Item 2.05 Costs Associated with Exit or Disposal Activities.

On December 11, 2008, Diodes Incorporated (the Company) approved a plan to respond to the recent severe economic downturn worldwide by reducing its workforce. On December 15, 2008, the Company informed the affected employees and expects the reduction in workforce to achieve savings in operating costs.

The Company proposed to make up to 80 jobs (approximately 15% of its European workforce) redundant at its UK operations in Oldham, which it expects to complete by the end of the first quarter of 2009. The Company has also made additional immaterial reductions in its worldwide workforce. The Company will record a charge of approximately $2.8 to $3.5 million in the fourth quarter of 2008 for severance costs associated with the reduction in workforce. All severance costs associated with the reduction in workforce will result in future cash expenditures. The Company expects to pay a portion of the severance costs in the fourth quarter of 2008 and the remaining balance in the first quarter of 2009.

The Company expects the reduction in workforce to yield an approximate $3.0 million to $4.0 million pre-tax annual cost savings beginning first quarter of 2009.

Item 7.01 Regulation FD Disclosure.

On December 11, 2008, the Company issued a press release to update its guidance for the fourth quarter of 2008 and announce the repurchase of $46.5 million of its $230 million 2.25% Convertible Senior Notes due 2026. A copy of the press release is attached as Exhibit 99.1.

ADJUSTED EARNINGS PER SHARE

In the press release, the Company utilized a financial measure and term not calculated in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States (GAAP) in order to provide investors with an alternative method for assessing its expected operating results in a manner that enables investors to more thoroughly evaluate our current expected performance as compared to past performance. We also believe this non-GAAP measure provides investors with a more informed baseline for modeling the Company's expected future financial performance. Our management uses this non-GAAP measure for the same purpose. We believe that our investors should have access to, and that we are obligated to provide, the same set of tools that we use in estimating our results. This non-GAAP measure should be considered in addition to estimated results prepared in accordance with GAAP, but should not be considered a substitute for or superior to GAAP estimated results. We have provided definitions for the non-GAAP financial measure, together with an explanation of why management uses this measure and why management believes that this non-GAAP financial measure is useful to investors below.

This non-GAAP financial measure is the portion of the Company's GAAP estimated net income assigned to each share of stock, excluding estimated purchase accounting impact on earnings and estimated gain on extinguishment of debt as described below. Excluding the estimated gain on extinguishment of debt provides investors with a better depiction of the Company's expected operating results and provides a more informed baseline for modeling future earnings expectations. Excluding the estimated amortization of acquisition-related intangible assets allows for comparison of our current expected and historic operating performance. This non-GAAP measure should be considered in addition to estimated results prepared in accordance with GAAP but should not be considered a substitute for or superior to GAAP estimated results and may differ from measures used by other companies. We recommend that a review of estimated EPS on both a non-GAAP basis and GAAP basis be performed to get a comprehensive view of our estimated results.

Amortization of acquisition-related intangible assets The Company has excluded the estimated amortization of Zetex acquisition-related intangible assets, including developed technologies, customer relationships and trade name from its estimated non-GAAP results. The fair value of the acquisition-related intangible assets, which was allocated to the assets through purchase accounting, is amortized using straight-line methods which approximate the proportion of future cash flows estimated to be generated each period over the estimated useful lives of the applicable assets. We believe that the exclusion of the estimated amortization expense of acquisition-related assets is appropriate as a significant portion of the purchase price for the acquisition was allocated to the intangible assets that have short lives, and the exclusion of the estimated amortization expense allows comparisons of estimated operating results that are consistent over time for both the Company's newly acquired and long-held businesses. In addition, we exclude the estimated amortization expense as there is significant variability and unpredictability across companies with respect to this expense.

Gain on extinguishment of debt The Company will record a one-time non-cash gain on extinguishment of debt related to the difference between the face value of the 2.25% Convertible Senior Notes due 2026 and the cash paid, net of tax. The Company repurchased $46.5 million face value Convertible Senior Notes during the fourth quarter of 2008 for approximately $23.2 million in cash. This estimated extinguishment of debt gain is excluded from management's assessment of our estimated operating performance for the fourth quarter of 2008. We believe that the exclusion of the non-recurring estimated extinguishment of debt provides investors an enhanced view of similar one-time adjustments that the Company may incur from time to time and facilitates comparisons with the results of other periods that may not reflect such gains.
