in pursuing a merger with August Technology. The letter stated that KLA proposed to acquire August Technology in a transaction in which the August Technology shareholders would receive $11.50 in cash per share. KLA also stated that it would be willing to consider using stock as consideration. In a press release dated February 11, 2005, August Technology's board of directors reiterated that August Technology is not for sale. August Technology's board of directors also stated that it had no interest in considering KLA's cash offer, but that in order to fulfill its fiduciary obligations it would investigate the alternative of a transaction in which the consideration to August Technology shareholders would consist of KLA stock at an exchange ratio per share which reflects the intrinsic value of August Technology. The board of directors also stated that it believes that several issues, including antitrust concerns, would need to be considered and resolved before any transaction with KLA could be completed. With these conditions and concerns in mind, in accordance with the terms of the merger agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology, August Technology's board of directors indicated that it would be willing to discuss a potential transaction with KLA if KLA executes a confidentiality agreement containing provisions that are no less favorable to August Technology than those contained in August Technology's confidentiality agreement with Nanometrics. KLA and August Technology have been unable to reach agreement on the form of such a confidentiality agreement and have had no discussions regarding the confidentiality agreement since early March.

August Technology's board of directors determined, after consulting with August Technology's financial and legal advisors, that, despite the offers from Rudolph and KLA, continuing to pursue the August merger is in the best interests of August Technology and its shareholders because it provides the highest potential long-term value for the August Technology shareholders. For a complete discussion of the consideration the August Technology board of directors gave the Rudolph and KLA offers, we encourage you to read the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled The August Merger Background of the August Merger beginning on page 71.

On March 15, 2005, August Technology received notification of early termination of the waiting period under the Hart-Scott-Rodino Antitrust Improvements Act of 1976, as amended, applicable to the August merger. Termination or expiration of this waiting period is a condition to the August merger.

In addition, the Antitrust Division of the United States Department of Justice has notified August Technology that it has commenced an investigation into the competitive aspects of the offers submitted to August Technology by Rudolph and KLA. No further information regarding the timing or scope of the investigation was made available to August Technology.

On March 14, 2005, Nanometrics announced that it has received notice of a patent infringement lawsuit brought by Nova Measuring Instruments, Ltd. alleging infringement of United States Patent No. 6,752,689, or the 689 Patent. Nanometrics believes that its products do not infringe any valid claim of the 689 patent and that the lawsuit will not have a material impact on its business and operating results.

Legal Proceedings Regarding the August Merger

On February 4, 2005, a shareholder class action lawsuit was filed in Minnesota state court against August Technology and the August Technology board of directors. The lawsuit claims that the directors breached their fiduciary duties to August Technology's shareholders in connection with their actions in agreeing to the August merger. The plaintiff seeks various forms of injunctive relief including an order enjoining August Technology and the directors from consummating the August merger.

On February 14, 2005, a similar shareholder class action lawsuit was filed in Minnesota state court against August Technology and the August Technology board of directors. The lawsuit also claims that the directors breached their fiduciary duties to August Technology's shareholders in connection with their actions in agreeing to the August merger. The plaintiff seeks various forms of injunctive relief including an order enjoining August Technology and the directors from consummating the August merger.

James A. Bernards, Roger E. Gower, Jeff L. O'Dell, Linda Hall Whitman and Michael Wright, the members of the board of directors of August Technology who have been named as individual defendants in the two purported class actions, have collectively retained separate counsel to represent them in connection with the foregoing lawsuits. August Technology and these named individuals believe they have meritorious defenses and intend to vigorously defend these lawsuits. They have moved to dismiss these lawsuits.

THE MERGER AGREEMENT

The following summary describes the material provisions of the merger agreement. The provisions of the merger agreement are complicated and not easily summarized. This summary may not contain all of the information about the merger agreement that is important to you. The merger agreement is attached to this joint proxy statement/prospectus as Annex A and is incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus. We encourage you to read the merger agreement carefully in its entirety for a more complete understanding of the terms and conditions of the merger agreement.

Structure of the August Merger and the Reincorporation Merger

The merger agreement provides for the reincorporation of Nanometrics into Delaware through the merger of Nanometrics with Minor League Merger Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics. After the reincorporation merger, Minor League Merger Corporation will be renamed Nanometrics Incorporated and will survive as the parent corporation incorporated in Delaware.

Thereafter August Technology will merge with Major League Merger Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics, with August Technology surviving the August merger as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics. The surviving Delaware parent corporation will, effective as of the closing of the August merger, again be renamed August Nanometrics Inc. August Technology will survive as a wholly-owned subsidiary of August Nanometrics.

Closing and Effective Time of the August Merger and the Reincorporation Merger

We will complete the August merger and the reincorporation merger when all of the conditions to completion of the August merger and the reincorporation merger contained in the merger agreement, which are described in the section entitled Conditions to Obligations to Complete the August Merger beginning on page 122, are satisfied or waived. In the case of the reincorporation merger, such conditions include, but are not limited to, approval by the shareholders of Nanometrics of the reincorporation merger. In the case of the August merger, such conditions include, but are not limited to, approval by the Nanometrics shareholders of the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger and approval by the August Technology shareholders of the merger agreement and the August merger. The reincorporation merger is not conditioned on the August merger, nor is the August merger conditioned on the reincorporation merger.

The reincorporation merger will become effective when both the certificate of merger and the certificate of ownership relating to the reincorporation merger shall have been filed with the Secretary of State of the State of Delaware and the Secretary of the State of California, respectively. The August merger will become effective upon the filing of the articles of merger with the Secretary of State of the State of Minnesota.

We are working to complete the August merger and the reincorporation merger as quickly as possible. Because completion of the August merger and the reincorporation merger are subject to certain conditions that are beyond our control, we cannot predict the exact timing. Absent any unanticipated delay, we expect to complete the August merger and the reincorporation merger during the second quarter of 2005.

Treatment of Securities

Upon completion of the reincorporation merger, each authorized share of Nanometrics common stock, including shares reserved under Nanometrics stock option plans, shall automatically be converted into one share of common stock of the August Nanometrics. Upon completion of the August merger, each share of August Technology common stock outstanding immediately prior to the effective time of the August merger will be canceled and extinguished and automatically converted into the right to receive 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock upon surrender of the certificate representing such August Technology share in the manner provided in the merger agreement. Upon completion of the August merger, August Nanometrics will also assume all outstanding options to purchase August Technology common stock. For more information relating to the treatment of options to purchase August Technology common stock, see the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Treatment of August Technology Stock Options and ESPP beginning on page 113.

The exchange ratio in the August merger (i.e., 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each share of August Technology common stock) will be adjusted to reflect the effect of any stock split, reverse stock split, reclassification, stock dividend, reorganization, recapitalization, consolidation, exchange or other like change with respect to Nanometrics common stock or August Technology common stock occurring or having a record date after the date of the merger agreement and prior to the effective time of the August merger.

Each share of August Technology common stock held by August Technology or owned by Nanometrics or any of their direct or indirect wholly-owned subsidiaries immediately prior to the August merger will be automatically cancelled and retired and cease to exist, and none of August Technology, Nanometrics or any of their direct or indirect subsidiaries will receive any securities of August Nanometrics or other consideration in exchange for those shares.

Based on the exchange ratio and the number of shares of August Technology common stock outstanding as of the record date, a total of approximately _____ shares of August Nanometrics common stock will be issued in the August merger to holders of August Technology common stock. In addition, a total of approximately _____ shares of August Nanometrics common stock will be reserved for issuance upon the exercise of options to purchase August Technology common stock assumed by August Nanometrics in the August merger.

After the August merger, the former shareholders of Nanometrics will own shares of August Nanometrics common stock. Further, Nanometrics shareholders will hold the same number of shares of August Nanometrics common stock as the number of shares of common stock of Nanometrics held by such holders immediately prior to the August merger. However, because August Nanometrics will be issuing new shares of its common stock to August Technology shareholders in the August merger, each share of Nanometrics common stock outstanding immediately prior to the August merger will represent a smaller percentage of the total number of shares of August Nanometrics common stock outstanding after the August merger.

Based on the number of shares of Nanometrics and August Technology common stock outstanding on January 21, 2005, we expect that Nanometrics shareholders before the August merger will hold approximately 53.5% of the fully-diluted shares of August Nanometrics common stock outstanding immediately after the August merger.

Fractional Shares

August Nanometrics will not issue any fractional shares of common stock in the August merger. Instead, each holder of August Technology common stock who would otherwise be entitled to receive a fraction of a share of August Nanometrics common stock (determined after taking into account all of the August Technology common stock held by each such holder and multiplying such shares by the exchange ratio) will receive cash, without interest, in an amount equal to the fraction multiplied by the last reported sales price of Nanometrics common stock at the end of regular trading hours on the closing date of the August merger, as reported on the Nasdaq National Market.

Treatment of August Technology Stock Options and ESPP

When the August merger is completed, August Nanometrics will assume all outstanding options to purchase shares of August Technology common stock and convert them into options to purchase shares of August Nanometrics common stock. August Nanometrics will convert each assumed August Technology option into an option to purchase that number of shares of August Nanometrics common stock equal to the number of shares of August Technology common stock subject to the August Technology option immediately prior to the August merger, multiplied by 0.6401, rounded down to the nearest whole share. The exercise price per share for each assumed August Technology option will be equal to the exercise price per share of the original August Technology option divided by 0.6401, rounded up to the nearest whole cent. Each assumed option will be subject to all other terms and conditions set forth in the applicable documents evidencing each August Technology option immediately prior to the effective time of the August merger. As of the record date for August Technology's special meeting of shareholders, options for approximately _____ shares of August Technology common stock were outstanding in the aggregate under the August Technology stock option plan. Pursuant to the terms of August Technology's 1997 Stock Incentive Plan, approximately 500,000 options of the 1.3 million options to purchase shares of August Technology common stock assumed by August Nanometrics will vest at the effective time of the August merger.

August Nanometrics will file, within fifteen (15) business days after completion of the August merger, a registration statement on Form S-8 with the Securities and Exchange Commission covering shares of August Nanometrics common stock issuable in connection with the assumed options. As a result, all shares of August Nanometrics common stock issuable upon the exercise of assumed options will be freely transferable as long as the registration statement remains effective.

Prior to the effective time of the August merger, August Technology will terminate its employee stock purchase plan and all outstanding purchase rights will be automatically exercised unless Nanometrics instructs August Technology otherwise. At the effective time of the August merger, each share of August Technology common stock issued pursuant to the exercise of these rights will be cancelled and converted into the right to receive 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock.

Exchange Fund; Exchange of Stock Certificates

Prior to completion of the August merger, Nanometrics will establish an exchange fund with a bank or trust company, who shall act as the exchange agent for the August merger, to hold the stock and cash to be issued to August Technology shareholders in the August merger. The exchange fund will consist of stock certificates representing shares of August Nanometrics common stock and cash, including cash to be issued in lieu of fractional shares of August Nanometrics common stock, and, dividends or other distributions, if any, on August Nanometrics common stock with a record date occurring after the completion of the August merger.

As soon as practicable following completion of the August merger, the exchange agent will mail to each record holder of August Technology common stock a letter of transmittal and instructions for surrendering the record holder's stock certificates in exchange for a certificate representing the shares of August Nanometrics common stock issuable to each such holder pursuant to the August merger. Only those holders of August Technology common stock who properly surrender their August Technology stock certificates in accordance with the exchange agent's instructions will receive (i) a certificate representing the shares of August Nanometrics common stock issuable to each such holder pursuant to the August merger, (ii) cash in lieu of any fractional share of August Nanometrics common stock issuable to any such holders, and (iii) dividends or other distributions, if any, to which they are entitled under the terms of the merger agreement. The surrendered certificates representing August Technology common stock will be cancelled. After the effective time of the August merger, each certificate representing shares of August Technology common stock that has not been surrendered will represent only the right to receive shares of August Nanometrics common stock issuable pursuant to the August merger and cash in lieu of any fractional share of August Nanometrics common stock to which the holder of any such certificate is entitled. Following the completion of the August merger, August Technology will not register any transfers of August Technology common stock on its stock transfer books.

Holders of August Technology common stock should not send in their August Technology stock certificates until they receive a letter of transmittal from the exchange agent with instructions for the surrender of August Technology stock certificates.

Distributions with Respect to Unexchanged Shares

Holders of August Technology common stock are not entitled to receive any dividends or other distributions on August Nanometrics common stock until the August merger is completed. After the August merger is completed, holders of August Technology common stock will be entitled to dividends and other distributions declared or made after completion of the August merger with respect to the number of whole shares of August Nanometrics common stock which they are entitled to receive upon exchange of their August Technology common stock. These holders will not be entitled to receive these dividends or distributions, however, until they surrender their August Technology common stock to the exchange agent in accordance with the exchange agent instructions.

Termination of Exchange Fund; No Liability

At any time following the six-month anniversary of the completion of the August merger, August Nanometrics will be entitled to the return of all cash and shares of August Nanometrics common stock held in the exchange fund. Thereafter, August Technology shareholders may look only to August Nanometrics for any merger consideration and any cash payment relating to any dividends or distributions to which they may be entitled upon surrender of their certificates representing shares of August Technology common stock.

Neither August Nanometrics nor August Technology will be liable to any holder of August Technology common stock or August Nanometrics common stock, as the case may be, for any shares (or any related dividends or distributions) delivered to a public official under any applicable abandoned property, escheat or similar law following the passage of time specified therein.

Lost, Stolen or Destroyed Certificates

If an August Technology stock certificate is lost, stolen or destroyed, the holder of the certificate must deliver an affidavit of such fact, and may also be required to deliver an agreement of indemnity or an indemnity bond prior to receiving any merger consideration. Nanometrics will issue only (i) August Nanometrics common stock, (ii) cash in lieu of a fractional share and (iii) any dividends or distributions that may be applicable in a name other than the name in which a surrendered August Technology stock certificate is registered only if the person requesting the exchange presents to the exchange agent all documents required to show and effect the unrecorded transfer of ownership and to show that the requesting person paid any applicable stock transfer taxes.

Under the terms of the merger agreement, subject to certain exceptions described below, each of Nanometrics and August Technology also agreed that neither of them would directly or indirectly; nor will they authorize or permit any of their respective subsidiaries, affiliates, directors, officers, employees, agents and representatives (including any retained investment banker, attorney or accountant) to:

solicit, initiate, facilitate, encourage, furnish information or take any other action (other than to disclose the existence of its non-solicitation obligation under the merger agreement) that constitutes, or is reasonably likely to lead to, any acquisition proposal by a third party of the type described above; participate in any discussions or negotiations with any third party regarding any acquisition proposal of the type described above; or enter into or execute any letter of intent or similar document or any contract agreement or commitment constituting or otherwise relating to any acquisition proposal of the type described above.

Each of Nanometrics and August Technology is obligated to notify the other orally and in writing within twenty-four (24) hours from its receipt of any acquisition proposal of the type described above or any request for nonpublic information from a party who has made, or indicated an intention to enter into discussions relating to, an acquisition proposal of the type described above. The notice must include the material terms and conditions of the acquisition proposal or information request, the identity of the person or group making the acquisition proposal or information request, and all related written materials provided in connection with the proposal or request. If either Nanometrics or August Technology enters into discussions or provides nonpublic information relating to an acquisition proposal, such party shall notify the other within twenty-four (24) hours from the discussion or production of information and shall keep the other party reasonably informed of the status and terms of the proposals, requests or discussions on a current basis, including by providing a copy of all related material documentation and correspondence.

Notwithstanding the prohibitions described above, if either Nanometrics or August Technology receives an unsolicited bona fide written acquisition proposal before the date of its shareholder meeting to approve the transactions contemplated by the merger agreement, under the terms of the merger agreement, the party receiving the acquisition proposal is permitted to engage in discussions and negotiations with, and provide nonpublic information to, the party making the acquisition proposal as long as:

the receiving party has entered into a confidentiality agreement with the person making the acquisition proposal having provisions that are no less favorable to such party than those contained on the confidentiality agreement between Nanometrics and August Technology dated October 26, 2004; and the receiving party's board of directors reasonably determines in good faith, after consulting with outside legal counsel, that such action is necessary to comply with its fiduciary duties under applicable law.

Obligations of each of the Nanometrics and August Technology Boards of Directors with Respect to its Recommendation and Holding a Meeting of its Shareholders

Under the terms of the merger agreement, the Nanometrics and August Technology boards of directors each agreed to call, hold and convene a meeting of its shareholders promptly after the registration statement of which this joint proxy statement/prospectus forms a part is declared effective by the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Nanometrics board of directors agreed to recommend to its shareholders the approval of the issuance of shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger and to use reasonable best efforts to obtain the required shareholder approval. The August Technology board of directors agreed to recommend to its shareholders the approval of the merger agreement and the August merger and to use reasonable best efforts to obtain the required shareholder approvals.

Each of the Nanometrics and August Technology boards of directors also agreed not to withdraw or modify, or publicly propose to withdraw or modify, its recommendations relating to the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby, and not to adopt, approve or recommend to its shareholders that they accept any other acquisition proposal of the type described above or any superior proposal. For purposes of this restriction, a superior proposal is an acquisition proposal of the type described above on terms that the recipient board of directors has determined in good faith, after consulting with its independent financial advisor or another nationally recognized financial advisor and its outside counsel and after taking into account all the terms of conditions of the proposal, the financial, legal and regulatory aspects of such proposal and the party making such proposal, that the proposal is:

more favorable to such party's shareholders than the August merger or any counterproposal made by the other party; capable of being consummated in a timely manner on the terms proposed; and fully capable of being financed by the party making the proposal or for which financing has been committed by a reputable financing source, to the extent required.

Notwithstanding the obligations described above, in response to an acquisition proposal of the type described above deemed by the Nanometrics or August Technology board of directors to be a superior proposal, the board of directors of Nanometrics or August Technology, as the case may be, may withdraw or modify, or propose publicly to withdraw or modify its approval or recommendation, relating to the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby if the following conditions are met:

a superior proposal of the type described above has been made and has not been withdrawn;

the shareholders' meeting of that party has not occurred;

the party's board of directors has reasonably determined in good faith, after consulting with outside legal counsel, that in light of the superior proposal, such action is necessary to comply with its fiduciary duties under applicable law; and the party has provided the other party with five business days' prior written notice of its intention to take such action, specifying in the notice the material terms and conditions of the superior proposal, as well as the identity of the third party making the proposal.

Regardless of whether either the Nanometrics or August Technology board of directors has received an acquisition proposal or a superior proposal of the type described above, or has withheld, withdrawn, amended or modified its recommendation to its shareholders relating to the merger agreement, or has approved or recommended that its shareholders accept a superior proposal of the type described above, each of Nanometrics and August Technology is obligated to call, give notice of, convene and hold a meeting of its shareholders to consider and vote upon its respective proposal relating to the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby; and the fact that any of the foregoing has occurred will not give Nanometrics or August Technology a right to terminate the merger agreement or affect any other obligation of the parties under the merger agreement. Neither Nanometrics nor August Technology is permitted under the merger agreement to submit any acquisition proposal, including a superior proposal, to a vote of its respective shareholders at or prior to its shareholders' meeting relating to the merger agreement and the transactions contemplated thereby.

other party, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld. However, Nanometrics and August Technology may, without the prior consent of the other, issue a press release or make a public statement relating to the merger agreement or the transactions contemplated thereby if, after consulting with outside counsel, it determines that the press release or public statement is required by applicable law or the rules and regulations of the Nasdaq National Market, and it has used all reasonable best efforts to consult with the other party regarding the timing, scope and content of any such press release or public statement. Also, each of Nanometrics and August Technology may, without the prior written consent of the other, issue a press release or make a public statement relating to a change in recommendation by the Nanometrics board of directors or the August Technology board of directors, as the case may be.

Indemnification and Insurance

Under the terms of the merger agreement, Nanometrics agreed to honor for a period of six years after completion of the August merger all obligations of August Technology contained in any indemnification agreement between August Technology or its subsidiaries, on the one hand, and any of its current or former directors or officers, on the other; provided that such agreement was in effect prior to completion of the August merger. Also, for six years following completion of the August merger, the certificate of incorporation and bylaws of August Nanometrics will contain provisions with respect to indemnification and exculpation that are at least as favorable as the indemnification and exculpation provisions contained in the articles of incorporation or bylaws or similar organizational documents of August Technology and its subsidiaries as in effect prior to completion of the August merger, and August Nanometrics and its subsidiaries will not amend, repeal or otherwise modify such provisions in any respect, except as required by law.

For six years from completion of the August merger, August Nanometrics also will maintain the existing policy of August Technology's directors and officers' and fiduciary liability insurance covering claims arising from facts or events that occurred prior to the completion of the August merger, including acts or omissions occurring in connection with the merger agreement and completion of the transactions contemplated thereby to the extent such acts or omissions are covered by the existing insurance policy, and covering each director and officer of August Technology who was covered at the effective time of the August merger on terms with respect to coverage and amounts no less favorable than those in effect on the date of the signing of the merger agreement. However, August Nanometrics will not be required to expend in any one year an amount in excess of 200% of the annual premium paid by August Technology at the time the merger agreement was signed. In the event the premium exceeds 200% of the annual premium at the time the merger agreement was signed, August Nanometrics will be obligated to obtain an insurance policy with the greatest coverage available for a cost not exceeding 200% of the annual premium paid by August Technology at the time the merger agreement was signed. Alternatively, August Nanometrics may, prior to completion of the August merger, purchase a tail prepaid insurance policy for an effective term of six (6) years from the completion of the August merger, covering only those directors and officers of August Technology who were covered at the effective time of the August merger for actions and omissions that occurred prior to the completion of the August merger, and on terms, conditions and amounts no less advantageous than the existing insurance policy.

In addition, August Nanometrics shall, prior to or currently with the completion of the August merger, cause to be in effect a directors' and officers' liability insurance policy covering claims arising from facts or events that occur after the completion of the August merger with not less than $15 million in available coverage.

August Nanometrics Board of Directors after the August Merger

Upon completion of the August merger, the board of directors of August Nanometrics shall be fixed at seven (7) members. Three of the directors shall have served as directors of August Technology prior to the August merger; three of the directors shall have served as directors of Nanometrics prior to the reincorporation merger; and one director shall be acceptable to both Nanometrics and August Technology. The organizational documents of August Nanometrics shall provide for three classes of directors and staggered election of directors.

to the extent the representations and warranties of the other party address matters only as of a particular date, they must be true and correct only as of that date, and where any failures of such representations and warranties to be true and correct, individually or in the aggregate, do not have a material adverse effect, as defined below;

the other party shall have performed or complied in all material respects with all of its agreements and covenants required by the merger agreement to be performed or complied with by it before completion of the August merger; and

However, under the terms of the merger agreement, none of the following, either alone or in combination, will be deemed to constitute, nor will any of the following be taken into account in determining whether there has been or will or could be, a material adverse effect:

any changes resulting from or arising out of general market, economic or political conditions (including any changes arising out of acts of terrorism, or war, weather conditions or other force majeure events), provided that the change does not have a substantially disproportionate impact on Nanometrics and any of its subsidiaries or August Technology and any of its subsidiaries, as the case may be, taken as a whole;

Termination

The merger agreement may be terminated in accordance with its terms at any time prior to completion of the August merger, whether before or after the approval of the merger agreement and approval of the August merger by shareholders of August Technology or the approval of the issuance of the shares of August Nanometrics common stock in the August merger by shareholders of Nanometrics:

by mutual written consent of Nanometrics and August Technology duly authorized by their respective boards of directors;

by Nanometrics, upon a breach of, or failure to perform, any representation, warranty or covenant (other than covenants related to non-solicitation and board recommendation) in the merger agreement that the condition would reasonably be expected to cause to completion of the August merger regarding August Technology's representations and warranties or covenants to not be met; however, if the breach or inaccuracy is curable by August Technology, then Nanometrics may not terminate the merger agreement for twenty (20) days after delivery of written notice from Nanometrics to August Technology of the breach, and if the breach is cured during those twenty (20) days Nanometrics may not exercise this termination right;

by August Technology, upon a breach of, or failure to perform, any representation, warranty or covenant (other than covenants related to non-solicitation and board recommendation) in the merger agreement that would reasonably be expected to cause the condition to completion of the August merger regarding Nanometrics' representations and warranties or covenants to not be met; however, if the breach or inaccuracy is curable by Nanometrics, then August Technology may not terminate the merger agreement for twenty (20) days after delivery of written notice from August Technology to Nanometrics of the breach, and if the breach is cured during those twenty (20) days, August Technology may not exercise this termination right; or

If the party entitled to payment of the termination fee has to make a claim against the other party and such claim results in a judgment against the other party, the party required to pay the termination fee will also have to pay all of the other party's costs and expenses in connection with the suit together with interest on the unpaid termination fee.

UNAUDITED PRO FORMA CONDENSED COMBINED FINANCIAL INFORMATION

The following unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet as of January 1, 2005 and the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended January 1, 2005 are based on the historical consolidated financial statements of Nanometrics and August Technology, incorporated by reference into this joint proxy statement/prospectus, after giving effect to the August merger as a purchase of August Technology by Nanometrics using the purchase method of accounting and applying the assumptions and adjustments described in the accompanying notes to the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements.

Nanometrics and August Technology have different fiscal year ends. Accordingly, the unaudited pro forma condensed combined balance sheet combines Nanometrics' historical consolidated balance sheet as of January 1, 2005 with August Technology's historical consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, 2004, giving effect to the August merger as if it had occurred on January 1, 2005. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statement of operations for the year ended January 1, 2005 combines Nanometrics' historical consolidated statement of operations for the year then ended with August Technology historical consolidated statement of operations for the year ended December 31, 2004. The unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations give effect to the August merger as if it had occurred on January 4, 2004.

The August merger will be accounted for under the purchase method of accounting in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 141, Business Combinations (SFAS 141). Under the purchase method of accounting, the total estimated purchase price, calculated as described in Note 1 to these unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements, is allocated to the net tangible and identifiable intangible assets of August Technology acquired in connection with the August merger, based on their respective estimated fair values. Management has made a preliminary allocation of the estimated purchase price to the tangible and identifiable intangible assets acquired and liabilities assumed based on various preliminary estimates. A final determination of these estimated fair values, which cannot be made prior to the completion of the August merger, will be based on the actual net tangible and identifiable intangible assets of August Technology that exist as of the date of completion of the August merger.

Further, the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements do not include any adjustments for liabilities that may result from integration activities, as management of Nanometrics and August Technology are in the process of making these assessments, and estimates of these costs are not currently known. However, liabilities ultimately may be recorded for severance or relocation costs related to August Technology employees, costs of vacating some facilities of August Technology, or other costs associated with exiting activities of August Technology that would affect amounts in the pro forma financial statements. Any such liabilities would be recorded as an adjustment to the purchase price and an increase in goodwill. In addition, Nanometrics may incur significant restructuring charges upon completion of the August merger or in subsequent quarters for severance or relocation costs related to Nanometrics employees, costs of vacating some facilities of Nanometrics, or other costs associated with exiting activities of Nanometrics. Any such restructuring charges would be recorded as an expense in the consolidated statement of operations in the period in which they were incurred. Since the final intrinsic value associated with deferred stock-based compensation will be calculated at the completion of the August merger, the amount allocated to this item could change materially depending on the price of Nanometrics common stock or the number of August Technology unvested options outstanding as of the completion of the August merger.

These unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements have been prepared based on preliminary estimates of fair values. Amounts preliminarily allocated to intangible assets with definite lives may change significantly, which could result in a material change in amortization of intangible assets. Therefore, the actual amounts recorded as of the completion of the August merger may differ materially from the information presented in these unaudited pro forma condensed combined consolidated financial statements. The impact of ongoing integration activities, the timing of completion of the August merger and other changes in August Technology's net tangible and intangible assets that occur prior to completion of the August merger could cause material differences in the information presented.

CONDENSED COMBINED BALANCE SHEET

1. Basis of Pro Forma Presentation

On January 21, 2005, Nanometrics and August Technology entered into a definitive merger agreement (the Agreement) under which Nanometrics would merge with August Technology in a business combination to be accounted for using the purchase method. Pursuant to the terms of the Agreement, August Technology will merge with a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics and August Technology will thereby become a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics. In connection with the August merger, Nanometrics will be renamed August Nanometrics Inc. The total estimated purchase price of $152.9 million includes the exchange of Nanometrics common stock valued at $143.6 million, assumed stock options with a fair value of $7.2 million and estimated direct transaction costs of $2.1 million.

The unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements assume the issuance of approximately 11.4 million shares of August Nanometrics common stock, based on an exchange ratio of 0.6401 of a share of August Nanometrics common stock for each outstanding share of August Technology common stock as of January 21, 2005. The average market price per share of Nanometrics common stock of $12.57 is based on an average of the closing market price of Nanometrics common stock for the period beginning two trading days before and ending two trading days after the August merger was announced. The actual number of shares of August Nanometrics common stock to be issued will be determined based on the actual number of shares of August Technology common stock outstanding at the completion of the August merger.

Under the terms of the merger agreement, each outstanding option to purchase August Technology common stock will be assumed by August Nanometrics and converted into an option to purchase August Nanometrics common stock. Under the terms of the merger agreement, Nanometrics would assume August Technology stock options to purchase 1.3 million shares of August Nanometrics common stock. The fair value of the outstanding options was determined using a Black-Scholes valuation model with the following weighted-average assumptions: volatility of 81%; risk-free interest rate of 3.2%, expected life of 2.2 years and dividend yield of zero. The actual number of stock options to be assumed will be determined based on the actual number of August Technology stock options outstanding at the completion of the August merger.

There were no significant intercompany balances and transactions between Nanometrics and August Technology as of the dates and for the period of these pro forma condensed combined financial statements. Certain reclassification adjustments have been made to conform Nanometrics and August Technology's historical reported balances to the pro forma condensed combined financial statement basis of presentation.

The estimated purchase price and the allocation of the estimated purchase price discussed below are preliminary because the August merger has not yet been completed. The actual purchase price will be based on the August Nanometrics shares issued to August Technology shareholders and the options to purchase August Technology stock assumed by August Nanometrics on the closing date of the August merger. The final allocation of the purchase price will be based on August Technology's assets and liabilities on the closing date.

The total preliminary estimated purchase price of the August merger is as follows (in thousands):

	Amount
Estimated fair value of August Nanometrics shares issued to August Technology shareholders	$ 143,600
Estimated fair value of assumed August Technology stock options	7,201
Estimated direct transaction fees and expenses	2,095
Total preliminary estimated purchase price	$ 152,896

Under the purchase method of accounting, the total preliminary estimated purchase price as shown in the table above is allocated to August Technology's tangible and intangible assets and liabilities based on their estimated fair values as of the date of completion of the August merger. The total preliminary estimated purchase price is allocated as follows (in thousands):

	Amount	First Year Charges	Estimated Useful Life
Net tangible assets	$ 80,413	$ (65)(1)	n/a
		7,998 (2)	n/a

Total preliminary estimated purchase price	$ 152,896	$ 22,526

- (1) Relates to the net decrease in depreciation expense resulting from the adjustment to fair value of the fixed assets.
- (2) The portion of the estimated purchase price allocated to in-process research and development of $10.9 million and an increase in cost of products sold of $8.0 million related to the revaluation of certain inventory to fair value. These charges are non-recurring and as such are not reflected in the pro forma condensed combined statement of operations.
- (3) Estimated weighted-average remaining vesting period.

A final determination of fair values, which cannot be made prior to the completion of the August merger, may differ materially from the preliminary estimates and will include management's final valuation of the fair values of assets acquired and liabilities assumed. This final valuation will be based on the actual net tangible assets of August Technology that exist as of the date of the completion of the August merger. The final valuation may change the allocations of purchase price, which could affect the fair value assigned to the assets and liabilities and could result in a change to the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements data.

A preliminary estimate of $80.4 million has been allocated to net tangible assets acquired and $30.5 million has been allocated to amortizable intangible assets acquired. The depreciation and amortization related to the fair value adjustment to net tangible assets and the amortization related to the amortizable intangible assets are reflected as pro forma adjustments to the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations.

Identifiable intangible assets. Of the total estimated purchase price, $35.2 million has been allocated to purchased technology, trade name, product trade names, patents and customer relationships. This adjustment is preliminary and is based on Nanometrics management's estimates.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

The amount ultimately allocated to identifiable intangible assets may differ materially from this preliminary allocation. A $5.0 million increase or decrease in value allocated to the amortizable intangible assets would increase or decrease annual amortization by approximately $0.6 million.

Identification and allocation of value to the identified intangible assets was based on the provisions of SFAS 141. The fair value of the identified intangible assets was estimated by performing a discounted cash flow analysis using the income approach. This method includes a forecast of direct revenues and costs associated with the respective intangible assets and charges for economic returns on tangible and intangible assets utilized in cash flow generation. Net cash flows attributable to the identified intangible assets are discounted to their present value at a rate commensurate with the perceived risk. The projected cash flow assumptions considered contractual relationships, customer attrition, eventual development of new technologies and market competition.

Amounts allocated to the identifiable intangible assets are expected to be amortized over a life of 8 to 10 years with the exception of trade name, which has indefinite life and will not be amortized. The estimates of expected useful lives are based on guidance from SFAS No. 141 and take into consideration the effects of competition, product lives and possible obsolescence. The useful lives of technology rights, patents and product trade names are based on the number of years in which net cash flows have been projected. The useful lives of customer relationships was estimated based upon August Technology's established and long-standing customer relationships with its major customers. Management considers the August trade name to be recognized throughout the worldwide community of semiconductor manufactures as a premier source of all-surface, advanced macro defect inspection, metrology and analysis solutions technology. Subsequent to the August merger, management intends to maintain and continue to market existing and new products under the August Technology trade name. As management intends to continue to use the August Technology trade name indefinitely, an indefinite life was assigned.

Assumptions used in forecasting cash flows for each of the identified intangible assets included consideration of the following:

August Technology historical operating margins

August Technology market share and growth

Trends in technology

The nature and expected timing of new product introductions by August Technology and its competitors.

Goodwill. Goodwill represents the excess of the purchase price over the fair value of the underlying net tangible and intangible assets. In accordance with SFAS No. 142, goodwill will not be amortized but instead will be tested for impairment at least annually (more frequently if certain indicators are present). In the event the management of the combined company determines that the value of goodwill has become impaired, the combined company will incur an accounting charge for the amount of impairment during the fiscal quarter in which the determination is made.

Net Deferred Tax Liability. The deferred tax liability reflects the estimated tax effect of deferred tax liabilities associated with purchase accounting that were not offset by preexisting deferred tax assets. Such deferred tax liabilities are associated with intangible assets with indefinite lives. This determination is preliminary and subject to change based upon management's final valuation of the fair values of identifiable intangible assets acquired.

In-process research and development. The preliminary estimated charge for in-process research and development of $10.9 million is based on management's estimates and will be charged to expense in the period during which the August merger is completed. The amount ultimately allocated to in-process research and development may differ from this preliminary allocation. This amount has been excluded from the unaudited pro forma condensed combined statements of operations as such charge is non-recurring.

August Technology is currently developing new products that qualify as in-process research and development. Projects that qualify as in-process research and development represent those that have not yet reached technological feasibility. Technological feasibility is defined as being equivalent to completion of a beta-phase working prototype in which there is no remaining risk relating to the development. These in-process research and development projects are focused on developing new products, integrating new technologies, improving product performance and broadening features and functionalities. There is a risk that these development efforts and enhancements will not be competitive with other products using alternative technologies that offer comparable functionality.

The fair value of these IPR&D projects was estimated by considering the importance of each project to the overall development plan, estimating costs to develop the purchased in-process research and development into commercially viable products, estimating the resulting net cash flows from the projects when completed and discounting the net cash flows to their present value using the income approach.

In addition, solely for the purposes of estimating the fair value of the IPR&D projects, the following assumptions were made:

Revenue that is reasonably likely to result from the potential uses of identifiable intangible assets that includes the estimated number of units to be sold, estimated selling prices, estimated market penetration and estimated market share and year-over-year growth rates over the product cycles;

Remaining developmental R&D and sustaining engineering expenses once commercialized were also estimated by management according to internal planning estimates; and

The cost structure was assumed to be similar to that for existing products.

Net cash flows attributable to the projects were discounted to their present values at a rate commensurate with the perceived risk. The weighted average cost of capital used to discount the net cash flows to their present value was adjusted to reflect the difficulties and uncertainties in completing each project and thereby achieving technological feasibility, the percentage of completion of each project, anticipated market acceptance and penetration, market growth rates and risks related to the impact of potential changes in future target markets. Based on these factors, the weighted average discount rate for these projects was 30%.

The estimates used in valuing in-process research and development were based upon assumptions believed to be reasonable but which are inherently uncertain and unpredictable. Assumptions may be incomplete or inaccurate, and unanticipated events and circumstances may occur. In addition, some projects which are currently in process may not be in process at the completion of the August merger and new projects may be started prior to completion of the August merger which may be in process at the completion of the August merger. Accordingly, actual results may vary from the projected results.

Deferred stock-based compensation. This represents the estimated intrinsic value of the unvested August Technology stock options assumed. The estimated intrinsic value was calculated as the difference between the average of the quoted closing market price of Nanometrics stock for the period beginning two days before and ending two days after the August merger was announced, and the exercise price of the assumed

August Technology stock options for unvested August Technology stock options. This balance will be amortized over the remaining vesting period of the stock options.

Pro forma August Technology results of operations for the year ended December 31, 2004 have been adjusted to give pro forma effect to the purchase of certain assets relating to the DMSVision software division of Inspec, Inc. as if that transaction had occurred on January 1, 2004. The total consideration paid for DMSVision, including direct acquisition costs, was approximately $2.3 million of cash. In addition, August Technology may owe additional future consideration based on new orders for DMSVision software licenses received in the twelve months after the transaction closing date of July 27, 2004. August Technology estimates the total contingent consideration to be paid will be between $150,000 and $300,000. Based upon the total estimated contingent consideration, the payment of the contingency will result in an increase in the allocation of purchase price to purchased technology.

The purchase price has been allocated based on August Technology management's estimate of the fair values of assets acquired and liabilities assumed as follows (in thousands):

3. Reclassifications

Certain reclassification adjustments have been made to conform Nanometrics and August Technology's historical reported balances to the pro forma combined condensed financial statement basis of presentation. The reclassifications are as follows:

- (A) To reclassify August Technology's service revenue to a separate line.
- (B) To reclassify August Technology's cost of service revenue to a separate line.
- (C) To reclassify August Technology's general and administrative expense to a separate line.
- (D) To reclassify August Technology's amortization of purchased technology acquired in the DMSVision transaction.

4. Pro Forma Adjustments

Pro forma adjustments are necessary to reflect the estimated purchase price, to reflect amounts related to August Technology's net tangible and intangible assets at an amount equal to the preliminary estimate of their fair values, to reflect the amortization expense related to the estimated amortizable intangible assets and deferred stock-based compensation, to reflect changes in depreciation and amortization expense resulting from the estimated fair value adjustments to net tangible assets and to reflect the income tax effect related to the pro forma adjustments. The pro forma combined provision for income taxes does not necessarily reflect the amounts that would have resulted had Nanometrics and August Technology filed consolidated income tax returns during the periods presented.

There were no significant intercompany balances and transactions between Nanometrics and August Technology as of and for the year ended January 1, 2005.

The pro forma adjustments included in the unaudited pro forma condensed combined financial statements are as follows:

- (a) To eliminate August Technology's historical goodwill

5. Pro Forma Net Income Per Share

The pro forma basic net income per share is based on the number of Nanometrics shares used in computing basic net income per share plus the 11.4 million shares of August Nanometrics common stock that would be exchanged for the August Technology common stock as of January 21, 2005.

The pro forma diluted net income per share is based on the number of Nanometrics shares used in computing diluted net income per share plus the 11.4 million shares of August Nanometrics common stock assumed to be exchanged for the August Technology common stock and the potential dilution from assumed dilutive stock options (using the treasury stock method).

Vote on Extraordinary Corporate Transactions	Under California law, the principal terms of a merger or reorganization must be approved by a vote of the board of directors of each constituent corporation in a merger or sale of assets reorganization. California law also generally requires the affirmative vote of a majority of the outstanding shares of each class entitled to vote thereon (two classes of common stock differing only as to voting rights are considered to be a single class for these purposes), except that, unless required by its articles of incorporation, no authorizing shareholder vote is required of a corporation surviving a merger if the shareholders of such corporation shall own, immediately after the merger, more than 5/6 of the voting power of the surviving corporation.	corporation in a proposed acquisition of an interest in the corporation, among other things, to consider the interests of the corporation's employees, customers, suppliers and creditors, the economy of the state and nation, community and social considerations and the long-term as well as short-term interests of the corporation and its shareholders, including the possibility that these interests may best be served by the continued independence of the corporation. Minnesota law requires the approval of a majority of the voting power of all shares entitled to vote on a proposed plan of merger or share exchange unless any class or series of shares is entitled to vote as a class on the plan. ADDITIONAL NANOMETRICS PROPOSALS

The following proposals are solely for the consideration of the Nanometrics shareholders at the Nanometrics annual meeting and are not dependent upon the vote of the August Technology shareholders, as opposed to proposal 1 relating to the August merger, which requires approval of shareholders of both Nanometrics and August Technology. The following proposals may be implemented (assuming they are approved) without regard to whether the August merger is consummated.

(THE REINCORPORATION MERGER)

General

The Nanometrics board of directors, by a unanimous vote at a special meeting of the board of directors, adopted a resolution approving a change in the state of its incorporation from California to Delaware. If approved by the requisite vote of the Nanometrics shareholders, this reincorporation shall be effected through a merger of Nanometrics with its wholly owned subsidiary, Minor League Merger Corporation, a Delaware corporation.

The completion of the reincorporation merger is not contingent upon approval of proposal 1 or any of Nanometrics' other proposals. If Nanometrics' shareholders do not approve proposal 1, then the reincorporation merger may still be completed, assuming approval by Nanometrics shareholders.

Proposal

Pursuant to the Agreement and Plan of Merger and Reorganization, dated as of January 21, 2005, by and among Nanometrics, Major League Merger Corporation, a Minnesota corporation and wholly owned subsidiary of Nanometrics, Minor League Merger Corporation, a Delaware corporation and wholly owned subsidiary of Nanometrics, and August Technology, Nanometrics proposes to merge with and into Minor League Merger Corporation. This merger is referred to herein as the reincorporation merger. Minor League Merger Corporation will succeed to all of the rights, properties, assets and liabilities of Nanometrics. Upon completion of the reincorporation merger, Nanometrics will cease to exist and Minor League Merger Corporation will continue to operate the business of Nanometrics under the name Nanometrics Incorporated as a Delaware corporation. For convenience, Nanometrics Incorporated, after the reincorporation merger, is sometimes referred to as the Delaware company. Pursuant to the merger agreement, each outstanding share of Nanometrics common stock, no par value per share, will be automatically converted into one share of the Delaware company, $0.001 par value per share, upon the effective date of the reincorporation merger. Each stock certificate representing issued and outstanding shares of the Delaware company common stock will continue to represent the same number of shares of common stock of Minor League Merger Corporation. IT WILL NOT BE NECESSARY FOR SHAREHOLDERS OF NANOMETRICS TO EXCHANGE THEIR EXISTING STOCK CERTIFICATES FOR STOCK CERTIFICATES OF THE DELAWARE COMPANY. Upon completion of the reincorporation merger, certificates which immediately prior to the reincorporation merger represented shares of common stock of Nanometrics will be deemed for all purposes to represent the same number of shares of the Delaware company's common stock. Nevertheless, shareholders may exchange their certificates if they so choose. The common stock of Nanometrics is listed for trading on the Nasdaq National Market and, after the reincorporation merger, the Delaware company's common stock will continue to be traded on the Nasdaq National Market without interruption, under the same symbol, NANO, as the shares of Nanometrics common stock are currently traded.

The reincorporation merger has been approved by the Nanometrics board of directors, by a unanimous vote at a special meeting. If approved by the requisite vote of the shareholders of Nanometrics, it is anticipated that the reincorporation merger will become effective as soon as practicable following the annual meeting of the Nanometrics shareholders. However, pursuant to the merger agreement, the reincorporation merger may be abandoned or the merger agreement may be amended (except that the principal terms may not be amended without shareholder approval) either before or after Nanometrics shareholder approval has been obtained and prior to the effective date of the reincorporation merger if, in the opinion of the Nanometrics board of directors, circumstances arise which make it inadvisable to proceed under the original terms of the merger agreement. If this proposal 2 is approved by the Nanometrics shareholders, we expect to effect the reincorporation even if proposal 1 is not approved and/or the August merger is not consummated. Shareholders of Nanometrics will have no appraisal rights with respect to the reincorporation merger.

Immediately following the completion of the reincorporation merger, the composition of the board of directors of Minor League Merger Corporation will be the same as the composition of the board of directors of Nanometrics immediately prior to the reincorporation merger.

After the reincorporation merger, the rights of Nanometrics stockholders and Nanometrics corporate affairs will be governed by the Delaware General Corporation Law, and the certificate of incorporation and bylaws of the Delaware company, or the Delaware charter documents, rather than by the California General Corporation Law, and the current articles of incorporation and bylaws of Nanometrics, or the California charter documents. There are differences between the California charter documents and the Delaware charter documents that may be important to you. See the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Comparison of Rights of Holders and Corporate Governance Matters beginning on page 139 above for a comparison of the material rights of equity holders and matters of corporate governance before and after the reincorporation merger.

The summary and discussion of the proposed reincorporation merger set forth in this joint proxy statement/prospectus is qualified in its entirety by reference to the California General Corporation Law, the Delaware General Corporation Law, the merger agreement, the California charter documents and the Delaware charter documents. Copies of the California charter documents and the Delaware charter documents are available for inspection at Nanometrics executive offices. Additionally Nanometrics will send such documents to you upon request. We urge you to read each of these documents carefully for a complete understanding of your rights.

If both proposal 1 and proposal 2 are approved by the Nanometrics shareholders, and the merger with August Technology and Nanometrics reincorporation from a California corporation to a Delaware corporation are consummated, the board of directors of August Nanometrics will be comprised of three members of the Nanometrics board of directors, three members of the August Technology board of directors and one director selected by the aforementioned six directors as required by the merger agreement.

Principal Reasons for the Reincorporation Merger

As Nanometrics plans for the future, Nanometrics board of directors and management believe that it is essential to be able to draw upon well-established principles of corporate governance in making legal and business decisions. The prominence and predictability of Delaware corporate law provide a reliable foundation on which Nanometrics corporate governance decisions can be based, and Nanometrics believes that its shareholders will benefit from the responsiveness of Delaware corporate law to their needs and to those of the corporation they own.

Prominence, Predictability and Flexibility of Delaware Law

For many years, Delaware has followed a policy of encouraging incorporation in that state and, in furtherance of that policy, has been a leader in adopting, construing and implementing comprehensive, flexible corporate laws responsive to the legal and business needs of corporations organized under its laws. Many corporations have chosen Delaware initially as a state of incorporation or have subsequently changed their corporate domicile to Delaware. Because of Delaware's prominence as the state of incorporation for many major corporations, both the legislature and courts in Delaware have demonstrated an ability and a willingness to act quickly and effectively to meet changing business needs. The Delaware courts have developed considerable expertise in dealing with corporate issues, and a substantial body of case law has developed construing Delaware law, resulting in greater predictability with respect to corporate legal affairs.

Increased Ability to Attract and Retain Qualified Directors

Both California and Delaware law permit a corporation to include a provision in its charter which reduces or limits the monetary liability of directors for breaches of fiduciary duty in certain circumstances. The increasing frequency of claims and litigation directed against directors and officers has expanded the risks facing directors and officers of corporations in exercising their respective duties. The amount of time and money required to respond to such claims and to defend such litigation can be substantial. Nanometrics desires to reduce these risks to its directors and officers and to limit situations in which monetary damages can be recovered against its directors so that it may continue to attract and retain qualified directors who otherwise might be unwilling to serve because of the risks involved. Nanometrics believes that, in general, Delaware law provides greater protection to directors than California law and that Delaware law regarding a corporation's ability to limit director liability is more developed and provides more guidance than California law.

Well Established Principles of Corporate Governance

There is substantial judicial precedent in the Delaware courts as to the legal principles applicable to measures that may be taken by a corporation and as to the conduct of the board of directors, such as the business judgment rule and other standards. This tends to assure a significant measure of certainty to legal aspects of the conduct of business and a sound basis for planning. Therefore, Nanometrics believes that its shareholders will benefit from the well-established principles of corporate governance that Delaware law affords.

No Change in Board Members, Business, Management, Employee Benefit Plans or Location of Principal Facilities of Nanometrics

The reincorporation merger will effect a change in the legal domicile of Nanometrics and certain other changes of a legal nature which are described in this joint proxy statement/prospectus. Except as contemplated in connection with the reincorporation merger, the reincorporation merger will NOT result in any change in Nanometrics' business, management, assets or liabilities or the location of its principal facilities. Under United States generally accepted accounting principles, the proposed reincorporation will not result in any gain or loss to Nanometrics. The consolidated financial statements and results of operations of the Delaware company immediately following the reincorporation merger will be identical to that of Nanometrics immediately prior to the reincorporation merger. The directors of Nanometrics immediately prior to the reincorporation merger will become the directors of the Delaware company immediately following the reincorporation merger. All employee benefit, stock option and employee stock purchase plans of Nanometrics will be assumed and continued by the Delaware company, and each option or right issued pursuant to such plans will automatically be converted into an option or right to purchase the same number of shares common stock of the Delaware company, at the same price per share, upon the same terms, and subject to the same conditions. Shareholders should note that approval of this proposal 2 will also constitute approval of the assumption of these plans by the Delaware company. Other employee benefit arrangements of Nanometrics will also be continued by the Delaware company upon the terms and subject to the conditions currently in effect. As noted above, after the reincorporation merger, the shares of common stock of the Delaware company will continue to be traded, without interruption, in the same principal market (the Nasdaq National Market) and under the same symbol, NANO, as the shares of common stock of Nanometrics are currently traded. Nanometrics believes that the proposed reincorporation will not affect any of its material contracts with any third parties and that Nanometrics' rights and obligations under such material contractual arrangements will continue and be assumed by Nanometrics. See the section of this joint proxy statement/prospectus entitled Comparison of Rights of Holders and Corporate Governance Matters beginning on page 139, for a comparison of the material rights of equity holders and matters of corporate governance before and after the reincorporation merger.

Material United States Federal Income Tax Consequences of the Reincorporation Merger

This section of the joint proxy statement/prospectus summarizes the material United States federal income tax considerations of the reincorporation merger to Nanometrics shareholders. The summary is based on the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended, applicable United States Treasury regulations under the Internal Revenue Code, administrative rulings and judicial authority, all as of the date of this joint proxy statement/prospectus. All of the foregoing authorities are subject to change, with or without retroactive effect, and any change could affect the continuing validity of this summary. A ruling from the Internal Revenue Service in connection with the reincorporation merger will not be requested, and we cannot assure you that the Internal Revenue Service will conclude that the reorganization merger qualifies as a reorganization under Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code.

The summary assumes that Nanometrics shareholders hold their shares as capital assets. The summary does not address the tax consequences that may be applicable to particular Nanometrics shareholders in light of their individual circumstances or to Nanometrics shareholders who are subject to special tax rules, such as non-United States persons, dealers in securities, shareholders who acquired shares of Nanometrics common stock through the exercise of options or otherwise as compensation or through a qualified retirement plan, and Nanometrics shareholders who hold their Nanometrics common stock as part of a straddle, hedge, or conversion transaction. In addition, this summary does not address the tax consequences of the reincorporation merger to holders of options or warrants to acquire capital stock of Nanometrics or the tax consequences of transactions effectuated prior or subsequent to, or concurrently with, the reincorporation merger, whether or not any such transactions are undertaken in connection with the reincorporation merger. This summary also does not address any consequences arising under the tax laws of any state, local, or foreign jurisdiction.

The reincorporation merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code, which will result in the following federal income tax consequences to Nanometrics shareholders:

Nanometrics shareholders will not recognize any gain or loss upon the receipt of Nanometrics common stock in the reincorporation merger;

the aggregate tax basis of the Nanometrics common stock received by Nanometrics shareholders in the reincorporation merger will be the same as the aggregate tax basis of the Nanometrics common stock surrendered in exchange therefor;

the holding period of the Nanometrics common stock received by each Nanometrics shareholder in the reincorporation merger will include the period for which Nanometrics common stock surrendered in exchange therefor was considered to be held; and none of August Nanometrics, Minor League Merger Corporation or Nanometrics will recognize gain or loss solely as a result of the reincorporation merger.

NANOMETRICS SHAREHOLDERS SHOULD CONSULT THEIR OWN TAX ADVISORS WITH RESPECT TO THE SPECIFIC TAX CONSEQUENCES OF THE PROPOSED REINCORPORATION TO THEM, INCLUDING THE APPLICATION AND EFFECT OF UNITED STATES FEDERAL, STATE, LOCAL AND FOREIGN INCOME AND OTHER TAX LAWS.

Table of ContentsNANOMETRICS PROPOSAL 4*RATIFICATION OF APPOINTMENT OF INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTING FIRM

The audit committee of the board of directors of Nanometrics has appointed BDO Seidman, LLP, independent registered public accounting firm, to audit the consolidated financial statements of Nanometrics for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2005.

Deloitte & Touche LLP previously audited Nanometrics' financial statements from fiscal 1991 through the fiscal year ended January 3, 2004. Deloitte & Touche LLP resigned effective as of August 23, 2004. BDO Seidman, LLP was selected by the audit committee to serve as Nanometrics' independent registered public accounting firm effective as of September 3, 2004.

The reports of Deloitte & Touche LLP on the Nanometrics' financial statements for the fiscal years ended December 28, 2002 and January 3, 2004 do not contain an adverse opinion or a disclaimer of opinion, and are not qualified or modified as to uncertainty, audit scope or accounting principles, except that such reports include an explanatory paragraph relating to a change in method of accounting for goodwill and other intangible assets.

During the fiscal years ended December 28, 2002 and January 3, 2004, and through August 23, 2004, there were no disagreements between Nanometrics and Deloitte & Touche LLP on any matter of accounting principles or practices, financial statements disclosure, or auditing scope or procedure which disagreements, if not resolved to the satisfaction of Deloitte & Touche LLP, would have caused Deloitte & Touche LLP to make reference thereto in the firm's reports on the Nanometrics' financial statements for such periods. In addition, no reportable events, as defined in Item 304 (a)(1)(v) of Regulation S-K, occurred during Nanometrics' two most recent fiscal years.

Representatives of BDO Seidman, LLP are expected to be present at Nanometrics' annual meeting with the opportunity to make a statement if they desire to do so, and are also expected to be available to respond to appropriate questions.

The following table summarizes the aggregate fees that Nanometrics expects to pay BDO Seidman, LLP for fiscal 2004 and fees billed to Nanometrics by Deloitte & Touche LLP for fiscal 2003 and 2002.

In considering the nature of the services provided by the independent registered public accountants, the audit committee determined that such services are compatible with the provision of independent audit services. The audit committee discussed these services with the independent registered public accountants and Nanometrics management to determine that they are permitted under the rules and regulations concerning auditors independence promulgated by the Securities and Exchange Commission to implement the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002, as well as the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.

Audit Committee Pre-Approval Policy

Pursuant to the audit committee charter, the audit committee must pre-approve all audit and non-audit services, and the related fees, provided to Nanometrics by its independent auditors, or subsequently approve non-audit services in those circumstances where a subsequent approval is necessary and permissible under the Exchange Act or the rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission. Accordingly, the audit committee pre-approved all services and fees provided by Deloitte & Touche LLP and BDO Seidman, LLP during the year ended January 1, 2005 and has concluded that the provision of these services is compatible with the accountants independence.

Matters Not Required to be Submitted to Security Holders

Nanometrics is submitting to the shareholders the proposal to approve the appointment of BDO Seidman, LLP as its independent registered public accounting firm for the fiscal year ending December 31, 2005 even though it is not strictly required to do so. Nanometrics is seeking shareholder approval as a matter of good corporate governance. If the shareholders do not vote in favor of this proposal, Nanometrics will consider the selection of other auditors.

Vote Required

As a matter of good corporate governance, Nanometrics is seeking the affirmative vote of the holders of a majority of the shares of Nanometrics common stock represented and voting at the annual meeting to approve this proposal.

THE NANOMETRICS BOARD OF DIRECTORS UNANIMOUSLY RECOMMENDS THAT SHAREHOLDERS VOTE FOR THE RATIFICATION OF THE APPOINTMENT OF BDO SEIDMAN, LLP AS NANOMETRICS INDEPENDENT REGISTERED PUBLIC ACCOUNTING FIRM FOR NANOMETRICS FISCAL YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, 2005.

Board Meetings and Committees

The Nanometrics board of directors held meetings (or acted by written consent) a total of nine (9) times during fiscal year ended January 1, 2005. During the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005, all incumbent directors attended at least 75% of meetings of the Nanometrics board of directors and meetings of committees, if any, upon which such directors served. The standing committees of the Nanometrics board of directors include an audit committee, a compensation/stock option committee and a nominating/governance committee.

The Nanometrics board of directors has determined that all of its directors meet the independence requirements of the Nasdaq National Market, with the exception of Vincent J. Coates, Norman V. Coates and John D. Heaton.

It is the policy of Nanometrics to require its directors to attend its annual meetings absent a valid reason, such as a schedule conflict. All of the Nanometrics directors who served on the board of directors for the entire fiscal year attended the 2004 annual meeting of shareholders.

Audit Committee

The audit committee of the Nanometrics board of directors reviews and monitors the corporate financial reporting as well as the internal and external audits of Nanometrics, including among other things, Nanometrics' internal audit and control functions, the results and scope of the annual audit and other services provided by Nanometrics' independent auditors, and Nanometrics' compliance with legal matters that may have a significant impact on Nanometrics' financial reports. In addition, the audit committee has the responsibility to consider and recommend the employment of, and to review fee arrangements with, Nanometrics' independent auditors. The audit committee also monitors transactions between Nanometrics and its officers, directors and employees for any potential conflicts of interest. The audit committee met (or acted by written consent) five (5) times during the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005.

The members of the audit committee during the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005 were William Oldham, Nathaniel Brenner (through March 2004), Edmond R. Ward and J. Thomas Bentley (beginning in April 2004). Mr. Brenner, the audit committee's financial expert in the fiscal year ended January 3, 2004, resigned his position as director as well as his committee assignments effective as of March 2004. At the recommendation of the nominating/governance committee, the board of directors appointed J. Thomas Bentley to the audit committee as of May 26, 2004. Mr. Bentley was appointed by the board of directors to serve as the audit committee's financial expert and chairman.

Each member of Nanometrics' audit committee is an independent director as that term is defined under the applicable Nasdaq National Market listing standards. The audit committee has adopted a written charter, which is available on Nanometrics' website at www.nanometrics.com.

Compensation/Stock Option Committee

The compensation/stock option committee reviews and makes recommendations to the Nanometrics board of directors regarding Nanometrics' compensation policy and all forms of compensation to be provided to certain of the executive officers of Nanometrics, including the chief executive officer.

The compensation/stock option committee is responsible for approving the grant of stock options to Nanometrics' employees under Nanometrics' 2000 Employee Stock Option Plan and 2002 Nonstatutory Stock Option Plan.

The members of the compensation/stock option committee serving in the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005 were Edmond Ward, J. Thomas Bentley, Stephen J Smith and Nathaniel Brenner. The compensation/stock option committee met (or acted by written consent) seven (7) times during fiscal 2004. The compensation/stock option committee has adopted a written charter, which is available on Nanometrics' website at www.nanometrics.com.

Nominating/Corporate Governance Committee

Nanometrics maintains a standing nominating/corporate governance committee that assists the Nanometrics board of directors in identifying and qualifying candidates to join the Nanometrics board of directors and addressing governance issues. All members of the nominating committee are independent. The nominating committee utilizes a variety of methods for identifying and evaluating nominees. Its general policy is to assess the appropriate size of the board of directors and whether any vacancies are expected due to retirement or otherwise. In the event those vacancies are anticipated, or otherwise arise, the nominating committee will consider recommending various potential candidates to fill such vacancies. Candidates may come to the attention of the nominating committee through its current members, shareholders or other persons. The board of directors may consider properly submitted shareholder nominations for candidacy. Nominees may be submitted by shareholders in accordance with the shareholder communication policy described below.

The nominating/corporate governance committee has no specific, minimum qualifications for director candidates. In general, however, persons considered for board of directors positions must have demonstrated leadership capabilities, be of sound mind and high moral character, have no personal or financial interest that would conflict or appear to conflict with the interests of Nanometrics and be willing and able to commit the necessary time for board of directors and committee service.

The nominating/corporate governance committee believes that board members should represent a balance of diverse backgrounds and skills, including marketing, finance, manufacturing, engineering, science, and international experience. The nominating/corporate governance committee consists of William Oldham and Stephen Smith. Mr. Oldham was appointed as chairman of the nominating/corporate governance committee by the Nanometrics board of directors. The nominating/corporate governance committee met once in the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005 and has adopted a written charter, which is available on Nanometrics' website at www.nanometrics.com.

Directors who are not also employees of Nanometrics receive an annual retainer fee of $5,000, plus $1,000 for each board and committee meeting attended. Directors are also eligible to participate in Nanometrics Directors Stock Option Plan. Each audit committee member receives an additional $3,000 annual retainer and $500 for attending quarterly earnings release conference calls. Additionally, the audit committee chairman receives an incremental $2,000 retainer for serving in such capacity.

The following table sets forth information with respect to stock options granted during the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005 to each of the Named Officers. All options were granted under Nanometrics' 2000 Stock Option Plan. The potential realizable value amounts in the last two columns of the following chart represent hypothetical gains that could be achieved for the respective options if exercised at the end of the option term. The assumed 5% and 10% annual rates of stock price appreciation from the date of grant to the end of the option term are provided in accordance with rules of the Securities and Exchange Commission and do not represent Nanometrics' estimate or projection of the future common stock price. Actual gains, if any, on stock option exercises are dependent on the future performance of the common stock, overall market conditions and the option holder's continued employment through the vesting period.

Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act requires Nanometrics' executive officers and directors, and persons who own more than ten percent of a registered class of Nanometrics' equity securities, to file reports of ownership and changes in ownership with the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Nasdaq National Market. Executive officers, directors and greater than ten percent shareholders are required by Securities and Exchange Commission regulations to furnish Nanometrics with copies of all Section 16(a) forms that they file. Based solely on its review of the copies of such forms received by it or written representations from certain reporting persons, Nanometrics believes that, with the exception of Roger Ingalls, Jr., during the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005, its executive officers, directors and greater than ten percent shareholders complied with all applicable filing requirements. Report of the Audit Committee of the Nanometrics Board of Directors

The following is the report of the audit committee of the board of directors of Nanometrics describing its review of materials and determinations with respect to its auditors and financial statements for the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005. The information contained in this report shall not be deemed to be soliciting material or to be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, nor shall such information be incorporated by reference into any future filing under the Securities Act or Exchange Act, except to the extent that Nanometrics specifically incorporates it by reference into such filing.

In accordance with its written charter adopted by the board of directors, the audit committee assists the board of directors in fulfilling its responsibility for oversight of the quality and integrity of the accounting, auditing and financial reporting practices of Nanometrics. During the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005, the audit committee met (or acted by written consent) five (5) times, and the audit committee chairman, as representative of the committee, discussed the interim financial information contained in quarterly earnings announcements with the chief financial officer and independent auditors prior to public release.

The audit committee received from Nanometrics independent auditors a formal written statement, consistent with Independence Standards Board Standard No. 1, Independence Discussions with Audit Committees, which describes all relationships between the auditors and Nanometrics that, in the auditors professional opinion, might reasonably be thought to bear on the auditors independence. The audit committee discussed with the auditors these relationships and satisfied itself as to the auditors independence.

The audit committee also discussed and reviewed with the independent auditors all communications required by generally accepted auditing standards, including those described in Statement on Auditing Standards No. 61, as amended, Communication with Audit Committees and, with and without management present, discussed and reviewed the results of the independent auditors examination of Nanometrics financial statements.

Additionally, the audit committee reviewed and discussed the audited financial statements of Nanometrics as of and for the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005 with management and the independent auditors. Management has the responsibility for the preparation of Nanometrics financial statements and the independent auditors have the responsibility for the examination of those statements.

Based on the foregoing review and discussions with management and the independent auditors, the audit committee recommended to the board of directors that Nanometrics audited financial statements as of and for the year ended January 1, 2005 be included in its Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005 for filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission. The Audit Committee also recommended the appointment, subject to shareholder approval, of the independent auditors and the board of directors concurred in such recommendation.

Report of the Compensation/Stock Option Committee of the Nanometrics Board of Directors

The following is the report of the compensation/stock option committee of the board of directors of Nanometrics describing compensation policies and rationales applicable to certain of its executive officers with respect to the compensation paid to such executive officers for the fiscal year ended January 1, 2005. The information contained in such report shall not be deemed to be soliciting material or to be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission, nor shall such information be incorporated by reference into any future filing under the Securities Act or Exchange Act, except to the extent that Nanometrics specifically incorporates it by reference into such filing.

General. The compensation/stock option committee is responsible for making recommendations to the board of directors with respect to cash compensation levels for certain of Nanometrics' executive officers. During fiscal year ended January 1, 2005, the compensation/stock option committee also was responsible for determining levels of equity-based compensation for Nanometrics' employees.

Compensation Philosophy. The compensation/stock option committee makes recommendations as to the salaries of certain of the executive officers by considering (i) the salaries of executive officers in similar positions at comparably-sized peer companies, (ii) Nanometrics' financial performance over the past year based upon revenues and operating results and (iii) the achievement of individual performance goals related to each executive officer's duties and areas of responsibility. The compensation/stock option committee makes recommendations as to the levels of cash bonuses awarded to certain of Nanometrics' executive officers and views such bonuses as being an integral part of its performance based compensation program. Such bonuses are based on Nanometrics' profits and are determined as a percentage of the officer's salaries.

Equity-Based Compensation. The compensation/stock option committee views stock options as an important part of its long-term, performance-based compensation program. The compensation/stock option committee grants stock options to all employees of Nanometrics under its 2000 Stock Option Plan and 2002 Nonstatutory Stock Option Plan based upon the committee's estimation of each employee's contribution to the long-term growth and profitability of Nanometrics. The 2000 Stock Option Plan is intended to provide additional incentives to the executive officers to maximize shareholder value. Options are granted under the 2000 Stock Option Plan and the 2002 Nonstatutory Stock Option Plan at the then-current market price and are generally subject to three-year vesting periods to encourage key employees to remain with Nanometrics.

Compensation of the Chief Executive Officer. The compensation/stock option committee has reviewed all components of the chief executive officer's compensation, including salary, bonus, equity, stock options, and the obligations under Nanometrics' change of control severance agreement with Mr. Heaton.

Based on this review, the compensation/stock option committee found Mr. Heaton's total compensation (and, in the case of the change of control severance agreement, potential payout) in the aggregate to be reasonable and not excessive. Furthermore, although Mr. Heaton made valuable contributions to Nanometrics during fiscal year ended January 3, 2004, in light of economic conditions, the compensation/stock option committee determined that an increase to the base salary of the chief executive officer would not be appropriate. It should be noted that when the compensation/stock option committee considers any component of the chief executive officer's total compensation, the aggregate amounts and mix of all the components, including accumulated (realized and unrealized) option gains are taken into consideration in the compensation/stock option committee's decisions.

Section 162(m). Nanometrics intends that awards granted under Nanometrics 2000 Stock Option Plan and 2002 Nonstatutory Stock Option Plan be deductible by Nanometrics under Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended.

Householding of Proxy Materials

The Securities and Exchange Commission has adopted rules that permit companies and intermediaries such as brokers to satisfy delivery requirements for proxy statements with respect to two or more shareholders sharing the same address by delivering a single proxy statement addressed to those shareholders. This process, which is commonly referred to as householding, potentially provides extra convenience for shareholders and cost savings for companies. Nanometrics and some brokers household proxy materials, delivering a single proxy statement to multiple shareholders sharing an address unless contrary instructions have been received from the affected stockholders. Once you have received notice from your broker or Nanometrics that the broker or Nanometrics will be householding materials to your address, householding will continue until you are notified otherwise or until you revoke your consent. If, at any time, you no longer wish to participate in householding and would prefer to receive a separate proxy statement, or if you are receiving multiple copies of the proxy statement and wish to receive only one, please notify your broker if your shares are held in a brokerage account or Nanometrics if you hold registered shares. You can notify Nanometrics by sending a written request to Investor Relations, Nanometrics Incorporated, 1550 Buckeye Drive, Milpitas, California 95035.

Shareholder Proposals

Nanometrics

If the August merger is not completed, Nanometrics will hold its 2006 annual meeting of shareholders. For any proposal to be considered for inclusion in the Nanometrics proxy statement and form of proxy for submission to the Nanometrics shareholders at the Nanometrics 2006 annual meeting, the proposal must comply with the requirements of Rule 14a-8 under the Exchange Act and be submitted in writing by notice delivered or mailed by first-class United States mail, postage prepaid, to Nanometrics Incorporated, 1550 Buckeye Drive, Milpitas, California 95035, Attention: Office of the Secretary, and must be received no later than 120 calendar days before the date of the proxy statement released to shareholders in connection with the Nanometrics 2005 annual meeting. The submission of a shareholder proposal does not guarantee that it will be included in the Nanometrics 2006 proxy statement. Additionally, shareholder proposals to be considered at the Nanometrics 2006 annual meeting outside the processes of Rule 14a-8 (which are not intended to be included in the proxy materials for the Nanometrics 2006 annual meeting) must be delivered to or mailed and received at the executive offices of Nanometrics at least 45 days before the date of the joint proxy statement/prospectus is released to shareholders in connection with the 2005 annual meeting.

August Technology

August Technology's bylaws limit the business that may be transacted at a special meeting of shareholders to matters relating to the purposes of the special meeting stated in the notice of the meeting. Accordingly, August Technology's shareholders may not submit other proposals for consideration at the special meeting.

In addition, August Technology's bylaws provide that a shareholder who desires to nominate a person for election to the board of directors at the 2005 annual meeting must have given written notice to August Technology on or before November 22, 2004. Any such nomination must have provided the information required by August Technology's bylaws and comply with any applicable laws and regulations. If a shareholder proposal intended to be presented at the 2005 annual meeting but not included in the proxy materials was or is received by August Technology after February 18, 2005, then management named in August Technology's proxy for the 2005 annual meeting will have discretionary authority to vote shares represented by such proxies on the shareholder proposal, if presented at the annual meeting.

Section 5.13 Employee Benefit Plans, Options and Employment Agreements.

(a) Section 5.13(a) of the Parent Disclosure Schedule sets forth a complete and accurate list of all Employee Benefit Plans maintained, or contributed to by Parent, any of its Subsidiaries or any of their respective ERISA Affiliates or to which Parent, any of its Subsidiaries or any of their respective ERISA Affiliates is obligated to contribute, or under which any of them has or may have any liability for premiums or benefits for the benefit of employees located in the United States (collectively, the Parent Employee Plans).

(b) With respect to each Parent Employee Plan, Parent has made available to the Company complete and accurate copies of (i) such Parent Employee Plan (or a written summary of any unwritten plan) together with all amendments, (ii) in the case of any plan for which Forms 5500 are required to be filed, the most recent annual report (Form 5500) with schedules attached, (iii) in the case of any plan that is intended to be qualified under Section 401(a) of the Code, the most recent determination letter from the Internal Revenue Service, (iv) each trust agreement, group annuity contract, administration and similar material agreements, investment management or investment advisory agreements, (v) the most recent summary plan descriptions and employee handbook, or other similar material employee communications relating to employee benefits matters, (vi) all personnel, payroll and employment manuals and policies, and (vii) the most recent financial statements for each Parent Employee Plan that is funded.

(c) Each Parent Employee Plan has been administered in all material respects in accordance with ERISA, the Code and all other applicable Laws and the regulations thereunder and materially in accordance with its terms and each of Parent, its Subsidiaries and their respective ERISA Affiliates have in all material respects met their obligations with respect to each Parent Employee Plan and have timely made (or timely will make) all required contributions thereto. All filings and reports as to each Parent Employee Plan required to have been submitted to the Internal Revenue Service or to the United States Department of Labor have been timely submitted. With respect to the Parent Employee Plans, no event has occurred, and, to Parent's knowledge, there exists no condition or set of circumstances in connection with which Parent, its Subsidiaries or any plan participant could be subject to any material liability (including penalties or taxes) under ERISA, the Code or any other applicable Law, nor will the negotiation or consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement give rise to any such material liability.

(d) With respect to the Parent Employee Plans, there are no material benefit obligations for which contributions have not been made or properly accrued and there are no benefit obligations which have not been accounted for by reserves, or otherwise properly footnoted in accordance with the requirements of GAAP, on the financial statements of Parent. qualified and the plans and trusts related thereto are exempt from federal income taxes under Sections 401(a) and 501(a), respectively, of the Code, or Parent has remaining a period of time under applicable U.S. Department of the Treasury regulations or Internal Revenue Service pronouncements in which to apply for such a letter and to make any amendments necessary to obtain a favorable determination as to the qualified status of each such Qualified Plan. To Parent's knowledge, no such determination, opinion or advisory letter has been revoked and revocation has not been threatened, and no such Parent Employee Plan has been amended or operated since the date of its most recent determination letter or application therefor in any respect, and no act or omission has occurred, that would reasonably be expected to adversely affect its qualification or materially increase its cost. There has been no termination, partial termination or discontinuance of contributions to any Qualified Plan that will result in material liability to Parent. Each Parent Employee Plan which is required to satisfy Section 401(k)(3) or Section 401(m)(2) of the Code has been tested for compliance with, and satisfies in all material respects the requirements of Section 401(k)(3) and Section 401(m)(2) of the Code, as the case may be, for each plan year ending prior to the Closing Date for which testing is required to be completed.

(g) Neither Parent, any of its Subsidiaries nor any of their respective ERISA Affiliates has (i) ever maintained a Parent Employee Plan which was ever subject to Section 412 of the Code or Title IV of ERISA or (ii) ever been obligated to contribute to a multiemployer plan (as defined in Section 4001(a)(3) of ERISA) that is subject to ERISA. (i) Other than as required under Section 601 et seq. of ERISA, none of the Parent Employee Plans promises or provides health or other welfare benefits (excluding normal claims for benefits under the Parent's group life insurance, accidental death and dismemberment insurance and disability plans and policies) or coverage to any person following retirement or other termination of employment. Section 5.13(i) of the Parent Disclosure Schedule lists each Parent Employee Plan which provides benefits after termination of employment (other than medical benefits required to be continued under Section 4980B of the Code and part 6 of Subtitle B of Title I of ERISA) and normal claims for benefits under the Parent's group life insurance, accidental death and dismemberment insurance and disability plans and policies) and the present value of benefits accrued under each such Parent Employee Plan are fully funded, fully covered by insurance or reflected on the Parent Balance Sheet in accordance with GAAP.

Section 5.13(l) of the Parent Disclosure Schedule lists each country in which Parent or any of its Subsidiaries or affiliates has operations and the number of employees in each such country.

(m) Section 5.13(m) of the Parent Disclosure Schedule sets forth a true, complete and correct list of: (i) all employment agreements with employees of Parent or any of its Subsidiaries (other than at-will offer letters that are consistent with Parent's general form and do not provide for severance payments or benefits, notice periods for termination or change of control benefits); (ii) all employees or former employees of Parent who have executed a non competition agreement with Parent; (iii) all severance agreements, programs and policies of Parent or any of its Subsidiaries with or relating to its employees, excluding programs and policies required to be maintained by Law; and (iv) all plans, programs, agreements and other arrangements of Parent or any of its Subsidiaries pursuant to which payments (or acceleration of benefits or vesting of options or lapse of repurchase rights) may be required upon, or may become payable directly or indirectly as a result of or in connection with, the negotiation or consummation of the transactions contemplated by, or the execution of, this Agreement. True, complete and correct copies of each of the foregoing agreements to which any employee of Parent is a party have been made available to Company.

(n) All contributions required to be made with respect to any Parent Employee Plan on or prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time have been or will be timely made or are reflected on the Parent Balance Sheet. There are no pending, threatened or reasonably anticipated claims by or on behalf of any Plan, by any employee or beneficiary covered under any such Parent Employee Plan, or otherwise involving any such Plan (other than routine claims for benefits).

(o) The negotiation or consummation of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement will not, either alone or in combination with another event, (i) entitle any current or former employee or officer of Parent or any of its Subsidiaries to severance pay, or any other payment from Parent or any of its Subsidiaries or (ii) accelerate the time of payment or vesting, cause a lapse of repurchase rights or increase the amount of compensation due any such employee or officer. There is no Parent Employee Plan or other contract, agreement, plan or arrangement that, individually or collectively, could give rise to the payment of any amount that would not be deductible pursuant to Sections 280G (determined without regard to Section 280G(b)(4) of the Code) as a result of the Mergers or 162(m) of the Code.

Each of the Company and Parent may, as each deems advisable and necessary, reasonably designate any competitively sensitive material provided to the other under this Section 7.6 as outside counsel only and, in such event, such material and the information contained therein shall be given only to the outside legal counsel of the recipient and shall not be disclosed by such counsel to non-legal directors, officers, employees or other advisors or representatives of the recipient unless express permission is obtained in advance from the source of the materials or its legal counsel.

(c) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary set forth in this Section 7.6 or elsewhere in this Agreement, neither Parent nor any of its affiliates shall be required to (i) sell or dispose of or hold separately (through a trust or otherwise) any assets or businesses or interests in any assets or businesses of Parent, the Company or their respective affiliates or make any other change in any portion of the businesses of the Company or Parent or incur any other limitation on the conduct of the businesses of the Company or Parent to obtain such clearances, consents, authorizations, orders, approvals and exemptions or agree to do, or submit to orders providing for, any of the foregoing, in each case whether before or after the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, or (ii) if any governmental body that has the authority to enforce any Antitrust Law seeks, or authorizes its staff to seek, a preliminary injunction or restraining order to enjoin consummation of the Acquisition Merger, take or agree to take any action which Parent reasonably believes would be prohibited or restricted under such preliminary injunction or restraining order.

(d) In case at any time after the Acquisition Merger Effective Time any further action is necessary to carry out the purposes of this Agreement or to vest the Surviving Corporation with full title to all properties, assets, rights, approvals, immunities and franchises of any of the parties to the Acquisition Merger, the proper officers and directors of each party hereto shall take all such necessary action as may be reasonably requested by Nanometrics Delaware to achieve such intent.

Section 7.7 Public Announcements. Parent and the Company shall consult with each other before issuing any press release or making any public statement with respect to this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby and shall not issue any such press release or make any such public statement without the prior written consent of the other party, which shall not be unreasonably withheld, delayed or conditioned; provided, however, that a party may, without the prior consent of the other party, issue such press release or make such public statement as may upon consultation with outside counsel be required by applicable Law or the rules and regulations of the NASDAQ if it has used all reasonable best efforts to consult with the other party prior thereto regarding the timing, scope and content of any such press release or public statement, and provided, further, no such consultation shall be required to make any disclosure or otherwise take any action expressly permitted by Section 7.3.

Section 7.8 Company Employee Benefits; Company 401(k) Plan.

(a) From and after the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, Parent will, or will cause the Surviving Corporation to, recognize the prior service with the Company or its Subsidiaries of each employee of the Company or its Subsidiaries as of the Acquisition Merger Effective Time (the Company Employees) in connection with all employee benefit plans, programs or policies (including vacation) of Parent or its affiliates in which Company Employees are eligible to participate following the Acquisition Merger

Effective Time, for purposes of eligibility, vesting and levels of vacation and severance benefits (but not for purposes of benefit accruals or benefit amounts under any defined benefit pension plan or to the extent that such recognition would result in duplication of benefits).

(b) Prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, the Company shall take such actions as Parent may reasonably request so as to enable the Surviving Corporation to effect such actions relating to the Company 401(k) Plan (the 401(k) Plan) as Parent may deem necessary or appropriate (after reasonable consultation with the Company), including terminating the 401(k) Plan prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time.

Section 7.9 Company Stock Plans.

(a) At the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, Nanometrics Delaware shall assume the rights and obligations of the Company with respect to the Company Stock Plans as well as the duties of the Company with respect to the administration of such plans such that Nanometrics Delaware may operate the Company Stock Plans.

(b) At the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, each Company Stock Option that is outstanding immediately prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, whether or not then vested or exercisable (each, an Assumed Option), shall be assumed by Nanometrics Delaware. Each such Assumed Option shall continue to have, and be subject to, the same terms and conditions as are in effect immediately prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, except that (i) such Assumed Option shall be exercisable for that number of whole shares of Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock equal to the product (rounded down to the next whole number of shares of Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock) of the number of shares of Company Common Stock that were issuable upon exercise of such Assumed Option immediately prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time and the Exchange Ratio, and (ii) the per share exercise price for the shares of Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock issuable upon exercise of such Assumed Option shall be equal to the quotient (rounded up to the next whole cent) obtained by dividing the exercise price per share of Company Common Stock at which such Assumed Option was exercisable immediately prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time by the Exchange Ratio. It is the intention of the parties that each Assumed Option that qualified as an incentive stock option (as defined in Section 422 of the Code) shall continue to so qualify, to the maximum extent permissible, following the Acquisition Merger Effective Time.

(c) If and to the extent necessary or required by the terms of any of the Company Stock Plans or any Company Stock Option, the Company shall, prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, (i) obtain any consents from holders of Company Stock Options and (ii) amend the terms of its equity incentive plans or arrangements, to give effect to the provisions of Section 7.9(b). The Company shall take no action, other than those actions contemplated by this Agreement, that will cause or result in the accelerated vesting of the Assumed Options.

(d) Except as otherwise requested by Parent subject to the last sentence of this Section (d), prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, the Company shall take all necessary and appropriate actions requested by Parent so that all outstanding purchase rights under the Company ESPP shall automatically be exercised, in accordance with the terms of the Company ESPP, prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, and the shares of Company Common Stock purchased under those exercised rights shall at the Acquisition Merger Effective Time be cancelled and converted into the right to receive shares of Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock pursuant to Section 2.6(a) of this Agreement. Except as otherwise requested by Parent subject to the last sentence of this Section (d), prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, the Company shall take all necessary and appropriate actions so that the Company ESPP shall terminate immediately prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, and no further purchase rights shall be granted under the Company ESPP. Prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, the Company shall take all necessary and appropriate actions requested by Parent so that all outstanding purchase rights under the Company ESPP and the Company ESPP itself shall be treated in the manner requested by Parent as long as such actions may be taken pursuant to the Company ESPP.

(e) As soon as practicable following the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, but in any event within fifteen (15) business days thereafter (to the extent Parent or Nanometrics Delaware, as appropriate, have received the most recent copies of the relevant Company Stock Plans), Nanometrics Delaware shall prepare and file with the SEC a registration statement on Form S-8 covering the shares of Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock issuable pursuant to the outstanding Assumed Options, Nanometrics Delaware shall cause the same to become effective, and Parent shall take such further actions as may be reasonably necessary to cover under such registration statement shares of Parent Common Stock held by those persons eligible immediately prior to the Closing Date pursuant to the 1995 Director Plan.

Section 7.10 Indemnification and Insurance.

(a) For six (6) years after the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, Nanometrics Delaware shall, and shall cause the Surviving Corporation and its Subsidiaries to, honor and fulfill in all respects the obligations of the Company and its Subsidiaries under any and all indemnification agreements in effect immediately prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time between the Company or any of its Subsidiaries and any of its current or former directors and officers and any person who becomes a director or officer of the Company or any of its Subsidiaries prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time (the Indemnified Parties). In addition, for a period of six (6) years following the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, Parent shall (and shall cause the Surviving Corporation and its Subsidiaries to) cause the certificate or articles of incorporation and bylaws (and other similar organizational documents) of the Surviving Corporation and its Subsidiaries to contain provisions with respect to indemnification and exculpation that are at least as favorable as the indemnification and exculpation provisions contained in the certificate or articles of incorporation and bylaws (or other similar organizational documents) of the Company and its Subsidiaries immediately prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, and during such six-year period, such provisions shall not be amended, repealed or otherwise modified in any respect, except as required by Law.

(b) For a period of six (6) years after the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, Nanometrics Delaware and the Surviving Corporation shall cause to be maintained in effect the existing policy of the Company's directors and officers and fiduciary liability insurance (the D&O Policy) covering claims arising from facts or events that occurred at or prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time (including for acts or omissions occurring in connection with this Agreement and the consummation of the transactions contemplated hereby, to the extent that such acts or omissions are covered by the D&O Policy) and covering each Indemnified Party who is covered as of the Acquisition Merger Effective Time by the D&O Policy on terms with respect to coverage and amounts that are no less favorable than those terms in effect on the date hereof; provided, however, that in no event shall Nanometrics Delaware or the Surviving Corporation be required to expend in any one year an amount in excess of 200% of the current annual premium paid by the Company (which annual premium is set forth on Schedule 6.11(b) of the Company Disclosure Schedule) for such insurance (such 200% amount, the Maximum Annual Premium); and provided, further, that if the annual premiums of such insurance coverage exceed such amount, Nanometrics Delaware and the Surviving Corporation shall be obligated to obtain a policy with the greatest coverage available for a cost not exceeding the Maximum Annual Premium. Notwithstanding anything in this Section 7.10 to the contrary, Parent may fulfill its (and Surviving Corporation's) obligations under this Section 7.10(b) by purchasing a D&O Policy or a tail policy under the Company's existing D&O Policy, in either case which (i) has an effective term of six (6) years from the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, (ii) covers only those persons who are currently covered by the Company's directors and officers insurance policy in effect as of the date hereof and only for actions and omissions occurring on or prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, (iii) contains terms with respect to coverage and amounts that are no less favorable than those terms in the Company's D&O Policy on the date hereof.

(c) The obligations under this Section 7.10 shall not be terminated, amended or otherwise modified in such a manner as to adversely affect any Indemnified Party (or any other person who is a beneficiary under the D&O Policy or the tail policy referred to in paragraph (b) above (and their heirs and representatives)) without the prior written consent of such affected Indemnified Party or other person who is a beneficiary under the D&O Policy or the tail policy referred to in paragraph (b) above (and their heirs and representatives). Each of the Indemnified Parties or other persons who are beneficiaries under the D&O Policy or the tail policy referred to in paragraph (b) above (and their heirs and representatives) are intended to be third party beneficiaries of this Section 7.10, with full rights of enforcement as if a party thereto. The rights of the Indemnified Parties (and other persons who are beneficiaries under the D&O Policy or the tail policy referred to in paragraph (b) above (and their heirs and representatives)) under this Section 7.10 shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other rights that such persons may have under the certificate or articles of incorporation, bylaws or other equivalent organizational documents, any and all indemnification agreements of or entered into by the Company or any of its Subsidiaries, or applicable Law (whether at Law or in equity).

(d) In the event that Nanometrics Delaware, Surviving Corporation or any of their Subsidiaries (or any of their respective successors or assigns) shall consolidate or merge with any other person and shall not be the continuing or surviving corporation or entity in such consolidation or merger, or transfers at least 50% of its properties and assets to any other person, then in each case proper provision shall be made so that the continuing or surviving corporation or entity (or its successors or assigns, if applicable), or transferee of such assets, as the case may be, shall assume the obligations set forth in this Section 7.10.

(e) Prior to or concurrently with the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, Nanometrics Delaware shall cause to be in effect at the Acquisition Merger Effective Time a policy of directors and officers liability insurance covering claims arising from facts or events that occur after the Acquisition Merger Effective Time for not less than $15 million in coverage.

Section 7.11 Company Affiliates. Section 7.11 of the Company Schedule contains a complete and accurate list of those persons who may be deemed to be, in the Company's reasonable judgment, affiliates of the Company within the meaning of Rule 145 promulgated under the Securities Act (each, a Company Affiliate and collectively, the Company Affiliates). The Company shall provide Parent with such information and documents as Parent reasonably requests for purposes of reviewing and evaluating the foregoing schedule of Company Affiliates. Parent will be entitled to place appropriate legends on the certificates evidencing any Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock to be issued to a Company Affiliate pursuant to the terms of this Agreement, and to issue appropriate stop transfer instructions to the transfer agent for the Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock.

Section 7.12 Tax Matters. None of Nanometrics Delaware, Parent, Merger Sub 1 or the Company shall, nor shall they permit any of their respective Subsidiaries to, take any action prior to or following the Closing that would reasonably be expected to cause either of the Mergers to fail to qualify as reorganizations within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Code. Officers of each of Parent (or Nanometrics Delaware, as applicable), Merger Sub 1 and the Company shall execute and deliver to WSGR, counsel to Parent, and to Fredrikson & Byron, P.A., counsel to the Company, certificates containing appropriate representations of Parent (or Nanometrics Delaware, as applicable), Merger Sub 1 and the Company at such time or times as may be reasonably requested by such Law firms, including the effective date of the Registration and the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, in connection with their respective deliveries of opinions with respect to the Tax treatment of the Acquisition Merger.

Section 7.13 Takeover Statutes. Notwithstanding any other provision in this Agreement, in no event shall the approval of the Acquisition Merger and this Agreement by the Company Board under Section 302A.673 of the MBCA be withdrawn, revoked or modified by the Company Board. If any Takeover Statute is or may become applicable to the Acquisition Merger or any of the other transactions contemplated by this Agreement, the Company and the Company Board, or Parent and the Parent Board, as applicable, shall promptly grant such approvals and take such Lawful actions as are necessary so that such transactions may be consummated as promptly as practicable on the terms contemplated by this Agreement or the Acquisition Merger, as the case may be, and otherwise take such Lawful actions to eliminate or minimize the effects of such statute, and any regulations promulgated thereunder, on such transactions.

Section 7.14 Section 16 Matters. Prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, each of the Company and Parent shall take all such steps as may be required (to the extent permitted under applicable Law) to cause any dispositions of Company Common Stock or acquisitions of Parent Common Stock (including, in each case, derivative securities) resulting from the transactions contemplated hereby by each individual who is subject to the reporting requirements of Section 16(a) of the Exchange Act with respect to the Company to be exempt under Rule 16b-3 promulgated under the Exchange Act.

Section 7.15 Directorships. Effective as of the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, the Board of Directors of Nanometrics Delaware shall be expanded to seven (7) members, consisting of three individuals that prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time served as directors of the Company (each, a Company Director); three individuals that prior to the Migratory Merger Effective Time served as directors of Parent (each, a Parent Director); and one individual acceptable to both Parent and the Company (the Independent Director). The organizational documents of Nanometrics Delaware shall provide for three classes of directors and staggered election of directors consistent with the following. Classes I and II shall each consist of one Company Director and one Parent Director. Class III shall consist of one Company Director, one Parent Director and the Independent Director. Class I directors shall serve for an initial term of one year and shall thereafter be elected to three year terms. Each of the representations and warranties of the Company contained in this Agreement shall be true and correct (without giving effect to any qualification as to materiality or Company Material Adverse Effect contained in any specific representation or warranty), as of the date of this Agreement and as of the Closing Date, except (i) for changes contemplated or permitted by this Agreement, (ii) that the accuracy of representations and warranties that by their terms speak as of another date will be determined as of such date and (iii) where any failures of any such representations and warranties to be true and correct would not reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Company Material Adverse Effect; and Parent shall have received a certificate of the Company signed on behalf of the Company by the chief executive officer and chief financial officer of the Company to such effect.

(b) Agreements and Covenants. The Company shall have performed or complied in all material respects with all agreements and covenants required by this Agreement to be performed or complied with by it at or prior to the Closing Date; and Parent shall have received a certificate of the Company signed on behalf of the Company by the chief executive officer and the chief financial officer of the Company to such effect.

(a) Representations and Warranties. Each of the representations and warranties of Parent contained in this Agreement shall be true and correct (without giving effect to any qualification as to materiality or Parent Material Adverse Effect contained in any specific representation or warranty), as of the date of this Agreement and as of the Closing Date, except (i) for changes contemplated or permitted by this Agreement, including the Migratory Merger, (ii) that the accuracy of representations and warranties that by their terms speak as of another date will be determined as of such date and (iii) where any failures of any such representations and warranties to be true and correct would not reasonably be expected to have, individually or in the aggregate, a Parent Material Adverse Effect; and the Company shall have received a certificate of Parent signed on behalf of Parent by the chief executive officer and chief financial officer of Parent to such effect.

(b) Agreements and Covenants. ARTICLE IX

TERMINATION

Section 9.1 Termination. This Agreement may be terminated at any time prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time, notwithstanding approval thereof by the shareholders of the Company and/or Parent:

(a) by mutual written consent duly authorized by the Company Board and the Parent Board (or the Board of Directors of Nanometrics Delaware as the case may be);

(b) by either Parent or the Company, if the Acquisition Merger shall not have been consummated by September 30, 2005 (the Outside Date); provided, however, that the right to terminate this Agreement under this Section 9.1(b) shall not be available to any party that has breached its obligations under this Agreement, provided, further, that no termination by a party pursuant this Section 9.1(b) shall be effective unless concurrently therewith such party fulfills its obligation under Section 9.3.

(c) by either Parent or the Company, if a court of competent jurisdiction or governmental, regulatory or administrative agency or commission shall have issued a nonappealable final order, decree or ruling or taken any other action having the effect of permanently restraining, enjoining or otherwise prohibiting the Acquisition Merger (provided that the party seeking to terminate this Agreement pursuant to this Section 9.1(c) shall have complied with its obligations under Section 7.6 by using its reasonable best efforts to have any such order, decree, ruling or other action vacated or lifted);

(d) by either Parent or the Company, if the Requisite Company Shareholder Approval shall not have been obtained at the Company Shareholder Meeting; provided, however, that the right to terminate this Agreement under this Section 9.1(d) shall not be available to the Company if the Company shall have breached the provisions of Section 7.2, Section 7.3 or Section 7.4; provided, further, that no termination by a party pursuant this Section 9.1(d) shall be effective unless concurrently therewith such party fulfills its obligation under Section 9.3.

(f) by Parent, if the Company shall have breached or failed to perform any of its representations, warranties, or other covenants or agreements contained in this Agreement (other than the covenants set forth in Section 7.2 or Section 7.3, the breach of which shall constitute a Triggering Event pursuant to Section 9.1(h)), which breach or failure to perform would reasonably be expected to cause the conditions set forth in Section 8.2 to not be satisfied at the Closing and which breach or failure, if capable of being cured, shall not have been cured within 20 days following receipt by the Company of written notice of such breach or failure from Parent (it being understood and hereby agreed that Parent may not terminate this Agreement pursuant to this Section 9.1(f) if such breach or failure is cured within such 20 day period);

(h) by Parent or the Company if a Triggering Event shall have occurred with respect to the other party. For purposes of this Agreement, a Triggering Event shall be deemed to have occurred with respect a party if, prior to the Acquisition Merger Effective Time: (A) such party has breached any of the provisions of Section 7.2 or Section 7.3; (B) the Board of Directors (or any committee thereof) of such party shall for any reason have effected a Change of Recommendation; (C) such party shall have entered into any letter of intent or similar document accepting an Acquisition Proposal; or (D) a tender or exchange offer shall have been commenced by any person for such party's shares, and such party shall not have sent to its stockholders pursuant to Rule 14e-2 promulgated under the Securities Act, within ten (10) business days after such tender or exchange offer is first published, sent or given to such stockholders, a statement reaffirming the Parent Voting Proposal or the Company Voting Proposal (as appropriate), and recommending that their stockholders reject such tender or exchange offer.

Section 9.2 Effect of Termination. In the event of the termination of this Agreement pursuant to Section 9.1, this Agreement shall forthwith become void and there shall be no liability on the part of any party hereto or any of its affiliates, directors, officers or shareholders except (i) that the provisions of this Section 9.2, Section 9.3 and ARTICLE X hereof shall survive termination and (ii) nothing herein shall relieve any party from liability for any willful or intentional breach of this Agreement. The Confidentiality Agreement shall survive the termination of this Agreement as provided therein.

Section 9.3 Fees and Expenses.

(a) Except as set forth in this Section 9.3, all Expenses (as defined below) incurred in connection with this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby shall be paid by the party incurring such Expenses, whether or not the Acquisition Merger is consummated; provided, however, that Parent and the Company shall share equally all Expenses (but not including attorneys' fees and expenses) incurred in connection with the printing and filing of the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus (including any preliminary materials related thereto), the Registration Statement (including financial statements and exhibits) and any amendments or supplements thereto and filings by Parent and the Company under the HSR Act or any similar filing requirement of any Governmental Entity applicable to the Acquisition Merger or this Agreement. For purposes of this Agreement, Expenses includes all reasonable out-of-pocket expenses (including all reasonable fees and expenses of counsel, accountants, investment bankers, experts and consultants to a party hereto and its Affiliates) incurred by a party or on its behalf in connection with or related to the authorization, preparation, negotiation, execution and performance of this Agreement and the transactions contemplated hereby, including the preparation, printing, filing and mailing of the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus and Registration Statement and the solicitation of shareholder approvals and all other matters related to the transactions contemplated hereby.

(b) The Company shall pay to Parent (or Nanometrics Delaware as the case may be) a termination fee equal to $8,300,000 (the Company Termination Fee), and all Expenses of Parent of within one (1) business day after demand by Parent and by wire transfer of immediately available funds to an account designated in writing by Parent, in the event that: (i) this Agreement is terminated by Parent pursuant to Section 9.1(h); or (ii) this Agreement is terminated pursuant to Section 9.1(b), Section 9.1(d) or Section 9.1(f), provided that following the execution and deliver of this Agreement and prior to such termination pursuant to Section 9.1(b), Section 9.1(d), or Section 9.1(f), an Acquisition Proposal or Acquisition Transaction with respect to the Company shall have been publicly announced or otherwise become publicly known and not withdrawn prior to the Company Shareholders Meeting or such termination, or any person shall have publicly announced an intention (whether or not conditional) to make an Acquisition Proposal or

(c) Parent shall pay to the Company a termination fee equal to $8,300,000 (the Parent Termination Fee), and all Expenses of the Company within one (1) business day after demand by the Company and by wire transfer of immediately available funds to an account designated in writing by the Company, in the event that: (i) this Agreement is terminated by the Company pursuant to Section 9.1(h); or (ii) this Agreement is terminated pursuant to Section 9.1(b), Section 9.1(e) or Section 9.1(g), provided that following the execution and deliver of this Agreement and prior to such termination pursuant to any of Section 9.1(b), 9.1(e) or Section 9.1(g), an Acquisition Proposal or Acquisition Transaction with respect to Parent shall have been publicly announced or otherwise become publicly known and not withdrawn prior to the Parent Shareholders Meeting or such termination, or any person shall have publicly announced an intention (whether or not conditional) to make an Acquisition Proposal or complete an Acquisition Transaction with respect to Parent and not retracted such intention prior to the Parent Shareholders Meeting or such termination.

(d) All payments to be made pursuant to this Section 9.3 shall be made by wire transfer of immediately available funds. If either party fails to timely pay the Expenses of the other party or the Parent Termination Fee or Company Termination Fee, as applicable, pursuant to this Section 9.3, then such party shall pay all costs and expenses (including legal fees and expenses) incurred by the other party in connection with any action or proceeding (including the filing of any Lawsuit) taken by it to collect such unpaid amounts, together with interest on such unpaid amounts at the prime lending rate prevailing at such time, as published in the Wall Street Journal, from the date such amounts were required to be paid until the date actually received by the such other party.

(e) The parties acknowledge that the agreements contained in this Section 9.3 are an integral part of the transactions contemplated by this Agreement and constitute liquidated damages and not a penalty, and that, without these agreements, the parties would not have entered into this Agreement.

3,000,000 shares of Preferred Stock, par value $0.001 per share, which may be issued from time to time in one or more series pursuant to a resolution or resolutions providing for such issue duly adopted by the Board of Directors of the corporation (authority to do so being hereby expressly vested in the Board of Directors of the corporation). The Board of Directors of the corporation is further authorized, subject to limitations prescribed by law, to fix by resolution or resolutions the designations, powers, preferences and rights, and the qualifications, limitations or restrictions thereof, of any wholly unissued series of Preferred Stock, including without limitation authority to fix by resolution or resolutions the dividend rights, dividend rate, conversion rights, voting rights, rights and terms of redemption (including sinking fund provisions), redemption price or prices, and liquidation preferences of any such series, and the number of shares constituting any such series and the designation thereof, or any of the foregoing.

The Board of Directors of the corporation is further authorized to increase (but not above the total number of authorized shares of the class) or decrease (but not below the number of shares of any such series then outstanding) the number of shares of any series, the number of which was fixed by it, subsequent to the issuance of shares of such series then outstanding, subject to the powers, preferences and rights, and the qualifications, limitations and restrictions thereof stated in this Certificate of Incorporation or the resolution of the Board of Directors of the corporation originally fixing the number of shares of such series. If the number of shares of any series is so decreased, then the shares constituting such decrease shall resume the status which they had prior to the adoption of the resolution originally fixing the number of shares of such series.

At each annual meeting of stockholders, each director of the corporation shall be elected to hold office, and shall serve, until the expiration of the term for which he or she is elected and until his or her successor is duly elected and qualified or until his or her death, resignation, or removal; except that if any such election shall not be so held, such election shall take place at a stockholders meeting called and held in accordance with the DGCL.

Any director may be removed from office by the stockholders of the corporation only for cause. A person so elected by the Board of Directors of the corporation to fill a vacancy or newly created directorship shall hold office until the next election of the class for which such director shall have been chosen and until his or her successor shall have been duly elected and qualified.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, the holders of at least 66.67% of the shares of capital stock of the corporation issued and outstanding and entitled to vote may by affirmative vote adopt, amend, alter or repeal the Bylaws of the corporation.

ARTICLE IX

The corporation shall indemnify and hold harmless, to the fullest extent permitted by the DGCL as it presently exists or may hereafter be amended, any director or officer of the corporation who was or is made or is threatened to be made a party or is otherwise involved in any action, suit or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative (a Proceeding) by reason of the fact that he or she, or a person for whom he or she is the legal representative, is or was a director, officer, employee or agent of the corporation or is or was serving at the request of the corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust, enterprise or non-profit entity, including service with respect to employee benefit plans, against all liability and loss suffered and expenses reasonably incurred by such person in connection with any such Proceeding. The corporation shall be required to indemnify a person in connection with a Proceeding initiated by such person only if the Proceeding was authorized by the Board of Directors of the corporation.

The corporation shall have the power to indemnify and hold harmless, to the extent permitted by applicable law as it presently exists or may hereafter be amended, any employee or agent of the corporation who was or is made or is threatened to be made a party or is otherwise involved in any Proceeding by reason of the fact that he or she, or a person for whom he or she is the legal representative, is or was an employee or agent of the corporation or is or was serving at the request of the corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust, enterprise or non-profit entity, including service with respect to employee benefit plans, against all liability and loss suffered and expenses reasonably incurred by such person in connection with any such Proceeding.

AMENDED AND RESTATED BYLAWS

AUGUST NANOMETRICS INC.

ARTICLE I - CORPORATE OFFICES

1.1 REGISTERED OFFICE.

The registered office of August Nanometrics Inc. shall be fixed in the corporation's certificate of incorporation, as the same may be amended from time to time.

1.2 OTHER OFFICES.

The corporation's board of directors (the Board) may at any time establish other offices at any place or places where the corporation is qualified to do business.

ARTICLE II - MEETINGS OF STOCKHOLDERS

2.1 PLACE OF MEETINGS.

Meetings of stockholders shall be held at any place, within or outside the State of Delaware, designated by the Board. In the absence of any such designation or determination, stockholders' meetings shall be held at the corporation's principal executive office.

2.2 ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of stockholders shall be held each year. The Board shall designate the date and time of the annual meeting. In the absence of such designation the annual meeting of stockholders shall be held on the second Tuesday of May of each year at 10:00 a.m. However, if such day falls on a legal holiday, then the meeting shall be held at the same time and place on the next succeeding business day. At the annual meeting, directors shall be elected and any other proper business may be transacted.

2.3 SPECIAL MEETING.

A special meeting of the stockholders may be called as provided in the certificate of incorporation.

No business may be transacted at such special meeting other than the business specified in such notice to stockholders. Nothing contained in this paragraph of this Section 2.3 shall be construed as limiting, fixing, or affecting the time when a meeting of stockholders called by action of the Board may be held.

2.4 ADVANCE NOTICE PROCEDURES; NOTICE OF STOCKHOLDERS MEETINGS.

(i) At an annual meeting of the stockholders, only such business shall be conducted as shall have been properly brought before the meeting. To be properly brought before an annual meeting, business must be: (A) specified in the notice of meeting (or any supplement thereto) given by or at the direction of the Board, (B) otherwise properly brought before the meeting by or at the direction of the Board, or (C) otherwise properly brought before the meeting by a stockholder. For business to be properly brought before an annual meeting by a stockholder, the stockholder must have given timely notice thereof in writing to the secretary of the corporation. To be timely, a stockholder's notice must be delivered to or mailed and received at the principal executive offices of the corporation not less than one hundred twenty (120) calendar days before the one year anniversary of the date on which the corporation first mailed its proxy statement to stockholders in connection with the previous year's annual meeting of stockholders; provided, however, that in the event that no annual meeting was held in the previous year or the date of the annual meeting has been changed by more than thirty (30) days from the date of the prior year's meeting, notice by the stockholder to be timely must be so received not later than the close of business on the later of one hundred twenty (120) calendar days in advance of such annual meeting and ten (10) calendar days following the date on which public announcement of the date of the meeting is first made. A stockholder's notice to the secretary shall set forth as to each matter the stockholder proposes to bring before the annual meeting: (a) a brief description of the business desired to be brought before the annual meeting and the reasons for conducting such business at the annual meeting, (b) the name and address, as they appear on the corporation's books, of the stockholder proposing such business, (c) the class and number of shares of the corporation that are beneficially owned by the stockholder, (d) any material interest of the stockholder in such business, and (e) any other information that is required to be provided by the stockholder pursuant to Regulation 14A under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "1934 Act"), in his capacity as a proponent to a stockholder proposal. Notwithstanding the foregoing, in order to include information with respect to a stockholder proposal in the proxy statement and form of proxy for a stockholder's meeting, stockholders must provide notice as required by the regulations promulgated under the 1934 Act. Notwithstanding anything in these bylaws to the contrary, no business shall be conducted at any annual meeting except in accordance with the procedures set forth in this paragraph (i). The chairman of the annual meeting shall, if the facts warrant, determine and declare at the meeting that business was not properly brought before the meeting and in accordance with the provisions of this paragraph (i), and, if he should so determine, he shall so declare at the meeting that any such business not properly brought before the meeting shall not be transacted.

(ii) Only persons who are nominated in accordance with the procedures set forth in this paragraph (ii) shall be eligible for election as directors. Nominations of persons for election to the Board may be made at a meeting of stockholders by or at the direction of the Board or by any stockholder of the corporation entitled to vote in the election of directors at the meeting who complies with the notice procedures set forth in this paragraph (ii). Such nominations, other than those made by or at the direction of the Board, shall be made pursuant to timely notice in writing to the secretary of the corporation in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (i) of this Section 2.4. Such stockholder's notice shall set forth (a) as to each person, if any, whom the stockholder proposes to nominate for election or re-election as a director: (A) the name, age, business address and residence address of such person, (B) the principal occupation or employment of such person, (C) the class and number of shares of the corporation that are beneficially owned by such person, (D) a description of all arrangements or understandings between the stockholder and each nominee and any other person or persons (naming such person or persons) pursuant to which the nominations are to be made by the stockholder, and (E) any other information relating to such person that is required to be disclosed in solicitations of proxies for elections of directors, or is otherwise required, in each case pursuant to Regulation 14A under the 1934 Act (including without limitation such person's written consent to being named in the proxy statement, if any, as a nominee and to serving as a director if elected); and (b) as to such stockholder giving notice, the information required to be provided pursuant to paragraph (i) of this Section 2.4. At the request of the Board, any person nominated by a stockholder for election as a director shall furnish to the secretary of the corporation that information required to be set forth in the stockholder's notice of nomination which pertains to the nominee. No person shall be eligible for election as a director of the corporation unless nominated in accordance with the procedures set forth in this paragraph (ii). The chairman of the meeting shall, if the facts warrant, determine and declare at the meeting that a nomination was not made in accordance with the procedures prescribed by these bylaws, and if he should so determine, he shall so declare at the meeting, and the defective nomination shall be disregarded.

These provisions shall not prevent the consideration and approval or disapproval at an annual meeting of reports of officers, directors and committees of the Board, but in connection therewith no new business shall be acted upon at any such meeting unless stated, filed and received as herein provided. Notwithstanding anything in these bylaws to the contrary, no business brought before a meeting by a stockholder shall be conducted at an annual meeting except in accordance with procedures set forth in this Section 2.4.

All notices of meetings of stockholders shall be sent or otherwise given in accordance with either Section 2.5 or Section 8.1 of these bylaws not less than 10 nor more than 60 days before the date of the meeting to each stockholder entitled to vote at such meeting. The notice shall specify the place, if any, date and hour of the meeting, the means of remote communication, if any, by which stockholders and proxy holders may be deemed to be present in person and vote at such meeting, and, in the case of a special meeting, the purpose or purposes for which the meeting is called.

2.5 MANNER OF GIVING NOTICE; AFFIDAVIT OF NOTICE.

Notice of any meeting of stockholders shall be given:

(i) if mailed, when deposited in the United States mail, postage prepaid, directed to the stockholder at his or her address as it appears on the corporation's records; or

(ii) if electronically transmitted as provided in Section 8.1 of these bylaws.

An affidavit of the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation or of the transfer agent or any other agent of the corporation that the notice has been given by mail or by a form of electronic transmission, as applicable, shall, in the absence of fraud, be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

2.6 QUORUM.

The holders of a majority of the stock issued and outstanding and entitled to vote, present in person or represented by proxy, shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business at all meetings of the stockholders. If, however, such quorum is not present or represented at any meeting of the stockholders, then either (i) the chairperson of the meeting, or (ii) the stockholders entitled to vote at the meeting, present in person or represented by proxy, shall have power to adjourn the meeting from time to time, without notice other than announcement at the meeting, until a quorum is present or represented. At such adjourned meeting at which a quorum is present or represented, any business may be transacted that might have been transacted at the meeting as originally noticed.

2.7 ADJOURNED MEETING; NOTICE.

When a meeting is adjourned to another time or place, unless these bylaws otherwise require, notice need not be given of the adjourned meeting if the time, place if any thereof, and the means of remote communications if any by which stockholders and proxy holders may be deemed to be present in person and vote at such adjourned meeting are announced at the meeting at which the adjournment is taken. At the adjourned meeting, the corporation may transact any business which might have been transacted at the original meeting. If the adjournment is for more than 30 days, or if after the adjournment a new record date is fixed for the adjourned meeting, a notice of the adjourned meeting shall be given to each stockholder of record entitled to vote at the meeting.

2.8 CONDUCT OF BUSINESS.

The chairperson of any meeting of stockholders shall determine the order of business and the procedure at the meeting, including such regulation of the manner of voting and the conduct of business.

2.9 VOTING.

The stockholders entitled to vote at any meeting of stockholders shall be determined in accordance with the provisions of Section 2.12 of these bylaws, subject to Section 217 (relating to voting rights of fiduciaries, pledgors and joint owners of stock) and Section 218 (relating to voting trusts and other voting agreements) of the Delaware General Corporation Law (the DGCL).

Except as may be otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws, each stockholder shall be entitled to one vote for each share of capital stock held by such stockholder.

2.10 RECORD DATE FOR STOCKHOLDER NOTICE; VOTING; GIVING CONSENTS.

In order that the corporation may determine the stockholders entitled to notice of or to vote at any meeting of stockholders or any adjournment thereof, or entitled to receive payment of any dividend or other distribution or allotment of any rights, or entitled to exercise any rights in respect of any change, conversion or exchange of stock or for the purpose of any other lawful action, the Board may fix, in advance, a record date, which record date shall not precede the date on which the resolution fixing the record date is adopted and which shall not be more than 60 nor less than 10 days before the date of such meeting, nor more than 60 days prior to any other such action.

If the Board does not so fix a record date:

(i) The record date for determining stockholders entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of stockholders shall be at the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which notice is given, or, if notice is waived, at the close of business on the day next preceding the day on which the meeting is held.

(ii) The record date for determining stockholders for any other purpose shall be at the close of business on the day on which the Board adopts the resolution relating thereto.

A determination of stockholders of record entitled to notice of or to vote at a meeting of stockholders shall apply to any adjournment of the meeting; provided, however, that the Board may fix a new record date for the adjourned meeting.

2.11 PROXIES.

Each stockholder entitled to vote at a meeting of stockholders may authorize another person or persons to act for such stockholder by proxy authorized by an instrument in writing or by a transmission permitted by law filed in accordance with the procedure established for the meeting, but no such proxy shall be voted or acted upon after three years from its date, unless the proxy provides for a longer period. The revocability of a proxy that states on its face that it is irrevocable shall be governed by the provisions of Section 212 of the DGCL.

2.12 LIST OF STOCKHOLDERS ENTITLED TO VOTE.

The officer who has charge of the stock ledger of the corporation shall prepare and make, at least 10 days before every meeting of stockholders, a complete list of the stockholders entitled to vote at the meeting, arranged in alphabetical order, and showing the address of each stockholder and the number of shares registered in the name of each stockholder. The corporation shall not be required to include electronic mail addresses or other electronic contact information on such list. Such list shall be open to the examination of any stockholder, for any purpose germane to the meeting for a period of at least 10 days prior to the meeting: (i) on a reasonably accessible electronic network, provided that the information required to gain access to such list is provided with the notice of the meeting, or (ii) during ordinary business hours, at the corporation's principal executive office. In the event that the corporation determines to make the list available on an electronic network, the corporation may take reasonable steps to ensure that such information is available only to stockholders of the corporation. If the meeting is to be held at a place, then the list shall be produced and kept at the time and place of the meeting during the whole time thereof, and may be inspected by any stockholder who is present. If the meeting is to be held solely by means of remote communication, then the list shall also be open to the examination of any stockholder during the whole time of the meeting on a reasonably accessible electronic network, and the information required to access such list shall be provided with the notice of the meeting. Such list shall presumptively determine the identity of the stockholders entitled to vote at the meeting and the number of shares held by each of them.

2.13 INSPECTORS OF ELECTION

A written proxy may be in the form of a telegram, cablegram, or other means of electronic transmission which sets forth or is submitted with information from which it can be determined that the telegram, cablegram, or other means of electronic transmission was authorized by the person.

B1-4

Table of Contents

Before any meeting of stockholders, the Board shall appoint an inspector or inspectors of election to act at the meeting or its adjournment. The number of inspectors shall be either one (1) or three (3). If any person appointed as inspector fails to appear or fails or refuses to act, then the chairperson of the meeting may, and upon the request of any stockholder or a stockholder's proxy shall, appoint a person to fill that vacancy.

Such inspectors shall:

(i) determine the number of shares outstanding and the voting power of each, the number of shares represented at the meeting, the existence of a quorum, and the authenticity, validity, and effect of proxies;

(ii) receive votes, ballots or consents;

(iii) hear and determine all challenges and questions in any way arising in connection with the right to vote;

(iv) count and tabulate all votes or consents;

(v) determine when the polls shall close;

(vi) determine the result; and

(vii) do any other acts that may be proper to conduct the election or vote with fairness to all stockholders.

The inspectors of election shall perform their duties impartially, in good faith, to the best of their ability and as expeditiously as is practical. If there are three (3) inspectors of election, the decision, act or certificate of a majority is effective in all respects as the decision, act or certificate of all. Any report or certificate made by the inspectors of election is prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

ARTICLE III - DIRECTORS

3.1 POWERS.

Subject to the provisions of the DGCL and any limitations in the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws relating to action required to be approved by the stockholders or by the outstanding shares, the business and affairs of the corporation shall be managed and all corporate powers shall be exercised by or under the direction of the Board.

3.2 NUMBER OF DIRECTORS.

The authorized number of directors shall be determined from time to time by resolution of the Board. No reduction of the authorized number of directors shall have the effect of removing any director before that director's term of office expires.

3.3 ELECTION, QUALIFICATION AND TERM OF OFFICE OF DIRECTORS.

Except as provided in Section 3.5 of these bylaws, each director, including a director elected to fill a vacancy, shall hold office until the expiration of the term for which elected and until such director's successor is elected and qualified or until such director's earlier death, resignation or removal. Directors need not be stockholders unless so required by the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws. The certificate of incorporation or these bylaws may prescribe other qualifications for directors.

3.4 CLASS OF DIRECTORS

The directors shall be divided into three classes as nearly equal in size as is practicable, hereby designated Class I, Class II and Class III. The term of office of the initial Class I directors shall expire at the first regularly-scheduled annual meeting of the stockholders following the effective date of these bylaws (the Effective

B1-5

Table of Contents

Date), the term of office of the initial Class II directors shall expire at the second annual meeting of the stockholders following the Effective Date and the term of office of the initial Class III directors shall expire at the third annual meeting of the stockholders following the Effective Date. At each annual meeting of stockholders, commencing with the first regularly-scheduled annual meeting of stockholders following the Effective Date, each of the successors elected to replace the directors of a Class whose term shall have expired at such annual meeting shall be elected to hold office until the third annual meeting next succeeding his or her election and until his or her respective successor shall have been duly elected and qualified.

If the number of directors is hereafter changed, any newly created directorships or decrease in directorships shall be so apportioned among the classes as to make all classes as nearly equal in number as is practicable, provided that no decrease in the number of directors constituting the Board shall shorten the term of any incumbent director.

3.5 RESIGNATION AND VACANCIES.

Any director may resign at any time upon notice given in writing or by electronic transmission to the corporation. When one or more directors so resigns and the resignation is effective at a future date, a majority of the directors then in office, including those who have so resigned, shall have power to fill such vacancy or vacancies, the vote thereon to take effect when such resignation or resignations shall become effective, and each director so chosen shall hold office as provided in this section in the filling of other vacancies.

Unless otherwise provided in the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws, vacancies and newly created directorships resulting from any increase in the authorized number of directors elected by all of the stockholders having the right to vote as a single class may be filled by a majority of the directors then in office, although less than a quorum, or by a sole remaining director. A person so elected by the directors then in office to fill a vacancy or newly created directorship shall hold office until the next election of the class for which such director shall have been chosen and until his or her successor shall have been duly elected and qualified.

If at any time, by reason of death or resignation or other cause, the corporation should have no directors in office, then any officer or any stockholder or an executor, administrator, trustee or guardian of a stockholder, or other fiduciary entrusted with like responsibility for the person or estate of a stockholder, may call a special meeting of stockholders in accordance with the provisions of the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws, or may apply to the Court of Chancery for a decree summarily ordering an election as provided in Section 211 of the DGCL.

If, at the time of filling any vacancy or any newly created directorship, the directors then in office constitute less than a majority of the whole Board (as constituted immediately prior to any such increase), then the Court of Chancery may, upon application of any stockholder or stockholders holding at least 10% of the total number of the shares at the time outstanding having the right to vote for such directors, summarily order an election to be held to fill any such vacancies or newly created directorships, or to replace the directors chosen by the directors then in office as aforesaid, which election shall be governed by the provisions of Section 211 of the DGCL as far as applicable.

3.6 PLACE OF MEETINGS; MEETINGS BY TELEPHONE.

The Board may hold meetings, both regular and special, either within or outside the State of Delaware.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

Unless otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws, members of the Board, or any committee designated by the Board, may participate in a meeting of the Board, or any committee, by means of conference telephone or other communications equipment by means of which all persons participating in the meeting can hear each other, and such participation in a meeting shall constitute presence in person at the meeting.

3.7 REGULAR MEETINGS.

Regular meetings of the Board may be held without notice at such time and at such place as shall from time to time be determined by the Board.

3.8 SPECIAL MEETINGS; NOTICE.

If the notice is (i) delivered personally by hand, by courier or by telephone, (ii) sent by facsimile or (iii) sent by electronic mail, it shall be delivered or sent at least 24 hours before the time of the holding of the meeting. If the notice is sent by United States mail, it shall be deposited in the United States mail at least four days before the time of the holding of the meeting. Any oral notice may be communicated to the director. The notice need not specify the place of the meeting (if the meeting is to be held at the corporation's principal executive office) nor the purpose of the meeting.

3.9 QUORUM.

At all meetings of the Board, a majority of the authorized number of directors shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business. The vote of a majority of the directors present at any meeting at which a quorum is present shall be the act of the Board, except as may be otherwise specifically provided by statute, the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws. If a quorum is not present at any meeting of the Board, then the directors present thereat may adjourn the meeting from time to time, without notice other than announcement at the meeting, until a quorum is present.

A meeting at which a quorum is initially present may continue to transact business notwithstanding the withdrawal of directors, if any action taken is approved by at least a majority of the required quorum for that meeting.

3.10 BOARD ACTION BY WRITTEN CONSENT WITHOUT A MEETING.

Unless otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws, any action required or permitted to be taken at any meeting of the Board, or of any committee thereof, may be taken without a meeting if all members of the Board or committee, as the case may be, consent thereto in writing or by electronic transmission and the writing or writings or electronic transmission or transmissions are filed with the minutes of proceedings of the Board or committee. Such filing shall be in paper form if the minutes are maintained in paper form and shall be in electronic form if the minutes are maintained in electronic form.

3.11 FEES AND COMPENSATION OF DIRECTORS.

Unless otherwise restricted by the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws, the Board shall have the authority to fix the compensation of directors.

3.12 REMOVAL OF DIRECTORS.

Any director may be removed from office by the stockholders of the corporation only for cause.

No reduction of the authorized number of directors shall have the effect of removing any director prior to the expiration of such director's term of office.

ARTICLE IV - COMMITTEES

4.1 COMMITTEES OF DIRECTORS.

The Board may, by resolution passed by a majority of the authorized number of directors, designate one or more committees, each committee to consist of one or more of the directors of the corporation. The Board may designate one or more directors as alternate members of any committee, who may replace any absent or disqualified member at any meeting of the committee. In the absence or disqualification of a member of a committee, the member or members thereof present at any meeting and not disqualified from voting, whether or not such member or members constitute a quorum, may unanimously appoint another member of the Board to act at the meeting in the place of any such absent or disqualified member. Any such committee, to the extent provided in the resolution of the Board or in these bylaws, shall have and may exercise all the powers and authority of the Board in the management of the business and affairs of the corporation, and may authorize the seal of the corporation to be affixed to all papers that may require it; but no such committee shall have the power or authority to (i) approve or adopt, or recommend to the stockholders, any action or matter expressly required by the DGCL to be submitted to stockholders for approval, or (ii) adopt, amend or repeal any bylaw of the corporation.

4.2 COMMITTEE MINUTES.

Each committee shall keep regular minutes of its meetings and report the same to the Board when required.

4.3 MEETINGS AND ACTION OF COMMITTEES.

Meetings and actions of committees shall be governed by, and held and taken in accordance with, the provisions of:

(i) Section 3.6 (place of meetings and meetings by telephone);

(ii) Section 3.7 (regular meetings);

(iii) Section 3.8 (special meetings and notice);

(iv) Section 3.9 (quorum);

(v) Section 7.12 (waiver of notice); and with such changes in the context of those bylaws as are necessary to substitute the committee and its members for the Board and its members.

However:

(i) the time of regular meetings of committees may be determined either by resolution of the Board or by resolution of the committee;

(ii) special meetings of committees may also be called by resolution of the Board; and

(iii) notice of special meetings of committees shall also be given to all alternate members, who shall have the right to attend all meetings of the committee. The Board may adopt rules for the government of any committee not inconsistent with the provisions of these bylaws.

Any officer may resign at any time by giving written notice to the corporation. Any resignation shall take effect at the date of the receipt of that notice or at any later time specified in that notice. Unless otherwise specified in the notice of resignation, the acceptance of the resignation shall not be necessary to make it effective. Any resignation is without prejudice to the rights, if any, of the corporation under any contract to which the officer is a party.

5.5 VACANCIES IN OFFICES.

Any vacancy occurring in any office of the corporation shall be filled by the Board or as provided in Section 5.2.

5.6 REPRESENTATION OF SHARES OF OTHER CORPORATIONS.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

ARTICLE VI - RECORDS AND REPORTS

6.1 MAINTENANCE AND INSPECTION OF RECORDS.

The corporation shall, either at its principal executive office or at such place or places as designated by the Board, keep a record of its stockholders listing their names and addresses and the number and class of shares held by each stockholder, a copy of these bylaws as amended to date, accounting books, and other records.

Any stockholder of record, in person or by attorney or other agent, shall, upon written demand under oath stating the purpose thereof, have the right during the usual hours for business to inspect for any proper purpose the corporation's stock ledger, a list of its stockholders, and its other books and records and to make copies or extracts therefrom. A proper purpose shall mean a purpose reasonably related to such person's interest as a stockholder. In every instance where an attorney or other agent is the person who seeks the right to inspection, the demand under oath shall be accompanied by a power of attorney or such other writing that authorizes the attorney or other agent so to act on behalf of the stockholder. The demand under oath shall be directed to the corporation at its registered office in Delaware or at its principal executive office.

6.2 INSPECTION BY DIRECTORS.

Any director shall have the right to examine the corporation's stock ledger, a list of its stockholders, and its other books and records for a purpose reasonably related to his or her position as a director. The Court of Chancery is hereby vested with the exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether a director is entitled to the inspection sought. The Court may summarily order the corporation to permit the director to inspect any and all books and records, the stock ledger, and the stock list and to make copies or extracts therefrom. The Court may, in its discretion, prescribe any limitations or conditions with reference to the inspection, or award such other and further relief as the Court may deem just and proper.

ARTICLE VII - GENERAL MATTERS

7.1 EXECUTION OF CORPORATE CONTRACTS AND INSTRUMENTS.

The Board, except as otherwise provided in these bylaws, may authorize any officer or officers, or agent or agents, to enter into any contract or execute any instrument in the name of and on behalf of the corporation; such authority may be general or confined to specific instances. Unless so authorized or ratified by the Board or within the agency power of an officer, no officer, agent or employee shall have any power or authority to bind the corporation by any contract or engagement or to pledge its credit or to render it liable for any purpose or for any amount.

7.2 STOCK CERTIFICATES; PARTLY PAID SHARES.

The shares of the corporation shall be represented by certificates, provided that the Board may provide by resolution or resolutions that some or all of any or all classes or series of its stock shall be uncertificated shares. Any such resolution shall not apply to shares represented by a certificate until such certificate is surrendered to the corporation. Notwithstanding the adoption of such a resolution by the Board, every holder of stock represented by certificates and upon request every holder of uncertificated shares shall be entitled to have a certificate signed by, or in the name of the corporation by the chairperson or vice-chairperson of the Board, or the president or vice-president, and by the treasurer or an assistant treasurer, or the secretary or an assistant secretary of such corporation representing the number of shares registered in certificate form.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

Any or all of the signatures on the certificate may be a facsimile. In case any officer, transfer agent or registrar who has signed or whose facsimile signature has been placed upon a certificate has ceased to be such officer, transfer agent or registrar before such certificate is issued, it may be issued by the corporation with the same effect as if he were such officer, transfer agent or registrar at the date of issue.

B1-10

Table of Contents

The corporation may issue the whole or any part of its shares as partly paid and subject to call for the remainder of the consideration to be paid therefor. Upon the face or back of each stock certificate issued to represent any such partly paid shares, upon the books and records of the corporation in the case of uncertificated partly paid shares, the total amount of the consideration to be paid therefor and the amount paid thereon shall be stated. Upon the declaration of any dividend on fully paid shares, the corporation shall declare a dividend upon partly paid shares of the same class, but only upon the basis of the percentage of the consideration actually paid thereon.

7.3 SPECIAL DESIGNATION ON CERTIFICATES.

If the corporation is authorized to issue more than one class of stock or more than one series of any class, then the powers, the designations, the preferences, and the relative, participating, optional or other special rights of each class of stock or series thereof and the qualifications, limitations or restrictions of such preferences and/or rights shall be set forth in full or summarized on the face or back of the certificate that the corporation shall issue to represent such class or series of stock; provided, however, that, except as otherwise provided in Section 202 of the DGCL, in lieu of the foregoing requirements there may be set forth on the face or back of the certificate that the corporation shall issue to represent such class or series of stock a statement that the corporation will furnish without charge to each stockholder who so requests the powers, the designations, the preferences, and the relative, participating, optional or other special rights of each class of stock or series thereof and the qualifications, limitations or restrictions of such preferences and/or rights.

7.4 LOST CERTIFICATES.

Except as provided in this Section 7.5, no new certificates for shares shall be issued to replace a previously issued certificate unless the latter is surrendered to the corporation and cancelled at the same time. The corporation may issue a new certificate of stock or uncertificated shares in the place of any certificate theretofore issued by it, alleged to have been lost, stolen or destroyed, and the corporation may require the owner of the lost, stolen or destroyed certificate, or such owner's legal representative, to give the corporation a bond sufficient to indemnify it against any claim that may be made against it on account of the alleged loss, theft or destruction of any such certificate or the issuance of such new certificate or uncertificated shares.

7.5 CONSTRUCTION; DEFINITIONS.

Unless the context requires otherwise, the general provisions, rules of construction and definitions in the DGCL shall govern the construction of these bylaws. Without limiting the generality of this provision, the singular number includes the plural, the plural number includes the singular, and the term "person" includes both a corporation and a natural person.

7.6 DIVIDENDS.

The Board, subject to any restrictions contained in either (i) the DGCL, or (ii) the certificate of incorporation, may declare and pay dividends upon the shares of its capital stock. Dividends may be paid in cash, in property, or in shares of the corporation's capital stock.

The Board may set apart out of any of the funds of the corporation available for dividends a reserve or reserves for any proper purpose and may abolish any such reserve. Such purposes shall include but not be limited to equalizing dividends, repairing or maintaining any property of the corporation, and meeting contingencies.

7.7 FISCAL YEAR.

The fiscal year of the corporation shall be fixed by resolution of the Board and may be changed by the Board.

7.8 SEAL.

The corporation may adopt a corporate seal, which shall be adopted and which may be altered by the Board. The corporation may use the corporate seal by causing it or a facsimile thereof to be impressed or affixed or in any other manner reproduced.

7.9 TRANSFER OF STOCK.

Upon surrender to the corporation or the transfer agent of the corporation of a certificate for shares duly endorsed or accompanied by proper evidence of succession, assignation or authority to transfer, it shall be the duty of the corporation to issue a new certificate to the person entitled thereto, cancel the old certificate, and record the transaction in its books.

7.10 STOCK TRANSFER AGREEMENTS.

The corporation shall have power to enter into and perform any agreement with any number of stockholders of any one or more classes of stock of the corporation to restrict the transfer of shares of stock of the corporation of any one or more classes owned by such stockholders in any manner not prohibited by the DGCL.

7.11 REGISTERED STOCKHOLDERS.

The corporation:

(i) shall be entitled to recognize the exclusive right of a person registered on its books as the owner of shares to receive dividends and to vote as such owner;

(ii) shall be entitled to hold liable for calls and assessments the person registered on its books as the owner of shares; and

(iii) shall not be bound to recognize any equitable or other claim to or interest in such share or shares on the part of another person, whether or not it shall have express or other notice thereof, except as otherwise provided by the laws of Delaware.

7.12 WAIVER OF NOTICE.

Whenever notice is required to be given under any provision of the DGCL, the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws, a written waiver, signed by the person entitled to notice, or a waiver by electronic transmission by the person entitled to notice, whether before or after the time of the event for which notice is to be given, shall be deemed equivalent to notice. Attendance of a person at a meeting shall constitute a waiver of notice of such meeting, except when the person attends a meeting for the express purpose of objecting at the beginning of the meeting, to the transaction of any business because the meeting is not lawfully called or convened. Neither the business to be transacted at, nor the purpose of, any regular or special meeting of the stockholders need be specified in any written waiver of notice or any waiver by electronic transmission unless so required by the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws.

ARTICLE VIII - NOTICE BY ELECTRONIC TRANSMISSION

8.1 NOTICE BY ELECTRONIC TRANSMISSION.

Without limiting the manner by which notice otherwise may be given effectively to stockholders pursuant to the DGCL, the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws, any notice to stockholders given by the corporation under any provision of the DGCL, the certificate of incorporation or these bylaws shall be effective if given by a form of electronic transmission consented to by the stockholder to whom the notice is given. Any such consent shall be revocable by the stockholder by written notice to the corporation. Any such consent shall be deemed revoked if:

(i) the corporation is unable to deliver by electronic transmission two consecutive notices given by the corporation in accordance with such consent; and

Table of Contents

(ii) such inability becomes known to the secretary or an assistant secretary of the corporation or to the transfer agent, or other person responsible for the giving of notice.

However, the inadvertent failure to treat such inability as a revocation shall not invalidate any meeting or other action.

Any notice given pursuant to the preceding paragraph shall be deemed given:

(i) if by facsimile telecommunication, when directed to a number at which the stockholder has consented to receive notice;

(ii) if by electronic mail, when directed to an electronic mail address at which the stockholder has consented to receive notice;

(iii) if by a posting on an electronic network together with separate notice to the stockholder of such specific posting, upon the later of (A) such posting and (B) the giving of such separate notice; and

(iv) if by any other form of electronic transmission, when directed to the stockholder.

An affidavit of the secretary or an assistant secretary or of the transfer agent or other agent of the corporation that the notice has been given by a form of electronic transmission shall, in the absence of fraud, be prima facie evidence of the facts stated therein.

8.2 DEFINITION OF ELECTRONIC TRANSMISSION.

An electronic transmission means any form of communication, not directly involving the physical transmission of paper, that creates a record that may be retained, retrieved, and reviewed by a recipient thereof, and that may be directly reproduced in paper form by such a recipient through an automated process.

8.3 INAPPLICABILITY.

Notice by a form of electronic transmission shall not apply to Sections 164, 296, 311, 312 or 324 of the DGCL.

ARTICLE IX - INDEMNIFICATION

9.1 INDEMNIFICATION OF DIRECTORS AND OFFICERS

The corporation shall indemnify and hold harmless, to the fullest extent permitted by the DGCL as it presently exists or may hereafter be amended, any director or officer of the corporation who was or is made or is threatened to be made a party or is otherwise involved in any action, suit or proceeding, whether civil, criminal, administrative or investigative (a Proceeding) by reason of the fact that he or she, or a person for whom he or she is the legal representative, is or was a director, officer, employee or agent of the corporation or is or was serving at the request of the corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust, enterprise or non-profit entity, including service with respect to employee benefit plans, against all liability and loss suffered and expenses reasonably incurred by such person in connection with any such Proceeding. The corporation shall be required to indemnify a person in connection with a Proceeding initiated by such person only if the Proceeding was authorized by the Board.

9.2 INDEMNIFICATION OF OTHERS

The corporation shall have the power to indemnify and hold harmless, to the extent permitted by applicable law as it presently exists or may hereafter be amended, any employee or agent of the corporation who was or is made or is threatened to be made a party or is otherwise involved in any Proceeding by reason of the fact that he or she, or a person for whom he or she is the legal representative, is or was an employee or agent of the corporation or is or was serving at the request of the corporation as a director, officer, employee or agent of another corporation or of a partnership, joint venture, trust, enterprise or non-profit entity, including service with respect to employee benefit plans, against all liability and loss suffered and expenses reasonably incurred by such person in connection with any such Proceeding.

9.3 PREPAYMENT OF EXPENSES

The corporation shall pay the expenses incurred by any officer or director of the corporation, and may pay the expenses incurred by any employee or agent of the corporation, in defending any Proceeding in advance of its final disposition; provided, however, that the payment of expenses incurred by a person in advance of the final disposition of the Proceeding shall be made only upon receipt of an undertaking by the person to repay all amounts advanced if it should be ultimately determined that the person is not entitled to be indemnified under this Article IX or otherwise.

9.4 DETERMINATION; CLAIM

If a claim for indemnification or payment of expenses under this Article IX is not paid in full within sixty days after a written claim therefor has been received by the corporation the claimant may file suit to recover the unpaid amount of such claim and, if successful in whole or in part, shall be entitled to be paid the expense of prosecuting such claim. In any such action the corporation shall have the burden of proving that the claimant was not entitled to the requested indemnification or payment of expenses under applicable law.

9.5 NON-EXCLUSIVITY OF RIGHTS

The rights conferred on any person by this Article IX shall not be exclusive of any other rights which such person may have or hereafter acquire under any statute, provision of the certificate of incorporation, these bylaws, agreement, vote of stockholders or disinterested directors or otherwise.

The Board of Directors

Nanometrics Incorporated

1550 Buckeye Drive

Milpitas, CA 95035

Members of The Board of Directors:

You have requested our opinion as to the fairness, from a financial point of view, to holders of common stock, no par value, of Nanometrics Incorporated (Nanometrics), a California corporation (Nanometrics Common Stock), of the Exchange Ratio (as defined below) set forth in that certain draft Agreement and Plan of Merger and Reorganization, dated as of January 20, 2005 (the Agreement), among Nanometrics, Major League Merger Corporation (Merger Sub 1), a Minnesota corporation and a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics, Minor League Merger Corporation (Merger Sub 2), a Delaware corporation and a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics and August Technology Corporation (August), a Minnesota corporation. The Agreement provides for, among other things, (a) the merger of Nanometrics with and into Merger Sub 2 (the Migratory Merger), with Merger Sub 2 as the surviving corporation of such merger (such surviving corporation being referred to in the Agreement and herein as August Nanometrics), and (b) the merger of Merger Sub 1 with and into August (the August Merger), in a transaction pursuant to which each outstanding share of common stock, no par value of August (August Common Stock), will be converted into the right to receive 0.6401 of a share (the Exchange Ratio) of common stock, par value $0.001 per share, of August Nanometrics (August Nanometrics Common Stock). You have informed us, and we have assumed, that the Migratory Merger and the August Merger (the Mergers) each will be treated as a tax-free reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended. The terms and conditions of the Mergers are more fully set out in the Agreement.

Adams Harkness, Inc. (Adams Harkness), as part of its investment banking activities, is regularly engaged in the valuation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, underwritings, distributions of listed and unlisted securities, private placements and valuations for corporate and other purposes. In the ordinary course of our business, we may actively trade or hold long or short positions of the equity securities of Nanometrics and/or August for either our customers or our own account. We have been engaged to act as financial advisor to the Board of Directors of Nanometrics in connection with this transaction and will receive a fee for our services, a portion of which is contingent upon the consummation of the Mergers. In addition, Nanometrics has agreed to indemnify us against certain liabilities arising out of our engagement including the rendering of our opinion set forth herein (our Fairness Opinion) and other matters, all as more fully described in that certain letter agreement dated December 9, 2004, by and between Adams Harkness and Nanometrics. Adams Harkness also acted as a managing underwriter in August s June 2000 initial public offering and in August s September 2003 follow-on equity offering.

For purposes of developing our Fairness Opinion, we have among other things:

1. reviewed certain publicly available financial statements and other business and financial information of Nanometrics and August, respectively, and have assumed that there has been no material change in the assets, financial condition, business or prospects of Nanometrics or August, since the respective dates of the most recent financial statements made available to us;

3. considered certain financial forecasts, projections and analyses and other forward-looking financial information prepared by the management teams of Nanometrics and August, respectively, and have assumed that the financial results reflected in such forecasts, projections and analyses and other forward-looking financial information will be realized in the amounts and at the times projected;
4. discussed the past and current operations and financial condition, and the prospects of Nanometrics and August, including information relating to strategic, financial and operational benefits anticipated from the Mergers, with senior executives of Nanometrics and August, respectively, including discussions with such senior executives concerning cost savings and other synergies that are expected to result from the Mergers as well as their assessment of the strategic rationale for, and potential benefits of, the Mergers;
5. reviewed certain publicly available research estimates of research analysts regarding Nanometrics and August, respectively;
6. reviewed the reported trading prices and trading activity for Nanometrics Common Stock and August Common Stock, respectively, as well as publicly-available earnings estimates for Nanometrics and August, respectively;
7. compared the financial performance of Nanometrics and August and the trading prices and trading activity of Nanometrics Common Stock and August Common Stock, respectively, with that of certain other publicly-traded companies and their securities that we deemed relevant;
8. reviewed the financial terms, to the extent publicly available, of certain acquisition and merger of equals transactions that we deemed relevant;
9. reviewed and analyzed the potential pro forma financial effects of the Mergers;
10. reviewed and analyzed the capitalization of Nanometrics and August, respectively, as well as the projected pro forma capitalization of August Nanometrics after giving effect to the Mergers;
11. reviewed drafts of the Agreement and certain related documentation dated January 20, 2005 (collectively, the Draft Merger Documentation), and the financial terms and conditions set forth therein, as well as the schedules thereto, and have assumed that the final forms of the Agreement and related documentation and the schedules thereto will not vary in any regard that is material to our analysis from the versions included in the Draft Merger Documentation, and that the Mergers will be consummated in accordance with the terms thereof, including that in all respects material to our analysis, the representations and warranties made by the parties thereto are accurate and complete and the parties will comply with all of their covenants set forth therein; and

12. made such other studies and inquiries, and reviewed such other data, and considered such other factors as we have deemed, in our sole judgment, to be necessary, appropriate or relevant.

In connection with our review and arriving at our Fairness Opinion, we have not independently verified any information received from Nanometrics and August or their representatives or otherwise made available to us, have relied on such information, and have assumed that all such information is complete and accurate in all material respects. We have also relied on the assurances of the respective management teams of Nanometrics and August that they are not aware of any facts that would make such information misleading. With respect to any forecasts, projections and analyses and other forward-looking financial information reviewed by us relating to the prospects of Nanometrics and August, respectively, including information relating to the strategic, financial and operational benefits anticipated from the Mergers, we have assumed that such forecasts, projections and analyses and other forward-looking information have been reasonably prepared or developed on bases reflecting the best currently available estimates and judgments of the management teams of Nanometrics and August, respectively.

We have not conducted, nor have we received copies of, any independent valuation or appraisal of any of the assets of Nanometrics or August, nor have we been furnished with any such appraisals. We have not been requested to conduct and have not conducted a physical inspection of the properties or facilities of Nanometrics or August. We have assumed that any material liabilities (contingent or otherwise, known or unknown) of Nanometrics and August are as set forth in the historic and projected financial statements of each company, respectively. In addition, we have not made an independent evaluation or appraisal of August Nanometrics after the Mergers and accordingly, we express no opinion as to the future prospects, plans or viability of August Nanometrics after the Mergers. We have made no independent investigation of any legal matters involving Nanometrics or August, and we have assumed the correctness of all statements with respect to legal matters made or otherwise provided to you and us by Nanometrics' counsel or by August's counsel.

Our Fairness Opinion is necessarily based on financial, economic and securities market conditions prevailing as of the date hereof, and on the conditions and prospects, financial and otherwise, of Nanometrics and August as known to us on the date hereof. We have also taken into account our assessment of general economic, market and financial conditions and our experience in similar transactions, as well as our experience in securities valuation in general. It should be understood that (i) subsequent developments may affect the conclusions expressed in this Fairness Opinion if it were to be rendered as of a later date, and (ii) we disclaim any obligation to advise any person of any change in any matter affecting this Fairness Opinion that may come to our attention after the date of this Fairness Opinion. We have not undertaken to reaffirm or revise this Fairness Opinion or otherwise comment upon any events occurring after the delivery hereof and do not have any obligation to update, revise or reaffirm this Fairness Opinion.

We have also assumed that, in the course of obtaining necessary regulatory and third party approvals and consents for the Mergers, no modification, delay, limitation, restriction, or conditions will be imposed that will have an adverse effect on Nanometrics, August, August Nanometrics or the contemplated benefits of the Mergers, and that the Mergers will be consummated in accordance with the terms of the Agreement, without waiver, modification or amendment of any material term, condition or agreement therein.

This letter and our Fairness Opinion set forth herein are directed to and for the information of the Board of Directors of Nanometrics only and may not be relied upon by any other person or used for any other purpose without our prior written consent, except that a copy of this letter may be included in its entirety in any filing required to be made by Nanometrics with the Securities and Exchange Commission in connection with the Agreement or the Mergers. This Fairness Opinion does not address the relative merits of the Agreement or the Mergers or other business strategies that might be available to Nanometrics, the decision of the Board of Directors of Nanometrics to proceed with the Agreement or the Mergers, or the prices at which (i) Nanometrics' Common Stock will trade following the announcement of the Agreement; or (ii) August Nanometrics Common Stock will trade following the consummation of the Mergers. We express no opinion or recommendation as to how the stockholders of Nanometrics should vote at the stockholders' meeting held in connection with the proposed adoption of the Agreement and approval of the Mergers by such stockholders.

Except as provided above, this letter is not to be reproduced, summarized, described or referred to or given to any other person or otherwise made public or used for any other purpose, or published or referred to at any time, in whole or in part, without our prior written consent.

Based upon and subject to the foregoing, and in reliance thereon, it is our opinion that, as of the date hereof, the Exchange Ratio is fair, from a financial point of view, to holders of Nanometrics Common Stock.

Sincerely,

ADAMS HARKNESS, INC.

Opinion of Needham & Company, Inc.

Board of Directors

August Technology Corporation

4900 West 78th Street

Bloomington, MN 55435

Ladies and Gentlemen:

We understand that Nanometrics Incorporated ("Nanometrics"), August Technology Corporation ("August"), and two wholly-owned subsidiaries of Nanometrics ("Merger Sub 1" and "Merger Sub 2") propose to enter into an Agreement and Plan of Merger and Reorganization (the "Merger Agreement") whereby, upon the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in the Merger Agreement, Merger Sub 1 will be merged with and into August and August will continue as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Nanometrics (the "Merger"). Immediately prior to the Merger, Nanometrics will have reincorporated into Delaware through a merger with and into Merger Sub 2 (unless the context otherwise requires, both the predecessor and surviving corporation are herein referred to as "Nanometrics," while the surviving corporation is sometimes referred to herein as "B"). The terms and conditions of the Merger will be set forth more fully in the Merger Agreement.

Pursuant to the proposed Merger Agreement, we understand that at the August Merger Effective Time (as defined in the Merger Agreement), each issued and outstanding share of common stock, no par value per share, of August ("August Common Stock") will be converted into the right to receive shares of common stock, $0.001 par value, of Nanometrics Delaware ("Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock") equal to the Exchange Ratio (as defined below). The Exchange Ratio shall equal 0.6401 shares of Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock for each share of August Common Stock.

You have asked us to advise you as to the fairness, from a financial point of view, to the holders of August Common Stock of the Exchange Ratio pursuant to the Merger Agreement.

Edgar Filing: NANOMETRICS INC - Form S-4

For purposes of this opinion we have, among other things: (i) reviewed a draft of the Merger Agreement dated January 20, 2005; (ii) reviewed certain publicly available information concerning Nanometrics and August and certain other relevant financial and operating data of Nanometrics and August furnished to us by Nanometrics and August; (iii) reviewed the historical stock prices and trading volumes of the common stock of Nanometrics (Nanometrics Common Stock) and August Common Stock; (iv) held discussions with members of management of Nanometrics and August concerning their current and future business prospects and joint prospects for the combined companies, including the potential cost savings and other synergies that may be achieved by the combined companies; (v) reviewed certain research analyst projections with respect to Nanometrics and held discussions with members of the management of Nanometrics concerning those projections; (vi) reviewed certain financial forecasts with respect to August and Nanometrics prepared by the respective managements of August and Nanometrics and held discussions with members of such management concerning those forecasts; (vii) compared certain publicly available financial data of companies whose securities are traded in the public markets and that we deemed relevant to similar data for August; (viii) reviewed the financial terms of certain other business combinations that we deemed generally relevant; and (ix) performed and/or considered such other studies, analyses, inquiries and investigations as we deemed appropriate.

In connection with our review and in arriving at our opinion, we have assumed and relied on the accuracy and completeness of all of the financial and other information reviewed by us for purposes of this opinion and have neither attempted to verify independently nor assumed responsibility for verifying any of such information. In addition, we have assumed, with your consent, that the Merger will qualify as a reorganization within the meaning of Section 368(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 and that the Merger will be consummated upon the terms and subject to the conditions set forth in the draft Merger Agreement dated January 20, 2005 without material alteration or waiver thereof. With respect to the financial forecasts for August and Nanometrics provided to us by their respective management and the joint prospects of the combined companies, we have assumed, with your consent and based upon discussions with such management, that such forecasts have been reasonably prepared on bases reflecting the best currently available estimates and judgments of such management, at the time of preparation, of the future operating and financial performance of August and Nanometrics and the combined companies, and we have relied, without independent verification, upon the estimates of such management of the potential cost savings and other synergies, including the amount and timing thereof, that may be achieved as a result of the proposed Merger. With respect to the research analyst projections for Nanometrics, we have assumed, with your consent and based upon discussions with the management of Nanometrics, that such projections represent reasonable estimates as to the future financial performance of Nanometrics. We express no opinion with respect to any of such forecasts, projections or estimates or the assumptions on which they were based. We have relied on advice of counsel and independent accountants to August as to all legal and financial reporting matters with respect to August, the Merger and the Merger Agreement. We have not assumed any responsibility for or made or obtained any independent evaluation, appraisal or physical inspection of the assets or liabilities of Nanometrics or August. Further, our opinion is based on economic, monetary and market conditions as they exist and can be evaluated as of the date hereof and we assume no responsibility to update or revise our opinion based upon circumstances and events occurring after the date hereof. Our opinion as expressed herein is limited to the fairness, from a financial point of view, to the holders of August Common Stock of the Exchange Ratio pursuant to the Merger Agreement and does not address August's underlying business decision to engage in the Merger or the relative merits of the Merger as compared to other business strategies that might be available to August. Our opinion does not constitute a recommendation to any shareholder of August as to how such shareholder should vote with respect to the proposed Merger.

We are not expressing any opinion as to the value of Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock when issued pursuant to the Merger or the prices at which Nanometrics Delaware Common Stock, Nanometrics Common Stock or August Common Stock will actually trade at any time.

Needham & Company, Inc., as part of its investment banking business, is regularly engaged in the valuation of businesses and their securities in connection with mergers and acquisitions, negotiated underwritings, secondary distributions of securities, private placements and other purposes. We have been engaged by August as financial advisor in connection with the Merger and to render this opinion and will receive a fee for our services, a substantial portion of which is contingent on the consummation of the Merger. In addition, August has agreed to indemnify us for certain liabilities arising out of our role as financial advisor and out of the rendering of this opinion and to reimburse us for our reasonable out-of-pocket expenses. We have in the past provided and may in the future provide investment banking and financial advisory services to August and Nanometrics unrelated to the proposed Merger, for which services we have received and expect to receive compensation. In the ordinary course of our business, we may actively trade the equity securities of August and Nanometrics for our own account or for the accounts of customers or affiliates and, accordingly, may at any time hold a long or short position in such securities.

Item 22. Undertakings

(1) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes as follows: that prior to any public reoffering of the securities registered hereunder through use of a prospectus which is a part of this registration statement, by any person or party who is deemed to be an underwriter within the meaning of Rule 145(c), the issuer undertakes that such reoffering prospectus will contain the information called for by the applicable registration form with respect to reofferings by persons who may be deemed underwriters, in addition to the information called for by the other items of the applicable form.

(2) The registrant undertakes that every prospectus (i) that is filed pursuant to paragraph (i) immediately preceding, or (ii) that purports to meet the requirements of Section 10(a)(3) of the Securities Act of 1933 (the Act), and is used in connection with an offering of securities subject to Rule 415, will be filed as a part of an amendment to the registration statement and will not be used until such amendment is effective, and that, for purposes of determining any liability under the Act, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(3) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes that, for purposes of determining any liability under the Securities Act, each filing of the registrant's annual report pursuant to Section 13(a) or Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (and, where applicable, each filing of an employee benefit plan's annual report pursuant to Section 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934) that is incorporated by reference in the registration statement shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(4) Insofar as indemnification for liabilities arising under the Act may be permitted to directors, officers and controlling persons of the registrant pursuant to the foregoing provisions hereof, or otherwise, the registrant has been advised that in the opinion of the Securities and Exchange Commission such indemnification is against public policy as expressed in the Act and is, therefore, unenforceable. In the event that a claim for indemnification against such liabilities (other than the payment by the registrant of expenses incurred or paid by a director, officer or controlling person of the registrant in the successful defense of any action, suit or proceeding) is asserted by such director, officer or controlling person in connection with the securities being registered, the registrant will, unless in the opinion of its counsel the matter has been settled by controlling precedent, submit to a court of appropriate jurisdiction the question whether such indemnification by it is against public policy as expressed in the Act and will be governed by the final adjudication of such issue.

(5) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes to respond to requests for information that is incorporated by reference into the prospectus pursuant to Items 4, 10(b), 11 or 13 of this form, within one business day of receipt of such request, and to send the incorporated documents by first class mail or other equally prompt means. This includes information contained in documents filed subsequent to the effective date of the registration statement through the date of responding to the request.

(6) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes to supply by means of a post-effective amendment all information concerning a transaction, and the company being acquired involved therein, that was not the subject of and included in the registration statement when it became effective.

(7) The undersigned registrant hereby undertakes:

(A) To file, during any period in which offers or sales are being made, a post-effective amendment to this registration statement:

(i) To include any prospectus required by Section 10(a)(3) of the Act;

(ii) To reflect in the prospectus any facts or events arising after the effective date of the registration statement (or the most recent post-effective amendment thereof) which, individually or in the aggregate, represent a fundamental change in the information set forth in the registration statement. Notwithstanding the foregoing, any increase or decrease in volume of securities offered (if the total dollar value of securities offered would not exceed that which was registered) and any deviation from the low or high end of the estimated maximum offering range may be reflected in the form of prospectus filed with the Commission pursuant to Rule 424(b) under the Act if, in the aggregate, the changes in amount and price represent no more than a 20 percent change in the maximum aggregate offering price set forth in the Calculation of Registration Fee table in the effective registration statement;

(iii) To include any material information with respect to the plan of distribution not previously disclosed in the registration statement or any material change to such information in the registration statement;

provided, however, that paragraphs (A)(i) and (A)(ii) do not apply if the registration statement is on Form S-3, Form S-8 or Form F-3, and the information required to be included in a post-effective amendment by those paragraphs is contained in periodic reports filed with or furnished to the Commission by the registrant pursuant to Section 13 or 15(d) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 that are incorporated by reference into the registration statement.

(B) That, for the purpose of determining any liability under the Securities Act of 1933, each such post-effective amendment shall be deemed to be a new registration statement relating to the securities offered therein, and the offering of such securities at that time shall be deemed to be the initial bona fide offering thereof.

(C) To remove from registration by means of a post-effective amendment any of the securities being registered which remain unsold at the termination of the offering.
